Carter is now just a stone's throw from nomination

By DAVE GOLDBERG
Associated Press Writer

Jimmy Carter, at best an outsider when the primaries began, has capped his run from nowhere with a delegate harvest that puts him within a few quick moves of the Democratic presidential nomination.

For the Republicans, the end of the primaries means a continuation of Ronald Reagan's challenge to President Ford.

Carter won only in Ohio of the three big states that held primaries on Tuesday. But he picked up more than 200 delegates, and all his rivals but one seemed ready to concede him the nomination.

The one who said he won't quit chasing Carter is Jerry Brown, who won big in his home state of California and was joined with Hubert Humphrey as preferred candidates on an uncommitted delegate slate that won in New Jersey. "I will go forward," Brown said. "I think the nomination is still open."

Ford and Reagan, meanwhile, fought to a standoff that virtually guarantees a fight to the convention in Kansas City two months from now.

Reagan took the California primary and with it the 167 delegates that go to the winner there. But Ford won almost all of Ohio's 97 delegates and an uncommitted slate that swept New Jersey's 67 delegate spots is packed with the President's supporters.

Here is how the delegate count looks with the primaries over:

Carter, who picked up 218 delegates on Tuesday, now has 1,125 of the 1,505 needed for nomination. His closest pursuer is Rep. Morris K. Udall, who has 334.5. Brown, who won 200 in California, has 225 and a number in the uncommmitted bloc of over 400 delegates.

Ford has a lead over Reagan of 892-868, with 1,130 needed to be the nominee. But Ford's edge is actually greater since no more than a handful of the nominally uncommitted 67-member New Jersey delegation backs Reagan.

As the votes were counted Tuesday and even before, it was clear it would be a day for jumping on the Carter bandwagon.

Carter himself told supporters in Atlanta: "I think I'm going to be the nominee."

And at a news conference, he said he had spoken by telephone during the day with three active rivals, Udall, Frank Church and George Wallace; one inactive rival, Humphrey, and Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago, who controls a bloc of 86 delegates nominally committed to Sen. Adlai Stevenson, a favorite son.

"All of them, as a general group, agreed that I would be the nominee," Carter said.

And that was what just about all of them said, finally conceding defeat after a spring of seeing silver linings in cloudy results.

Udall, speaking to supporters in Cleveland after his ninth second-place finish, congratulated Carter on a "solid victory, and a brilliant campaign." He said Carter is now a heavy favorite for the nomination and said he wouldn't engage in a stop-Carter move. But he added that he would not release his delegates because they "cannot be delivered."

These were the figures on the final primaries:

California

With just over 90 per cent of the precincts counted:
REPUBLICAN
Reagan 1,374,294 or 65 per cent
Ford 727,005 or 35 per cent
Reagan got all 167 delegates under the winner-take-all system.
DEMOCRATIC
Brown 1,831,156 or 59 per cent and 204 delegates.
Carter 633,811 or 20 per cent and 67 delegates.
Church 232,886 or 7 per cent and 7 delegates.
Udall 156,449 or 5 per cent and 2 delegates.
The rest of the vote was scattered among five other entries.

Democratic Sen. John V. Tunney won renomination over one-time student activist Tom Hayden. Conservative educator S. I. Hayakawa won the Republican nomination.

Ohio

With about 90 per cent of the precincts counted:
Ford 471,582 or 55 per cent and 91 delegates.
Reagan 380,784 or 45 per cent and 6 delegates.
Among Democrats:
Carter 535,970 or 52 per cent and 119 delegates.
Udall 219,291 or 21 per cent and 20 delegates.
Church 144,553 or 14 per cent.
The rest of the vote was scattered in the statewide competition for 38 Democratic delegates. Rep. Louis Stokes won six delegates as a favorite son in his home district.

In other Ohio races, Democratic Rep. Wayne Hays, under fire in the Washington sex scandal, won renomination, but by less than usual against a perennial challenger. And former Sen. Howard Metzenbaum defeated Rep. James V. Stanton for the Democratic nomination to run against Sen. Robert Taft Jr.

New Jersey

With just under 90 per cent of the vote counted in Republican delegate competition, a nominally uncommitted slate of party leaders who actually favor Ford won all 67 convention seats.

In the Democratic presidential preference vote, which was only for show since it committed no delegates, 91 per cent of the precincts had been counted.

Carter had 188,261 or 57 per cent.
Church was second with 64,771 or 19 per cent.

HHH's decision will hinge on huddle with Brown, Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, again pondering a last-ditch challenge for the Democratic presidential nomination, said today he will confer with front-runner Jimmy Carter and California Gov. Jerry Brown before announcing his own intentions.

The Minnesota Democrat made his statement to reporters before speaking to a grocers' group. He said he would announce his plans later in the day.

Humphrey acknowledged Carter "has a very comfortable lead, and I think it would be very difficult to really overcome that lead." But he said he is "very pleased" with the victory of uncommitted delegates in New Jersey who support him and Brown.

"But the name of the game ... is the total number of delegates," Humphrey declared.

After conferring with these candidates and with his advisers, Humphrey said he would make a "public announcement."

Brown, Reagan win handily

Both exceed poll predictions

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ronald Reagan and Jerry Brown looked eastward again today after landslide wins in California's presidential primary.

Reagan defeated President Ford in California's winner-take-all Republican primary Tuesday by a margin of 65 per cent to 35 per cent, capturing the 167 delegates that the former California governor needed to stay within striking range of the President.

In the Democratic primary, Brown won nearly 75 per cent of California's 280 presidential delegates. The 38-year-old governor captured 59 per cent of the vote in a field of nine presidential candidates, topping runnerup Jimmy Carter by a 3-1 margin in both delegates and popular vote.

Both Reagan and Brown were expected to win, but their margins were bigger than either the election eve polls or the public estimates of their campaigns.

California was a must-win state for both Brown and Reagan. Their victories, although impressive, do no more than keep their underdog campaigns alive.

And that means another round of coast-to-coast campaign tours for both Reagan and Brown. But now, with the primaries all over, they are courting uncommitted delegates, not voters.

In a victory speech, Brown said again that now he is the only candidate who can beat Carter.

"Jimmy Carter, wherever you are, I'm looking for you. I want to debate you," Brown said. "We are just the beginning. This is just starting..." he said.

Reagan, although still behind Ford in the national delegate count, predicted a first ballot victory in the GOP convention on the strength of his California victory.

He said he will concentrate on meeting uncommitted delegates between now and the Aug. 12 convention, beginning in Missouri Friday.

With 73 per cent of the Republican vote counted, the total was Reagan 1,006,384, Ford 532,841.

With 79 per cent of the vote counted, the Democratic total was:
Brown, 1,595,414, 59 per cent.
Carter, 549,224, 20 per cent.
Church, 207,422, 8 per cent.
Udall, 137,500, 5 per cent.

Nuclear initiative soundly beaten; bingo approved

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California's hotly debated nuclear power safety initiative was resoundingly defeated at the polls, but voters approved legalization of charity bingo games and struck tax blows against insurance companies and other big businesses.

Both a $200 million school bond issue and a $150 million community college bond issue were defeated, but a measure providing property tax deferment for elderly homeowners triumphed.

By about a 2-1 ratio, voters in Tuesday's primary election rejected Prop. 15, which would have started the phaseout of existing nuclear power plants in 1981 and banned new ones unless the legislature approved safety systems.

The defeat had national implications since other states will be considering the safety of nuclear power as an energy solution.

With 85 per cent of the vote counted, the tally was 34 per cent in favor of the initiative and 66 per cent against it. The measure was opposed by utility companies and labor organizations.

Seven in 10 voters saw nothing wrong with bingo when played for charity. Prop. 9, the bingo legalization measure, was passed overwhelmingly.

The vote went about 60 per cent to 40 per cent in favor of Prop. 5, which would allow the legislature to change business taxes with a simple majority vote, rather than the two-thirds majority currently required. The measure was aimed at big business — banks, corporations, franchises and insurers.

Insurance companies received another slap with passage of Prop. 6, which abolishes their home office deduction. Insurance companies have been allowed to deduct property taxes paid on such property from their state insurance taxes.

The vote was about 2 to 1 in favor of the measure.

Here's how the other measures fared Tuesday:

Prop. 1, providing up to $200 million in general obligation bonds for school construction or improvement, particularly energy saving measures, lost, 48 per cent to 52 per cent.

Prop. 2, providing $500 million for more farm and home aid to California veterans, passed by about 63 to 37 per cent.

Prop. 3, a $175 million bond issue to continue state aid in building or repairing local water systems, passed by about a 3-2 margin.

Prop. 4, a $150 million bond issue to help build and equip local community colleges, was rejected, 56 per cent to 44 per cent.

Prop. 7, which would tax historical interest property at a lower rate, passed, 55 per cent to 45 per cent.

Prop. 8, allowing state funds to be deposited in savings and loan institutions as well as banks, passed with almost 75 per cent acceptance.

Prop. 10, permitting the legislature to issue bonds to refinance old state bonds by a two-thirds vote, was rejected. The vote was 46 per cent for it and 54 per cent against it.

Prop. 11, allowing locales to make parks out of surplus highway land, passed with a 6 per cent margin—53 per cent to 47 per cent.

Prop. 12, increasing the limit on interest on certain business loans to the federal reserve bank's prevailing rate plus 7 per cent, was turned down 56 to 44 per cent.

Prop. 13, giving the legislature authority to allow low and moderate income homeowners 62 and over to postpone paying property taxes until they die or sell, was passed, 56 per cent to 44 per cent.

Prop. 14, for technical changes in the state constitution, passed easily with about 70 per cent approval.

Here's rundown on local election results

By L. T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

The list of candidates seeking state and federal offices was reduced Tuesday when area voters selected their political party nominees.

Those chosen will next meet candidates of opposing political parties at the November general election.

Of four local area propositions, two succeeded in Diamond Bar and Mt. Baldy while two in the Chaffey college and Central school districts failed.

In a hotly contested bid for the Republican spot in the 65th Assembly District, Clyde Stephens edged out Don Donnelly by 2,000 votes. Stephens, a member of the Pomona Planning Commission, received 11,677 votes and Donnelly, member of the Pomona school board, 9,644 votes.

Stephens will face Assemblyman Bill McVittie, Democrat, in the November election. McVittie had no primary election opposition. The district includes eastern Los Angeles and western San Bernardino counties.

In the 33rd Congressional District, Ted Snyder, Whittier, a community college administrator, emerged as the Democratic nominee from a field of three candidates. He will face Rep. Del Clawson, Republican incumbent who had no party opposition.

The district extends from Diamond Bar to Whittier, La Mirada and Norwalk.

Betty Wilson, a member of the Santa Fe Springs City Council, defeated two other candidates for the Democratic nomination in the 33rd state Senatorial District.

She will face William Campbell, who gave up his 64th District Assembly seat to seek election in the reapportioned senatorial district.

Campbell defeated three other Republican hopefuls in Tuesday's election.

The district includes Walnut, Diamond Bar, Whittier, Artesia, Norwalk and Downey.

In the 64th Assembly District, James Gonsalves, former deputy to Los Angeles County Supervisor Peter Schabarum, won over two other Democrats and M. David Stirling, a Hacienda Heights counselor-at-law, defeated three other Republicans for their party's nominations.

Larry A. Breazeale of Rowland Heights was unopposed on the American Independent party ticket.

The district extends from Diamond Bar and Walnut to Whittier and La Mirada.

In area ballot measures, Diamond Bar voters approved Proposition CC, a $6.5 million bond issue which allows the Walnut Valley Water District to acquire the Diamond Bar Water Co. Walnut Valley serves 6,500 customers and will add another 5,500 with the Diamond Bar acquisition.

Mt. Baldy voters approved Proposition F, thus insuring a 17.5 per cent cut in the school district tax rate and qualifying the district for an additional $49,000 in school construction funds.

Voters in the Central School District, San Bernardino County, failed to provide the necessasry two-thirds majority vote to approve a $2.5 million bond issue and a $7.5 million state loan. The funds were to be used in constructing new schools and acquiring more school sites.

Voters in the Chaffey College district defeated Measure C which would have allowed the board of trustees to increase its membership from five to seven. The new trustees would have represented the Corona and Norco areas recently annexed.

Rail transit plan is derailed; Van de Kamp is D.A. choice

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For the third time in eight years, Los Angeles County voters have said no to a plan to woo them out of their cars and into trains.

Tuesday's defeat of two measures, which would have raised the sales tax in the county from six to seven cents to help finance the 232-mile, Sunset Coast Line, appears to doom plans for rail transit in the sprawling Los Angeles basin.

County voters also apparently denied former Manson Family prosecutor Vincent Bugliosi a runoff with incumbent John Van de Kamp for the post of district attorney.

Three county supervisors whose terms were expiring all easily won re-election to four-year posts. Supervisor Kenneth Hahn, dean of the five-member board of supervisors, nailed down his seventh term. Supervisors James Hayes and former television newscaster Baxter Ward also won.

Voters turned down a plan to enlarge the Los Angeles city school board from seven to nine members. They also said no to a proposal to elect board members from wards within the sprawling district, rather than at large. Supporters had claimed the change would make the board more responsive to local needs.

Meanwhile, a proposal which would have permitted a school property tax hike of up to 28 cents per $100 assessed valuation appeared headed for defeat.

Voters also turned thumbs down on a plan to cut district residency requirements for supervisor candidates from one year to 30 days.

But voters gave the nod to a ballot measure to remove county department heads from Civil Service requirements. Support came despite warnings the plan could return the spoils system to county government. County supervisors had argued they needed more flexibility to remove "deadwood."

Voter rejection of Ward's $5.8 billion rapid transit measures echoed the defeat of similar rapid transit plans in 1968 and 1974.

The district attorney's race was among the county's bitterest.

Bugliosi, nearly elected district attorney in a 1972 race with the late Joseph P. Busch, charged Van de Kamp has been lax in prosecuting. Bugliosi, author of "Helter Skelter," a book about convicted mass murderer Charles Manson and his followers, also lost a bid for attorney general in 1974.

Van de Kamp, former federal public defender appointed as district attorney after Busch's death last year, claimed Bugliosi distorted statistics to mislead voters.

Mt. Baldy school fund issue passes

Mt. Baldy voters Tuesday approved ballot Proposition F by an 83.3 per cent majority, insuring a 17.5 per cent cut in the school district tax rate and qualifying the district for an additional $49,000 in school construction funds.

The vote count was 110 yes and 22 no. Two-thirds voter approval was necessary for passage of the proposition.

Passage of the proposition lowers the district's tax rate from 59½ to 42 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

It authorizes the three-member Mt. Baldy school board to spend up to $600,000 on school construction. Some $210,000 of that amount was approved last year when voters approved two construction measures by a 68 per cent yes vote.

State law authorizes the small district to obtain a $341,000 loan to build a new school to replace the village-center campus, which does not meet state earthquake safety standards.

Cucamonga bond issue goes down

Voters gave a Central School District bond issue and state loan proposal a majority vote Tuesday but both failed for lack of the needed two-thirds approval.

The principal objective of the proposed measures was to build a new elementary school in Cucamonga.

The $2.5 million bond issue drew a 56.2 per cent favorable vote and the $7.5 million state loan issue, 55 per cent.

For the bond issue, the actual count was: yes, 1,367; no, 1062.

For the state loan it was: yes, 1,320; no, 1077.

Both measures failed in spite of strong support from the Central Teachers Organization and a citizens group.

250 jam session in dispute over special education

By PHYLLIS CANNON
PB Staff Writer

An estimated 250 parents and district employes wedged into City Council Chambers Tuesday night for the Pomona school board meeting, many to defend the district's Compensatory Education Program, some to protest a proposed reorganization of the Education Services Department, and all to hear board President Mary Montes announce that a new superintendent of schools will not be named until June 15.

Seating capacity in the chambers is 153. Seats were filled 20 minutes before the time the meeting was to begin at 7:30 p.m. As people continued to arrive, they found seats on the steps leading to the chamber dias, and on the floor.

Outside speakers were turned on and through a good part of the meeting there were people in the foyer and on the outside chamber steps listening to proceedings.

The meeting began 30 minutes late, with acting schools Supt. Sidney G. Moses explaining the board was in executive session considering the expulsion of three students. Later in the meeting, the three were expelled.

When board members did enter the chambers, Mrs. Montes welcomed the parents and employes and said she recognized most were there "about something not an agenda item, but of importance to this district, the Compensatory Education Program."

She quickly opened the meeting to audience response. Fifteen rose to speak, 13 to defend the program and attack the group calling itself Concerned Parents of the Pomona Unified School District who last week succeeded in bringing about a state review of the program.

Two spoke in defense of the group. They were Chalo Ramirez and Rafael Chavarria chairman of the Concerned Parents group.

"I see a group of parents influenced by principals and teachers to come here and present their views," said Ramirez. "The parents should realize who is using them. If this program is so good in Pomona you should welcome an investigation.

"The Concerned Parents are not trying to shut it down. They recognize some faults in the program, and they have taken their right to speak."

Chavarria said he has presented the group's concerns to the school board on April 6, seen little response and so to speed up the process had sent a letter bearing 14 signatures to the state requesting investigation before 1976-77 funding is approved.

"With the corrections we are requesting, we will have one of the best programs in the state," he said.

Those defending the program were led by Elro Darrington, chairman of the District Advisory Committee, who presented to Mrs. Montes a thick sheaf of petitions bearing 1,956 signatures gathered school by school in support of the program.

Darrington said criticisms made by Concerned Parents — that parents were not involved in planning, that personnel not involved with the program were being paid with program monies, and that unqualified personnel was being hired with program monies — were "invalid. We were not aware of the existence of their concerns until recently. They do not reflect the feelings of parents of 5,000 students in Pomona."

Steve Alvarado, a past DAC chairman said the "accusations are false" and urged "we must work together."

Other speakers were parents and teachers who defended programs at individual schools and told of progress made by children in the program.

State Compensatory Education monies are awarded districts to provide special services for the educationally disadvantaged and the limited and non-English speaking. This year the program brought nearly $2 million into Pomona.

After audience response ended, board member Don Donnelly urged that the board write a letter to state Schools Supt. Wilson Riles welcoming a "review" of the program.

Concerned Parents were informed the end of last week by Manuel Ceja, state director of the program, that James Nelson of the State Elementary Education Field Services, had been insigned to conduct an investigation of the program in Pomona.

"We welcome a look into our program," said Donnelly. "There is always room for improvement. We should take this criticism in the proper light. We have nothing to hide. I'm sure we will get more accolades than anything else."

After the meeting, Chavarria said he was glad the board had taken this "stance in order to correct inequities that do exist."

The school board, even before the Associated Pomona Teachers (APT) could protest the plan to reorganize the Educational Services Department, voted 5-0 to table the matter until after a new superintendent is seated.

HERMAN R. "BOB" FAST

Chino city manager is leaving post

Herman R. "Bob" Fast, Chino's city manager for the past four years, resigned his position Tuesday night to accept a similar job at West Covina.

"I'm going back home," said Fast, who served as assistant city manager and public service director of West Covina from 1965 to 1972, prior to coming to Chino

Fast submitted his resignation, effective July 16, to the City Council, during a closed executive session following a special meeting. Mayor Bob McLeod announced Fast's decision with "sincere regrets."

"We felt fortunate to have you and I know you'll be as successful with West Covina," McLeod stated.

Fast, who was instrumental in the plans for Chino's new Civic Center which is nearly completed, was selected for the West Covina post from a field of about 100 applicants.

The 48-year-old city manager said he has promised one immediate savings to West Covina — he has kept his old nameplate and will bring it back from Chino.

"I leave Chino with mixed emotions," said Fast. "There was such a good relationship between the council, city staff and community that will be hard to find anywhere."

The City Council often has praised Fast and members made it clear they were pleased with his performance. He held the top nonelected position in the city at a time of a tremendous population boom and the coming of new industry.

McLeod said jokingly, after announcing Fast's resignation and waiting for a note from him, "He's one heck of a city manager but poor on shorthand."

Fast will replace George Aiassa, his former boss at West Covina, who recently retired.

Before arriving in Chino to replace Dick Wright, Fast had served seven years in the West Covina administration and more than three years as a West Covina planning commissioner. He worked in private industry before that.

He will be moving from Chino, a city of 30,000, to West Covina, with population of 75,000.

Fast holds a master's degree in civil engineering from University of Minnesota. He and his wife Doris live in Chino.

Diamond Bar water district sale passes with huge vote

Diamond Bar voters overwhelmingly approved Proposition CC on their Tuesday ballots, authorizing a $6½ million bond issue to allow Walnut Valley Water District to acquire the Diamond Bar Water Co.

The vote was 3,926 in favor and 1,080 against — a 78.4 per cent majority approval. A two-thirds vote was needed for passage.

Passage of the proposition suspends consideration of a 38 per cent water rate increase asked by the Diamond Bar Water Co. which was under consideration by the Public Utilities Commission.

Not all the bonds approved will go towards purchase of the water company which will be purchased by Walnut Valley for about $4.9 million.

The remainder will be used to build a small reservoir and a new pump station, for future construction and the upgrading of present water lines. Some will be retained for bond reserves and costs.

Gary Arant, spokesman for Walnut Valley, said the average parcel of land in Diamond Bar would be taxed about $1.90 per $100 of assessed valuation for the bond issue.

Walnut Valley serves some 6,500 customers. It will add another 5,500 with the Diamond Bar acquisition.

Carter to find it easier than cracking a peanut

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

For Jimmy Carter, it may soon be all over but the shouting, with the Democratic presidential nomination in hailing distance.

But Republicans are likely to be shouting at each other before President Ford and Ronald Reagan settle their struggle.

Now, with the long haul of the presidential primary elections at an end, the campaign turns to the final caucuses and state conventions, and to the fence-straddling delegates who have yet to declare a choice.

Carter goes to his task in a dominant position among Democrats, a runaway leader seeking the final commitments to cement his victory.

The closely contested Republican race may become bitter, with Reagan already irate at suggestions that he might risk war, and Ford managers vowing to push that argument.

Ford still holds the Republican lead, but Reagan has narrowed his margin. And they face a battle for custody of every delegate in the nine weeks before the Republican National Convention.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California, runaway winner in his home primary, was the lone Democrat vowing an all-out contest to overtake Carter.

The former Georgia governor said his landslide victory in Ohio, coupled with the delegates he picked up while losing in California and New Jersey, had made other rivals, active or potential, believers in his nomination.

Carter won a presidential preference vote in New Jersey, but it was for show, binding no delegates.

In Republican finales, Reagan captured California with a landslide, while Ford won Ohio and an uncommitted slate which actually favors the President swept New Jersey.

Carter said Tuesday night he had been on the telephone to Humphrey, Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona, Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

"I might say all of them as a general group indicated their belief that I would be the nominee," Carter said. "I believe they unanimously said they would like to see the Democratic party be united... They all disavowed any interest in a stop movement of any kind."

Carter said he didn't think rivals like Udall and Church would stop campaigning. But Udall, his most persistent challenger, and Church, a late entry, both said Carter is in a commanding position.

Brown dissented. "In every state I have gone into, Jimmy Carter has lost," he said. "So I will go forward. I think the Democratic nomination is still open."

Brown said he counted the victory of the uncommitted slate in New Jersey as his own. He campaigned there, for a slate that included supporters of his candidacy along with Democrats who favored Humphrey.

The California governor said he is going to contest Carter for every delegate.

"I believe those candidates who have withdrawn who hold fairly large numbers of delegates, and also the large number of uncommitted delegates, I think they're ready to move," said Carter. "And I think if they do move, I'm so far ahead of the other candidates, I'd be the logical place for them to come.

Udall called Carter a heavy favorite for nomination; Church said the Georgian was very close to victory.

For Ford and Reagan, the next contest is Friday, when they are to appear separately at the Missouri Republican convention in Springfield, before it selects 19 delegates.

There will be more such forays, as 10 other states complete the selection process.

Both Reagan and Ford's campaign managers forecast victory in the end. "I think this train is pulling out," Reagan said as he celebrated in Los Angeles.

Rogers C. B. Morton, Ford's campaign manager, said "we're in great shape to win on the first ballot" at the Republican convention. Both camps talk that way — as though there could be anything but a one-ballot decision in a two-man race.

Morton also said "I thought by this time we would have more delegates than we have."

Tunney, Hayakawa win easily in Senate races

LOS ANGELES (AP) — U.S. Sen. John Tunney will face a former protestor-battling college president when California voters go to the polls in November.

Tunney, the boxer's son who defeated former actor George Murphy to win his seat six years ago, rolled to a surprisingly easy victory Tuesday over former antiwar activist Tom Hayden to capture the Democratic Senate nomination.

In the Republican race, former San Francisco State College President S.I. Hayakawa easily downed three other major GOP candidates.

The 69-year-old Japanese-American semanticist became an overnight hero to many Californians in 1969 when he ripped the wires from a sound truck used by student demonstrators at San Francisco State. The tam-o-shanter he wore that day became his trademark.

With 42 per cent of the vote counted, Tunney had 712,617 votes or 60 per cent to 471,151 or 40 per cent for Hayden, a Chicago 7 trial defendant and husband of actress Jane Fonda.

Hayakawa had 341,172 or 42 per cent while former Lt. Gov. Robert Finch, President Nixon's first secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, had 227,780 or 28 per cent.

Rep. Alphonzo Bell was third with 175,179 or 22 per cent. Former Lt. Gov. John Harmer was a distant fourth with 68,850 or eight per cent.

Both winners won by surprisingly wide margins. A California Poll published Monday showed Hayden trailing Tunney by only seven per cent.

The same survey had Hayakawa and Finch running neck and neck with Bell a close third.

Tunney, the son of former heavyweight champ Gene Tunney, claimed victory shortly before 11 p.m., praising Hayden for an "effective, hard campaign" and urging Hayden supporters to back him in November.

"My hope is that you will join our fight and keep a progressive Democratic voice in the United States Senate," he said.

Hayden called Tunney's win "an empty victory" and said he would run for another political office "when the opportunity presents itself."

Hayden didn't say if he would support Tunney in November but his Southern California campaign manager, Fred Ruf, said he thought there was a "good chance" Hayden would.

A large poster showing Hayakawa atop the demonstrators' sound truck was on the wall as his supporters gathered at a Los Angeles hotel, and Hayakawa said he thought the incident helped him to victory.

"Everybody remembers the events at San Francisco State and I think they are thankful for my efforts there," he said of voters who backed him.

"Through the university the civilization was being threatened and they looked upon me as the savior in that situation. But I believe my role in that situation was exaggerated."

Tunney, 41, said he thought he and Hayakawa should have a series of debates during the fall campaign, and Hayakawa agreed.

"I haven't really thought about it, but since he is a gentleman and a reasonable man it seems to me it would be all right," he said in an interview.

2 gunmen rob market in Pomona

Two men, one armed with a pistol, robbed Art's Market at 701 N. Gibbs St. in Pomona last Tuesday afternoon.

Police said the pair entered, selected a loaf of bread but showed the weapon at the counter. They looted the cash register and took the purse of employe Claudia Blackwood, 36, before fleeing to a waiting car.

The gunman was described as black, 24 to 27, 5 feet 4 weighing 190 pounds. He wore a purple handkerchief over his head, a black jacket and dark trousers.

Held in bank swindle

A suspect in an alleged bank swindle was pursued from the bank in downtown POMONA and arrested on a parking lot a half-a-block away.

The man, Henry James Smith, 25, of 1020 Muir St., was apprehended at gunpoint on a parking lot at Fourth and Main Streets, climaxing a dash from the Bank of California at Mission Boulevard and Main Street.

The arresting officers, Detectives James Braga and David Ockey, reported that Smith fled as the bank manager was questioning him about a withdrawal shortly after 11 a.m. They arrived at that moment and said that when they ordered Smith to stop, he fled across the bank parking lot, across Fourth Street and onto another parking lot where Braga ordered him to stop at gunpoint.

Smith was booked on suspicion of making a withdrawal without sufficient funds, burglary and suspicion of auto theft. The later charge related to the alleged theft of a car from a car rental agency.

'The last is first,' Brown quotes Bible

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Downstairs, the crowd milled around the sprawling convention hall, entertained by a rock and roll band, Filipino dancers, and Indian dancers replete with headdress and toms toms.

Upstairs, California's Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. was being rushed from one network interview to another to discuss his increasingly serious bid to wrest the Democratic presidential nomination from frontrunner Jimmy Carter.

Appearing satisfied by his victory in California's Democratic Primary but fatigued by constant campaigning, Brown declared that he is now the only candidate who can beat Carter.

"I'm now certainly the one that is providing the momentum to an alternative to Jimmy Carter — if there is going to be one," he said.

Later, before the roughly 1,000 supporters who filled only a portion of the huge Convention Center hall, Brown used a "little bit of preaching" to stress that he believes his late entry into the campaign will not prevent him from getting the nomination.

"I have a little Biblical text that I cite," he said. "I say the first shall be last and the last shall be first."

Brown was joined on the podium by his father, former California Gov. Edmund G. "Pat" Brown, his mother, and sister, as well as Democratic State Chairman Charles Manatt and Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley.

"Some people wonder who won the New Jersey uncommitted delegation," he said. "We had a lot of campaigners there, including my father and sister.

"So it may not be clear which Brown won New Jersey," he said. "But it's clear some Brown won New Jersey."

Brown repeated the now familiar themes — that the country faces serious problems, and that he has no easy answers.

"A present is not a Santa Claus with a bag of tricks," he said. "It's a person who can set a tone.

"I present a fresh start in Washington — to build not on guilt of what's gone before but on pride in what's ahead."

A middle-aged listener standing in the mostly youthful crowd nodded approvingly to his wife. "He's a fresh face. He's got fresh ideas," he said.

Earlier in the evening, Brown admitted to a reporter that he had been considering seeking the presidency for the past few years.

"I won't say that the thought hadn't crossed my mind, but as far as planning it, no," he said.

Study shows 43% of parents oppose fundamental school

Parents in Chino may have dealt a mortal blow to the controversial fundamental school proposal offered some months ago by trustee Lyle Briggs.

Results of a preliminary attitude survey taken by the district show that 43 per cent of the parents are opposed to the fundamental concept, 31 per cent favor it, and 15 per cent are undecided. The remaining 11 per cent had "insufficient information" or did not respond.

The survey results presented to the school board Tuesday night, sparked immediate negative reaction toward the fundamental school from board members.

Briggs' move to study the feasibility of establishing such a school for the coming 1976-77 year died for lack of a second.

However, Briggs' modified proposal asking for a study for the 1977-78 school year was approved on a 3-1 vote with Pete VanderPoel dissenting. Board member Roy Ward was absent.

The idea of a fundamental school is geared to basic skills such as reading, writing and arithmetic, plus manners, morals and strict discipline.

The survey was made of 1,655 district parents.

VanderPoel was critical of the plan. "We're in a district that's growing rapidly. I think our principal goal is to provide a quality education without disrupting students.

"I can't see any advantage to providing a fundamental school. I think this particular proposition is an impossibility,"

Board President Al McCombs, although not specifically ruling out a fundamental school concept, showed some reservations as to how such a system could be implemented. "How would you account to parents who wanted both a year round school and fundamentals?" he asked.

Trustee Augustine Tapia said: "I am very concerned about a fundamental school,. This survey shows that the public wants change. This is the way people want to move."

But Tapia felt the plan needed more comprehensive study before action should be taken.

Briggs later took issue with the question asked parents, whether they would send their children to a fundamental school as opposed to the child's present school. "The wording was bad," he stated. "That's a negative way of presenting the question — it implies children would be transferred."

He added that he personally did not interpret the survey results as a defeat of his proposal. Sixty per cent of the kindergarten parents favored the concept, he noted.

Bomb goes off at Venice home

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An explosive devise detonated at the front door of a Venice duplex apartment building today, shattering windows and injuring one man with flying glass, police said.

The explosion broke all the windows in the front of the duplex, caved in the front door, knocked windows out across the street and blew the hubcaps off a car parked in the street, officers said.

The device was set on the doorstep of an apartment occupied by Freddie Cutbirth, his wife and two children.

Leon Flores, a resident of the other duplex apartment, was cut by flying glass but sustained only minor injuries, police said.

Liz Taylor was surprised

NEW YORK (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor was surprised to hear reports that her estranged husband Richard Burton tried and failed to get a quickie divorce in Haiti recently, a spokesman for the actress says.

She was prepared to give Burton an engagement present — their yacht, the spokesman said.

"I would have done nothing to stand in the way of the happiness of Richard Burton and Susan Hunt," Miss Taylor said.

Hays wins again in Ohio election

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Rep. Wayne Hays, facing a showdown with House colleagues over a payroll-sex scandal, has won renomination to a 15th term in Congress.

Woman arrested in Pomona car crash; couple injured

A Pomona woman was arrested Tuesday night in connection with a traffic accident a few minutes earlier in which an Ontario couple was injured in Pomona.

The mishap occurred in Mission Boulevard east of Regene Street where, according to police reports, the suspect's car ran into the side of the couple's car, sending it spinning into a tire company parking lot. The victims said the driver of the other car stopped briefly, but drove off.

Police later arrested Janet Joy Simmons, 37, 1370 S. Buena Vista Ave., and booked her on suspicion of felonious drunken and hit-run driving. She was arrested at a tavern near the scene of the accident, police reported.

The victims, driver Darlene Dale Fowler, 22, and Jack Lear, 30, were taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where they were released after treatment of minor injuries.

Ford on move to woo delegates

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, still predicting his first-ballot nomination as the Republican presidential candidate, is revving up his campaign to win the support of delegates being selected at state conventions.

Ford is traveling Friday to Springfield, Mo., to address a GOP reception on the eve of the state Republican convention which will select 19 at-large delegates to the national convention. Missouri is one of 11 states still to select delegates.

"We expect to do very well in those states," Ford's campaign manager Rogers C. B. Morton said Tuesday night.

Both Morton and Ford strategist Stuart Spencer said they expected the delegates with the deciding votes to be swayed by "the electibility of the president."

"I know millions of Americans are convinced he's the most electable candidate in the race," Morton said. Morton also said public opinion polls showing Ford trailing Democratic frontrunner Jimmy Carter "don't mean anything."

The key to the nomination, Ford campaign officials said, is what they see as Ford's better chances of beating a Democrat in the fall and a growing issue over challenger Ronald Reagan's stand on Rhodesia.

"Hell, yes," Spencer said when asked if Rhodesia would make a big enough difference to justify using that issue despite the resentment it is building in Reagan.

"I think Rhodesia's a national issue," Spencer told newsmen in his office at campaign headquarters.

Answering an interviewer last week, Reagan said he would consider using U.S. troops as part of a peace-keeping force in Rhodesia.

Reagan later said the statement had been distorted in headlines and he had only suggested a possible "peace mission, not involving troops, not involving anything warlike."

But the Ford campaign jumped on the issue and put out a television commercial in California likening REagan's proposal to the first U.S. advisers in Vietnam and saying Reagan as president could get the country into a war.

Reagan still won the California primary Tuesday and took all 167 GOP convention delegates there, but Ford ran well in Ohio and New Jersey.

This leaves Ford ahead of Reagan but short of the 1,100 needed for nomination.

"I thought by this time we would have more delegates than we have," Morton said Tuesday night. But he said he still thinks it is "highly unlikely" the nomination could slip away from Ford now.

"I think we're in great shape to win on the first ballot," Morton said. A White House spokesman said Ford "looks forward now to winning the nomination on the first ballot."

Ford, in a telephone call to campaign workers in Ohio, indicated he anticipated a second term by promising "we'll have four good years."

Sybil Thorndike dead at age 93

LONDON (AP) — Dame Sybil Thorndike, grand old lady of the British stage whose career spanned 72 years, died at her London home today after a heart attack, her son John Casson said. She was 93.

From the Hecuba of Euripedes to "Arsenic and Old Lace", at the age of 84, the career of Dame Sybil Thorndike was one of the brightest on the English-speaking stage in the 20th century.

She toured America at 21, playing Shakespeare with the Ben Greet company. At 87, she starred in "There Was an Old Woman."

George Bernard Shaw watched her play "Candida" in 1922, and remarked to a companion: "I have found my Joan."

Singer testifies on rape

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Connie Francis sobbed uncontrollably as she told the court how the man who raped her in a Howard Johnson's motel room covered her mouth, put a knife to her throat, and said, "Kiss me or I'll kill you."

The attack occurred in 1974 while Miss Francis, 37, was appearing at the Westbury Music Fair, in Westbury, N.Y., on Long Island.

That performance was her first in three years, and she is suing Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge for $5 million, saying the attack shattered her entertainment comeback.

Miss Francis, of Essex Falls, N.J., testified in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn that she was asleep in her room when, suddenly, she discovered there was a man in her room.

"He said, 'Kiss me or I'll kill you'," she testified.

She said she told the man who she was and offered him a fur coat and all the money she had, $100.

Hinshaw loses; Harris winner

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An Orange County congressman convicted of bribery has lost his primary try for renomination and a former antiwar activist has won his bid for a congressional nomination.

Andrew Hinshaw, a Republican convicted this year of bribery, was trounced soundly Tuesday in his attempt to keep his party's nomination in a largely conservative Southern California district.

To the north, David Harris, the one-time husband of Joan Baez and foe of the Vietnam War, won his campaign for the Democratic nomination and will face Rep. Paul McCloskey of Menlo Park in November.

In the Hinshaw district race, it was not immediately clear whether John Schmitz, former American Independent Party president, or Assemblyman Robert Badham would win the GOP nomination.

In early morning results, Schmitz, a former congressman, led Badham, a Newport Beach lawmaker, by 14,558-13,903. Hinshaw picked up 2,607 votes with about 40 per cent of the vote in.

By early morning, Harris had nailed down his victory over local school board member Norman Shaskey. With 87 per cent of the vote in, Harris had 28,147 to Shaskey's 19,120.

In a Southern California contest to succeed retiring incumbent Rep. Thomas Rees, D-Los Angeles, state Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Los Angeles, was victorious in the Democratic primary.

With 91 per cent of the vote in, Beilenson triumphed over Wallace Albertson, wife of Jack Albertson, costar of "Chico and the Man," with a 54,713-19,885 count.

In the only other congressional race where an incumbent was not running—in the seat Alphonzo Bell vacated for his unsuccessful U.S. Senate bid—a former Peace Corps director lost.

Republican Joe Blatchford, a Nixon administration Peace Corps director, had 10,275 to 15,148 for Robert Dornan, a television commentator, with 57 per cent of the vote reported. On the Democratic side in that race, Gary Familian outpolled other challengers—over 4,000 ahead of his nearest opponent, Dave Horner.

In another Southern California race, Patti Lear Corman, estranged wife of a congressman in an adjacent district, outdistanced her nearest rival for the Democratic nomination.

With over 50 per cent of the vote in, Mrs. Corman had 24,813 votes to Charles Lindsay's 15,523.

She will face GOP incumbent Barry Goldwater Jr. in November.

None of the results Tuesday affected the Democrats' 28-15 hold on the California congressional delegation.

2 elderly women murdered

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two elderly women, both living alone, have been found murdered in their rooms, police said.

Nora E. Word, 69, was found bludgeoned to death Tuesday in her apartment near McArthur Park, police reported.

The second victim was identified as Mary C. Farrington, 82, and coroner's deputies said preliminary tests showed that she died of a stab wound in the neck.

Her body was found Tuesday in her fourth floor room at the downtown Stillwell Hotel, and her room had been ransacked, police said.

Rapid transit aid plea gets rapid reply in L.V.: no!

A request that La Verne help pay for the rapid transit program which provides buses throughout the valley has triggered off a flurry of complaints about the service.

Mayor Mike M. Morales called the proposal "ridiculous." He said the Southern California Rapid Transit District has been promising better service, but has been giving worse, and now wants the cities to pull the district out of a hole.

The request for help was made Monday night by the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors which contends it no longer can subsidize the sprawling RTD system without some contribution from the cities.

But the board's plea fell on hostile ears in La Verne.

Morales told the council he has been hearing "nothing but complaints. It will be a long time before I'm ready to put our money into such a service."

City Manager George Caswell said the RTD has doubled its mileage along Foothill Boulevard but he contended the buses still don't stop there.

"What it amounts to is that now we have twice as many buses not stopping along the boulevard," he claimed. "Other cities have respectfully declined participation."

"Let us do the same," Morales said.

The supervisors told the city they needed $4.92 per resident to maintain the 25-cent a ride program next year. Caswell said this would amount to about $87,000 in La Verne, and more than $500,000 in Pomona.

Pomona already has declined.

Improved RTD service hit in Claremont

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

The Claremont City Council Tuesday night aired its dissatisfaction with the improved bus service which the Southern California Rapid Transit District is furnishing for an estimated $410,000 a year.

Council members championed the city's popular dial-a-ride taxicab service which carries an average of 2,000 passengers a month at a cost of $1,500, while RTD is transporting about 3,900 passengers monthly at a cost of $34,000.

Albert Reyes Jr., RTD community relations representative, told the council that present funding of the improved system operating since April 15 will be ended June 10 when the Board of Supervisors will decide what to do for the next fiscal year.

Unhappy with the present routing of the 451-453 bus lines through Claremont, Mayor Bertye Smith named herself, Councilwoman Eleanor Cohen and deputy City Manager Paul Brotzman to a subcommittee to work up an alternate route.

"We've been trying to get those buses rerouted for two months," Mrs. Smith told Reyes.

In Claremont the 451-452 lines cover Indian Hill Boulevard, Sixth Street, Claremont Boulevard and Foothill Boulevard.

Mrs. Smith said in her rough analysis of Claremont ridership as reported by RTD that the two lines carry between 70 and 80 passengers a day on 45 buses, or an average of 1.6 passengers a bus, and that the major stops are Sixth and Mills Avenue and Foothill and Mills.

Brotzman, who met with RTD representatives and tested various routes with a large RTD bus, recommended that the 451-453 bus lines be rerouted as follows: north on Indian Hill Boulevard, east on First Street, north on College Avenue, east on Sixth Street, north on Claremont Boulevard, west on Foothill Boulevard, north on Indian Hill Boulevard.

Councilman Frank Hungerford's motion to accept that recommendation drew "no" votes from Mrs. Cohen, Mrs. Smith, and Councilwoman Claire McDonald.

The council received a letter from R.T. Nimmons, vice president at Pomona College, who complained that the College Avenue route would cause noise and disruption through the interior of the campus. He said that RTD would run buses at the rate of six an hour or 16 a day along College Avenue.

Nimmons suggested that the buses run south on Indian Hill Boulevard, east on Foothill Boulevard, south on Claremont Boulevard, west on Sixth Street, south on Mills Avenue, west on First Street, and south on Indian Hill Boulevard.

Brotzman told the council that First Street between College Avenue and Mills Avenue is in poor condition, and that the intersection at Mills and First Street is difficult for a big RTD bus to negotiate.

Mrs. Smith said that she feels strongly that the big buses don't belong on residential streets.

"We would be better off with mini-buses," she said. She recommended that RTD cut the number of buses on the 451-453 lines in half.

Mrs. McDonald asked Reyes if there is any chance of smaller buses for Claremont.

"Not likely in the immediate future," he replied. "Thirty-five-passenger buses will not likely do the job, from our point of view," he said.

He explained that there has been serious discussion about the mini-bus operation in downtown Los Angeles, and that if not continued, there would be a possibility of using them elsewhere.

Reyes said that in measuring Claremont ridership, "we estimate that it will grow."

Hungerford suggested that RTD cut its service to one-quarter, and "you will have more ridership. Give us $105,000 to increase our dial-a-ride, but bureaucracy won't allow that."

Residential streets protected

Berkeley voters keep car barriers

By The Associated Press

Berkeley voters have decided they want to keep auto-diverting barricades on their streets.

A measure seeking removal of the controversial traffic barriers was rejected in Tuesday's election.

With 99 per cent of the ballots counted, there were 23,390 votes, or 56 per cent, against the initiative, Prop. O, and 18,393, or 44 per cent, in favor of it.

The unsuccessful initiative was aimed at the Berkeley Traffic Management Plan, which calls for 44 diverters to reroute autos from residential streets to main traffic arteries, plus hundreds of new stop signs, 21 traffic circles and 11 new traffic lights.

Supporters of the plan contended that it had made neighborhood streets safer and quieter and had encouraged more use of public transportation.

The group opposed to barricades argued that the plan caused confusion and endangered lives by forcing emergency vehicles to take roundabout routes on police, fire and medical calls.

In San Francisco, all but one of 10 ballot measures were approved.

With 98 per cent of the votes counted, Prop. I, which involved a child-care program, was rejected by a margin of more than 20,000 votes.

The child-care measure sought to reaffirm approval of a program that was first passed in November 1973 but has gone unfunded by the San Francisco Board of Supervisors. The city controller had estimated it would cost $188 million, with $177 million coming from property taxes. Up to 50,000 children would have been covered by the program.

In Oakland, two initiatives affecting police and firemen were passed by wide margins. One initiative places limits on retirement pensions and another does away with a formula under which salaries were tied to an industry index providing automatic raises.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 400 books of poetry and fiction will be produced this year with grants from the Small Press Program of the National Endowment for the Arts.

The grants total $345,460 and were made to 112 small independent printing presses in 26 states and the District of Columbia.

Jurors mull if case fits death verdict

The peanlty phase of the murder trial of Michael David Perriera, 18, is underway in Pomona Superior Court where the same jury ruled the young man guilty of first-degree murder and first-degree robbery last Friday.

Perriera was found guilty in the slaying New Year's Eve of Akiva Mohr, 24-year-old Israeli immigrant killed in his West Covina apartment.

A codefendant in the case, Randall Adams III, 19, of Chicago, was granted a separate trial which is scheduled to begin July 1.

The peanlty phase of Perriera's trial is to determine if the young man is to be sentenced to death for the killing. The jury must determine if so-called "special circumstances" existed in the slaying. If the members find they did, Perriera faces being sentenced to the gas chamber.

While several persons have been sentenced to death in California since enactment of the new capital punishment law, no one has been executed and the law has not been tested in higher courts.

Tri-City board, director collide on aide's job duties

The squabble was over Richardson's written explanation of the duties of Steven Toth, who has the title of human resources coordinator — an $18,000 a year post.

Board members, who are members of city councils from Pomona, Claremont and La Verne, had asked for the report over concerns that Toth's duties were different than those for which he was hired.

After reviewing the report, board members charged that it appeared Toth was acting as a second administrator.

In addition, Claremont City Councilwoman Claire McDonald complained the report itself was not understandable.

"Dr. Richardson, I don't see why I should have to do research to understand your memos," she said.

When Richardson bristled at questions from the board and made remarks about educational levels and "egghead ideas," Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire lashed back.

"You've got a problem" said Lepire, pointing a finger at Richardson.

"What's my problem?" Richardson replied.

"You're problem is to convince us that your recommendation is the right thing. And you haven't done that," said Lepire.

"Maybe you've got the wrong man," answered Richardson.

"Maybe we do," responded Lepire.

The board took no action on Toth's position, although it appeared the votes were there to eliminate the job if a vote had been taken.

A subcommittee, including Mrs. McDonald and Pomona Councilman Adrian Wright, was formed to review the position's job description and duties.

Tri-City Mental Health Authority provides mental health services in Pomona, Claremont and La Verne, supported mainly by funds from the state with the local cities contributing small shares based upon their population.

The governing board, however, has the responsibility to monitor the entire operation and make policy decisions.

Problems near MHS drop

Residents near Montclair High School have voiced satisfaction with the steps that city and school officials have taken to alleviate problems of loitering and littering.

City Administrator Lauren Wasserman reported to the City Council Monday that, following the petition and complaints about rowdy teenagers who plagued neighborhoods in the vicinity of Montclair High, he and Police Chief Ray McLean met with school officials to consider possibie solutions to the problem.

Wasserman said the primary step taken was to increase both police and school official patrols of the surrounding neighborhoods and identify those students who should be on campus and make sure they return.

He said that parking limitations in the area are being strictly enforced as well as speed and traffic laws. Adults and non-students loitering in or around the high school campus are being arrested as violators of the city's loitering ordinance.

William Ennis, spokesman for the protesting residents, said there had been a "remarkable change" in the neighborhood with these extra precautions by police and school. Although the problem has not disappeared, it has diminished 75 to 85 per cent, he said.

Wasserman noted that the situation will "go downhill after school ends, but may resurface in September. If and when it does we'll have to concentrate our efforts again."

In other action, the council:

— Approved a 17.4 per cent, or $2,222 per month, increase for monthly compensation for refuse disposal service to Hohnstein Disposal Service. The present allocation of $12,768 per month goes to $14,990 per month.

— Adopted a resolution revising the residential refuse collection rates, increasing it from $2.25 per month to $2.65 per month for apartment units; and from $2.40 to $2.85 per month for single-family houses, duplexes and triplexes.

— Renewed a contract with the California Highway Patrol for removal of abandoned vehicles from the streets during the next fiscal year. This contract is at no cost to the city.

— Designated Michael Milhiser, assistant to the administrator, as treasurer of the city.

Economist sees dollar back on top

LONDON (AP) — The Economist, the respected British weekly magazine, has predicted the return of the almighty dollar.

It said the United States "seems likely to replace (West) Germany as the guardian of the most inconveniently strong currency for the rest of the 1970s.

The German mark, the magazine said, was the strongest in the Western world in the 1972-75 slump because the Germans did a better job of controlling inflation.

But it said the boom cycle in world trade, which the Economist has been predicting for the 1976-79 period, should show the dollar replacing the mark as the world's strongest currency.

"For the rest of the 1970s there seem to be both the capacity and the productivity potential for an American economic miracle, if not of Japanese proportions, at least on the 1960s Euuropean scale of 5-6 per cent real growth a year," the magazine said.

Kiwanis backing blood pressure tests for public

As part of a growing effort to curb the health threat of high blood pressure, members of the Kiwanis Club of Greater Pomona have scheduled a free screening program to operate one Saturday a month starting this Saturday.

On that date, blood pressure readings will be made by registered nurses in front of Longs Drug Store at Indian Hill Village in Pomona beginning at 11 a.m.

Cooperating with the Kiwanians in the project will be the American Heart Association and the American Red Cross.

Ben C. Sanford, program committee chairman for the Kiwanians, said the purpose of the program is to save lives.

"This program was developed by Dr. Jack M. Houston, a physician and member of the Hialeah Miami Springs Kiwanis Club," Sanford explained. "He called it the save a life program."

High blood pressure is a serious, potentially lethal condition that has reached epidemic proportions in this country, Sanford continued.

"Medical experts estimate that 15 to 20 per cent of the adult population, more than 20 million Americans, have blood pressure that is high enough to require treatment, but only a fraction of them realize that the condition exists.

"We urge adults to take this test. It only takes a few minutes and it's free. People will be told what their blood pressure is and if it is above normal."

Sanford said those with high blood pressure readings will be advised to see their doctors.

Tests will be made by Mrs. Gordon Taylor, a registered nurse, and Bertha Taylor, a licensed practical nurse, and others as needed.

Registrations will be made by members of the Kiwanis club and the Kiwanettes, a high school girls' club sponsored by the Kiwanis club.

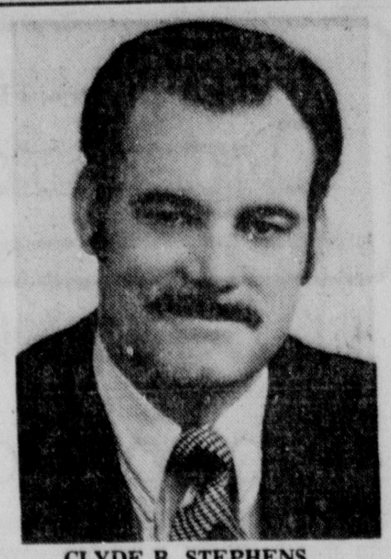
Beats Donnelly in GOP contest

Stephens wins 65th Assembly race



CLYDE R. STEPHENS

Clyde R. Stephens, conducting "people to people" campaign, won the Republican nomination for the 65th Assembly District in Tuesday's primary election.

Stephens, a member of the Pomona Planning Commission, defeated Don Donnelly, a member of the Pomona school board, for the party's spot on the November general election ballot.

Stephens collected 8,562 votes in San Bernardino County and 3,115 votes in Los Angeles County, for a total of 11,677. Donnelly received 7,279 votes in San Bernardino County and 2,365 votes in Los Angeles County, for 9,644 votes.

In winning the Republican Party nomination, Stephens will face Assemblyman Bill McVittie, Democrat and incumbent who had no party opposition in the primary.

When announcing his candidacy Stephens said he would seek the office to stem the tide of liberalism and provide representation more in line with the philosophies of people in the district.

"This past year with the overwhelming Democratic control, sanctioned by a Democratic governor, we have witnessed the most immoral legislation in California history. With the vote of the legislature and a sweep of the governor's pen, we have seen crime decriminalized and the lowest kinds of immorality sanctioned," he declared.

Stephens said he would base his campaign in the general election the same as in the primary a "people to people" program.

He plans to speak at service clubs, political meetings and talk to "as many people as I can to find out their problems and determine what they think are the real issues," he added.

Stephens has long been active in local government, serving on the planning commission for the past four years. He is also a member of the city's Bicentennial committee.

He resides in Pomona with his wife, Rose, and their three children. He is a quality control engineer at General Dynamics.

The 65th Assembly District includes Pomona, Claremont, Upland, Ontario, Montclair and Chino. It has 77,485 registered voters, including 42,741 Democrats and 31,021 Republicans.

Send-a-Kid-to-Camp

'The most wonderful thing I ever did'

It's not always easy to stay out of trouble during a long hot summer, especially for youngsters from poor families who are left to devise their own outlets for pent up energy.

"There was nothing to do" is too often the excuse for mischief, or worse.

That's why a week at summer camp, paid for by your contributions to the Donrey Public Foundation, Inc., can be so important.

Ask those who attended last year:

"It was the most wonderful thing I ever did in a summer. We had archery, shooting, boating, fishing, swimming and lot of other things," said Kelly, now 11.

"My counselor was Sandy. She was nice and liked sports, just like me. She was my friend.

"I sure would like to go to camp again and make new friends and have fun."

Kevin, now 12, agreed.

"It was the first time I ever went to camp. I thought I'd hate it, but I loved every minute. If I had a chance I would go again," said Kevin.

Other youngsters are waiting for that chance this year.

It costs $70 to send one youngster to camp for one week, including transportation, meals, lodging and other incidentals. The camps are operated in the San Bernardino Mountains by the Pomona Valley YMCA.

To date, Donrey Public Foundation has received enough contributions to send about 30 valley youths to camp, who would otherwise not be able to go.

But many more are hoping for the opportunity.

To contribute, persons may send their check to Donrey Public Foundation, P. O. Box 2708, Pomona, 91766. Contributions of any amount will be accepted.

Lists of contributors will be published in the Progress Bulletin unless persons request to remain anonymous. All donations are tax deductible.

Runoffs for 3 L.A. County court jobs

Three of the six offices of Superior Court judge in Los Angeles County were resolved in Tuesday's primary election.

However, runoffs are scheduled in November for three offices in Los Angeles County and a runoff will be held between the top two of five candidates for a judge's post in San Bernardino County.

The race for one Los Angeles County judgeship hung in a state of uncertainty today. For Office No. 40, incumbent Judge Robert M. Takasugi received the most votes, but he has been appointed a federal judge, effective next month.

Whether his name will go on the November ballot and how his successor will be determined are questions awaiting a ruling by the County Counsel's Office, officials said.

In the San Bernardino County race, Charles Bierschbach of Redlands received 64,363 or 42.6 per cent of the total, and Don Egan of Lake Arrowhead, 40,486, or 26.8 per cent. Since a 50 per cent majority is required to win in the primary, both will be on the November ballot. Other candidates were John Marcus of San Bernardino, 21,719; Edison McDaniels of San Bernardino, 13,005; and Paul Steinman of Redlands, 11,319.

Winners in the Los Angeles County races were, Office No. 2, the incumbent, Judge Laurence J. Rittenband, 634,432, or 60.64 per cent, over Arthur Stanley Katz, 541,403; and Office No. 15, the incumbent, Judge Elisabeth Eberhard Zeigler, 811,624, or 60.46 per cent, defeating deputy Dist. Atty. Aaron H. Stovitz, 530,714.

In Office No. 1, there will be a runoff between the incumbent, Judge Emil Gumpert, with 636,146, or 45.13 per cent, and Attorney S.S. Schwartz, 408,574, or 28.99 per cent. The third candidate, Elana Sullivan, received 364,596.

In Office No. 28, there will be a runoff between Judge William P. Kennedy, the incumbent, with 615,899, or 48.41 per cent of the votes cast, and Roberta Ralph, attorney and law instructor, 466,859, or 36.69 per cent. The third candidate for this office was Byron Y. Appleton, 189,402.

Incumbent Judge Bonnie Lee Martin was unopposed in her bid for Office 37.

In Office No. 40, the leader of the three candidates, Judge Robert M. Takasugi, was appointed to the Los Angeles federal bench in May. He was previously named to the Superior Court in August by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. and served in the Pomona court from August to May.

Takasugi received 564,612, or 43.19 per cent of the votes over David J. Aisenson, a Municipal Court judge, 485,585, or 37.15 per cent. The third candidate, Nathan Axel, also a Municipal Court judge, tallied 256,891, or 19.65 per cent.

S.D. votes for residential zoning in controversial area

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The controversy over a General Plan amendment and specific plan in west San Dimas has finally ended, but one councilman still held out against residential zoning in the area Tuesday night.

Resolution of the controversy was delayed in March with the firing of three planning commissioners. Rehearing of the issue by the Planning Commission was delayed until new commissioners were hired and the two-year case was reviewed by the new appointees.

Councilman James McLean still refused to support residential zoning for property on Arrow Highway between Lone Hill and Valley Center avenues. He and Councilman James Lough had diligently opposed the majority vote that approved a specific plan which called for:

— The extension of St. George Drive westerly from Lone Hill to Valley Center and Kennedy Road to tie into St. George, with residential designation of one to four units per acre.

— Designation of the remainder of the area on the north side of Arrow, east and west of Rennell Street as commercial.

— Designation of the 35 acres on the south side of Arrow Highway between Valley Center and Lone Hill residential with one to seven units per acre.

With Lough absent, the vote was 3-1 with Mayor Marvin Ersher and Councilmen Terry Dipple and Philip Wax approving the measure.

McLean reiterated his objections to the plan, calling it a "gross misuse of land."

"A major highway in our city should be left open for development of a major shopping center," said McLean, referring to the faint hope that area residents have clung to for several years.

"Property owners have paid commercial highway taxes for years. To rezone this to residential is a big misuse of land. It is a gross misuse of land and I am very much opposed to it."

Wax quickly defended the specific plan, saying it adhered to the wishes of the people. "It does not adhere to the speculator or whoever owns commercial land. Until someone comes along with an offer that is valid and we can take it to the people, I wouldn't want to second-guess the wishes of the people," Wax said.

According to Ersher, the plan and the council "don't represent land interests or speculators. We represent people. We should fashion things according to the needs of the people."

In another matter concerning uniform setbacks for the scenic highway overlay zone, McLean again stood alone in his objections.

McLean voiced concern about uniform setbacks, particularly in a hillside area. He noted that "50-foot setbacks might not in some instances accommodate the particular uses that are best for that area."

Dipple, who had campaigned on protecting the natural environment, again used his argument of "preserving the natural setting."

Ersher said there is an opportunity for a variance if the uniform setback causes any developer any undue hardship.

The zone calls for 50-foot setbacks in residential areas along Via Verde and Puente Street; 20-foot setbacks for three corners at Via Verde and Puente and the corners of San Dimas Avenue and Via Verde; 25-foot setback for the nine-acre proposed shopping center site near Puente and Via Verde; and precise plans for development to determine setbacks along San Dimas Canyon Road, Arrow, Puddingstone Drive and Foothill Boulevard.

BETTY WILSON

Campbell gets 84% of votes

William Campbell of Hacienda Heights as Assemblyman for the 64th District, Tuesday received a whopping 84 per cent of the votes in the Republican race for the reapportioned state Senatorial 33rd District, and will represent his party in the November election.

Campbell, outpolling three opponents, will face Betty Wilson, Santa Fe City councilwoman, who gained 38 per cent of the Democrat votes in a district which includes Diamond Bar, Walnut, La Mirada, Norwalk, Artesia, Cerritos and Downey.

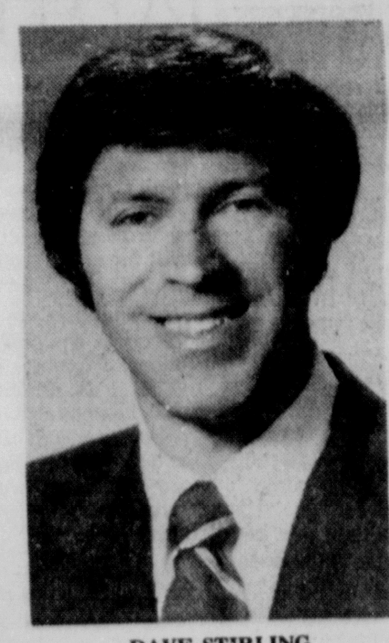
In unofficial returns reported by the county registrar's office, out of 80,714 registered Republican voters, 57,233 or 71 per cent went to the polls.

Of that number, 48,053 backed Campbell's bid for the Senate office. Phil Ortiz, a business executive from Downey, received 4,829 votes, followed by 2,438 for Andy Harrison of Whittier, and 1,1913 for Angel L. Soto, Cerritos.

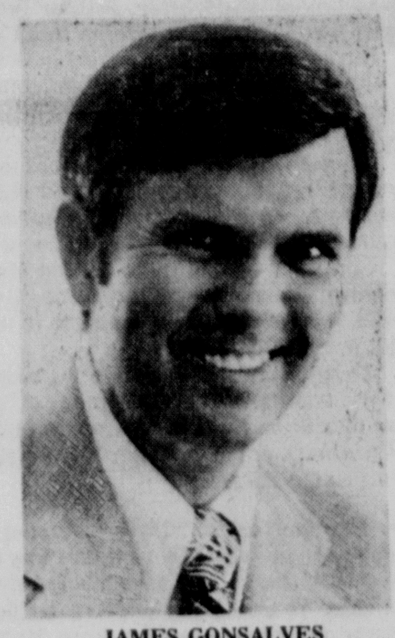
The Democratic race was much closer, with Mrs. Wilson beating out Gerald Olivet, governmental affairs adviser from Whittier, by 2,678 votes.

Mrs. Wilson received 26,130 votes, Olivet 23,452, and Cecil Green, Norwalk City Councilman, 18,979.

In a district with 107,749 registered Democrats, 68,561 or 63 per cent cast their ballots Tuesday.



DAVE STIRLING



JAMES GONSALVES

Stirling, Gonsalves win in 64th District vote

David Stirling, a Republican, and James Gonsalves, a Democrat, emerged as winners in Tuesday's primary election for the 64th Assembly District.

Both will be seeking next November the seat being vacated by Assemblyman William Campbell, a Republican, who is seeking election to the reapportioned 33rd state Senatorial District.

Stirling, of Hacienda Heights, received 14,660 votes to defeat three other Republican candidates.

The candidates and votes received are Sue Ellen Blevens, Whittier, 4,348; Wayne Grisham, La Mirada, 13,203; and Jarrold A. Lawson Jr., Hacienda Heights, 1,909.

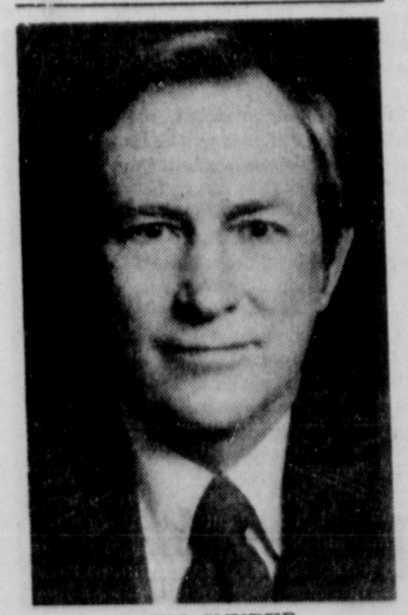
Gonsalves, of La Mirada, received 14,961 votes to win over two other Democrats. They were George Aames, Rowland Heights, 7,163 and Stan Carroll, Whittier, 11,387.

Stirling, an attorney, had emphasized during his campaign speeches the need for a strong and functional criminal justice system, reducing the size of government, and eliminating massive deficit spending by government at all levels.

Gonsalves, son of former area Assemblyman Joe Gonsalves, and former deputy to Los Angeles County Supervisor Peter Schabarum, had called for strong local control and effective law enforcement.

"I believe people want a representative who is experienced in government while still being a critic to everyday inefficiencies that make our tax bills too high," he said.

The district includes Walnut, Diamond Bar, Whittier, La Mirada, Hacienda Heights and Rowland Heights.



TED SNYDER

Snyder wins Demo spot in 33rd Dist.

Ted Snyder, director of community and public relations at Rio Hondo College, will meet incumbent Del Clawson in November for the 33rd Congressional District seat.

Clawson, a Republican, ran unopposed in Tuesday's primary. Snyder captured 70 per cent of the Democratic vote, tallying 44,355 votes. Of the other Democratic aspirants to Congress, Philip Megdal received 10,000 votes while Merl T. Doty got 9,332.

Megdal is a Norwalk dentist and Doty is an educator from Downey.

The district includes the cities and communities of Norwalk, Downey, Whittier, La Mirada, Cerritos, Hacienda Heights, Rowland Heights, Diamond Bar, Santa Fe Springs and La Habra Heights.

Chaffey College board expansion turned down

Voters in the Chaffey College district defeated a proposal to add two trustee positions to the college board to increasing the number from five to seven.

The vote was yes, 22,725, and no, 26,230, or 53.5 per cent against the proposal.

In March 1975, voters in the Corona-Norco area chose to annex to the Chaffey College district rather than to the Riverside City College district.

Following this annexation, the college's board reorganization committee recommended that the board be increased from five to seven and that the new trustees be chosen from the southern section of the district, to represent Chino, Corona and Norco areas.

Had the positions been approved by the voters, the present college board would have selected two trustees from the southern area of the district.

One would have been given a two-year term and the other, a four-year term. These trustee positions would have then been elected posts in subsequent elections.

S.D. players to stage 'Revue '76'

The Junior Community Players of San Dimas will present "Revue '76" Thursday and Friday at 7 p.m. at Ekstrand School.

Donations of $1.25 for adults and $1 for children will be accepted.

"Revue '76" is a salute to Walt Disney, religion and America, all through song and dance.

The cast includes Diana Feiling, Dalene White, Mardele White, Patti Hill, Lisa Martin, Sandi Mooney, Patti Robinson, Vanessa Short and Donna Roquemore.

Historical unit to hear report

Members of the Claremont Hisorical Interest Groups will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Claremont Public Library.

David Cressy, assistant professor of history at Pitzer College, and Jim Stickels, local businessman, will report on the Southern California Historical Preservation Conference in Riverside sponsored recently by the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

Hays shaking Capitol boat

A study some time back by a scholar working with the Brookings Institution gave evidence that the Senate and House of Representatives act only on wrongdoing by members which becomes so publicized as to embarrass the whole of Congress.

More disclosure of crimes — misuse of power or government funds, bribery, corruption, payroll padding and such — have been cause for action only infrequently by the courts and almost not at all by the legislators. The exceptions have been, as in the case of Adam Clayton Powell, so sensational that action could not be avoided.

With this in mind, it is logical to suppose Rep. Wayne L. Hays, with all his power, may possibly be in for a beating. Not for his wrongdoing, of which virtually everyone on the Hill was aware, but because he failed to keep it swept under the rug.

The case of President Nixon and his aides brought no general cleanup of politicians in high places. We can conclude that punishment given Hays will not lead to a follow through on other guilty Congressmen.

To illustrate the point, let us go back to Jan. 13, 1975. On that day, Common Cause, in a series of reports on committee chairmen in the House, outlined the ways in which Hays had abused his vast powers as chairman of the House Administration Committee, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee and "ultimate controller of staff payrolls, allocator of offices and furniture, overseer of the House Information System and . . . dispenser of parking spaces."

At that time Common Cause reported:

Since becoming chairman, Hays increased the number of employes on the House Administration Committee payroll from less than 50 to more than 200 — twice as many as any other House committee.

Using his power as chairman of the House Administration Committee, Hays refused to release the paycheck of a staff aide of another member because the aide was arranging for witnesses to testify for his member's bill which Hays opposed.

Hays threatened to withhold paychecks of other House employes, including a member of the Speaker's staff whom the Speaker had assigned to help with a proposal Hays opposed.

During the impeachment investigation, Hays threatened to cut the Judiciary Committee's impeachment staff after getting into an argument with two committee interns in an elevator.

Hays refused to authorize funds so that the 93rd Congress Select Committee on committees, which Hays didn't like, could have its hearings printed as a House document.

After a Government Operations subcommittee issued a report which displeased Hays, he used his power as then chairman of the Accounts subcommittee to cut the full committee's budget in half.

Common Cause also accused Hays of using his committee power to intervene illegally in House and Senate election campaigns to assist candidates he personally supported.

Despite these charges, in the next go round Hays was continued as chairman of the House Administration Committee and the House Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, though not without a hassle.

The point is that Hays has been able to use his power to put roadblocks in the way of those he does not like. But he also uses his power to help those he favors. Those he has helped fear they won't get the same favored treatment from his successors.

In this, they are his partners, profiting from his actions. They are not about to vote him out unless extreme publicity and embarrassment forces them to act. There are also men, of course, who fear that if they oppose him, and fail, reprisals will be quick and certain.

There's also another matter. Many senators and House members have skeletons in their own closets. Few want to open Pandora's Box.

Beware IRS ire

Any taxpayer can take the Internal Revenue Service into court, but the chances for success are decidedly in favor of the government.

In the hundreds of tax disputes decided at all levels of litigation and in all forums in 1975 — the U.S. Court of Claims, the various U.S. District Courts and the U.S. Tax Court — the IRS prevailed in approximately 58 per cent of the cases, reports Commerce Clearing House, while the taxpayer won in only about 11 per cent. The remainder of the cases were decided partially for the taxpayer and partially for the government.

Statistics suggest that taxpayers with a beef against the IRS have a better chance in pretrial settlements. But informal agreements, CCH cautions, may not be final.

That is, the government can always sue you, too.

The Public Forum

Roses for officials

Editor:

I frequently read about the unfair treatment by the city council and planning commission, their lack of concern, their lack of caring or listening to the public. I was recently involved indirectly and I wholeheartedly disagree. Both the planning commission and the council were more than fair. Both let anyone and everyone talk as long as they wanted as long as it pertained to the issue. I did not always agree with their reasoning and decisions, but no one can say they were not fair in hearing both sides from all parties. My hat is off to them.

Article criticized

EDITOR:

Monday, May 24, your paper carried a story on the front page with the headline; "Angry Briton takes slap at 'idiotic America' ". The 'slap' was more like a pot-shot. The article was a forum for British playwright, John Osborne's views on our country and people which were formed during an eight day visit to the U.S. His views were not too kind and I don't see why this was on page 1, instead of page 40.

I resent being called 'idiotic' and being told there are nothing but 'failures' here. Mr. Osborne bases these views on an eight day visit here. Mr. Osborne must be quite a man if he can be in a country less than two weeks and know all Americans are 'possessed with themselves' and that New York is a 'city of Freaks'.

He calls the citizens of L.A. 'plastic'. Well, Mr. Osborne, at least 'plastic People' don't make false accusations and dramatic outbursts like 'Damn America'! Also, remember if they were plastic, plastic doesn't destroy easily.

I thank you for your time and I hope the next time Mr. Osborne analyzes a nation he will take more than eight days to do it.

AT&T fighting equipment ruling

WASHINGTON — An epic battle over telephone equipment is raging in the backrooms of Congress. The brouhaha has brought the telephone industry's top brass, led by American Telephone and Telegraph chairman John deButts, to Capitol Hill for some stormy meetings.

At stake is the right of householders to buy their own telephone equipment instead of paying the phone companies. The Federal Communications Commission contends that the freedom to purchase would offer telephone users a better deal. But the companies warn that they would have to raise rates to make up for the revenue loss.

The arguments are complicated, with legal and engineering entanglements. But it all boils down to the question of whether a telephone monopoly or increased competition will provide the customers with better service.

Senators who have been caught up in the controversy say it should be one of the most important debates in congressional history. Here are the behind-the-scenes details:

The FCC has issued a series of complex rulings, which has had the effect of eroding the telephone companies' natural monopoly. The Bell System quietly looked around for someone to sponsor legislation that would nullify the FCC rulings.

Bell bigwigs sounded out Senate Commerce Chairman Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., and Senate Communications chairman John Pastore, D.-R.I. These two key senators finally consented to meet several of the telephone industry's most high-powered executives, with deButts in command.

Pastore can be as feisty as one of his state's red roosters. In sizzling language, he told the telephone executives that he didn't want their legislation in his subcommittee. It was "the wrong time and the wrong place," he snapped.

Undeterred, the deButts group finally persuaded amiable Sen. Vance Hartke, D.-Ind., to sponsor the telephone bill. On the House side, Rep. Teno Roncalio, D.-Wyo., agreed to introduce it.

Once the bill was in the legislative works, the Bell System began a massive lobbying campaign. For the first time in its history, AT&T asked all three million of its stockholders to write their congressmen, urging them to vote for the legislation.

Phone company executives were also summoned in from all corners of the country to pay personal calls on their senators and congressmen.

We spoke to several AT&T executives who argued that their customers will lose if competition is forced on the industry. They said the Bell System loses money on every private home phone line but subsidizes the home service by offering specialized equipment. If competitors are permitted to sell this equipment, said the phone men, then the rates will go up.

But the FCC claims competition can only improve the telephone system, citing a New York State study which shows the phone companies would not lose money from competition.

SHELTON'S NEW HOME: Turner Shelton, the discredited former Ambassador to Nicaragua, has finally found a home.

It's a luxurious old villa, complete with gardens and a swimming pool, in romantic Casablanca. The villa is the official residence of the U.S. consul general, a post Shelton will assume next month over loud congressional objections.

He has always seemed to pay more attention to the residence he will occupy than to the post he will fill. Indeed, State Department sources say his requests for assignments are based upon the housing that goes with them.

In Nicaragua, Shelton lived in an enormous mansion, which sat high on a hilltop overlooking the capital city of Managua. The State Department regarded the place, with its huge verandas and 20 sunrooms, as a mausoleum.

The State Department wanted to get rid of it, but it appealed to Shelton. He demanded that it be fixed up, however, before he moved in. So he holed up in a Managua hotel while workmen glassed in the verandas, sealed the windows and air-conditioned the building.

Shelton was called home from Nicaragua after we wrote a series of columns, reporting on his incompetence

Why the FBI took the gloves off

The Senate Intelligence Committee — the so-called Church Committee — is still sticking pins in the FBI.

The committee is issuing a series of 13 reports critical of the FBI.

Sen. Frank Church (D-Ida.) says that the FBI sought for 15 years to discredit and disarm groups and ideologies ranging from Communists to neo-Nazis, from black hate groups to the Ku Klux Klan.

The committee contends that the FBI's countermeasures may have been illegal.

The committee conveniently forgets it was Congress that delegated to the FBI the entire responsibility for our nation's internal security.

It was the FBI's duly assigned mission to protect our established order against the wreckers.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation and its longtime director J. Edgar Hoover are victims of "discrimination." Its accusers are forgetting what our nation's potential enemies were up to during the years we are now second-guessing.

The so-called Black Liberation Army was conducting guerrilla warfare training near Atlanta, Ga.

From inside a California state prison, Huey Newton was directing Black Panther preparation for armed revolution. In 1970 the Panthers were fomenting terrorism in cities, on campuses.

With the avowed enemies of our nation employing more lethal weapons and kidnaping prominent persons, what should the one agency responsible for our nation's internal security do? That's what it did.

We still didn't do enough.

Between 1971 and 1974 some 6,900 weapons were stolen from United States military bases at home and abroad. That's enough to equip for combat 10 combat battalions.

So the terrorists — in three months of 1970 and 1971 — dynamited three campus buildings at the University of Oregon, pipe-bombed a GE building in New York, time-bombed a recruiting office in College Park, Ga., bombed a court building in El Monte, Calif., a civic building in Los Angeles and two recruiting stations in New York.

They bombed and killed in the Federal Building in Los Angeles and in Bristow, Okla. They bombed an Army induction center in Oakland, Calif., and a Navy Recruiting Center in Queens, Long Island, and three stores in Fort Pierce, Fla.

All this overt attack on our nation's established order occurred in a period of three months and, incidentally, since then, while our FBI has been further inhibited in its countermeasures, terrorist bombings doubled in 1974, tripled in 1975!

And the likes of William Kunstler and Russell Means are now brazenly predicting "violent revolution in the streets" this year.

Meanwhile, the Senate Intelligence Committee, which should be on our side, preoccupies itself with accusing our FBI of playing too rough. So — I don't know.

Just in jest

With the ballot as long and complicated as it was this year, it's no wonder many conscientious citizens went to the polls in a state of nervous shock after spending countless frustrating hours trying to make up their minds which way to vote. And worst of all, thanks to the masterminds who are forever trying to simplify the Great American Right of Franchise, this time out the voters also had to decide whether they were going to cast their ballots in English or in Spanish. But let's thank our lucky stars for small favors. Next year, no doubt, the masterminds will have decided to further simplify the voting instructions by also printing them in Swahili and Chinese.

Property tax relief fading

Although property tax relief has been promised countless times over the past several years, legislators appeared last month to be running the risk of facing the voters next November without having made any delivery on their pledges. The various measures attempting to solve what has become a major problem with all homeowners had been defeated or were bogged down by factions opposed to alternative revenue sources to offset those lost by the remedies.

Just when the prospects for tax reform had become most dismal a Senate committee surprisingly gave approval to one of the most drastic proposals advanced. More surprising was that the impetus for it came from a Senator who doesn't have to worry about re-election this year. He is Senator Peter H. Behr whose term in office doesn't end for two years.

Behr's measure is a dramatic change in the property tax, designed specifically to relieve the present burden of government on owner occupied residences. It would remove all assessments on structures, taxing the land only, frozen at 1976 values with future rises limited to cost of living indexes.

The plan would seem to achieve the goal advocated by some assessors who contend property taxes should support only those services which are directly related to property. Behr says it will preclude homeowners from being hit in the future with huge increases in their tax bills brought about by reassessments which sometimes double home valuations and which is driving people out of their homes in droves and preventing younger families from establishing their own homes.

But Behr doesn't stop there. He provides for the replenishment of local government tills through a five per cent sales tax on homes and a 20 per cent surtax on income taxes paid by homeowners. He openly admits it is a tax shift rather than a tax reduction. "But," he says, "it is a far less regressive taxation and will affect only those who benefit from the property tax relief. Home sales and income tax are more directly related to a person's ability to pay. The wealthier will pay more than those on marginal income."

While Behr's bill still has a long way to go to win Senate approval and survive the committee process of the Assembly as well as passage there, it is the first real breakthrough for property tax relief for homeowners.

A bill increasing the amount refunded to senior citizens, authored by Senator George Deukmejian, has been signed into law and Senator Reuben Ayala's bill increasing the homeowner's exemption from the present $1750 to $2250 is moving. The Ayala bill adds renters who are senior citizens and low income persons. But exemptions, so far have proved futile as assessments climb to erode their benefits.

The Senate defeated, as did the Assembly, a number of major bills offering solutions. One of the most far reaching was that by Senator John Holmdahl, whose committee on Revenue and Taxation devised a limitation on property tax increases. Local government vigorously opposed this even though the limits were high, allowing as much as seven per cent annual raises plus further increases for growth.

Senator Jerry Smith also was finding difficulty gaining support for his bill to establish a separate property tax at lower rates for owner occupied homes. Assemblyman Gene Chappie was defeated in his attempt to extend the "green belt" principle to residencies. Under that program taxes upon farms are frozen upon agreement the land will not be sold for a 20-year period. If the committment is breached all taxes become due at prevailing rates.

One thing is certain. If the Behr proposal, or something similar, is not passed by the Legislature, the incumbents standing for re-election next November will face crowds of angry homeowners just after they have received their property tax bills.

Even if they do pass Behr's bill no significance relief on property tax bills can be realized before the 1977-78 tax year. Deukmejian's bill will give some aid to senior citizens and Ayala's bill, if passed, may be in time to raise the exemptions this year.

Still, one would think that anyone seeking re-election next November had better be prepared to tell the voters that property tax relief has been provided. They are not likely to settle for anymore promises.

And now a 4th spot for weight reducers

We heard a familiar plaint recently from K.G. of Pomona: "I take off weight but it always crawls back."

In answering her letter, we gave names and phone numbers of three mutual help organizations.

As a result Jerry Schell, credit manager for Pascoe Steel Corp., Pomona, phoned to fill us in on a fourth.

He teaches two Diet Workshops, a method he says is popular in Los Angeles and creeping eastward.

Schell's classes are Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m. at Glendora Community Hospital and Wednesdays 7 p.m. at Covina Inter-community Hospital. He lives in Upland and would like to start a class in the area between home and work.

Diet Workshops in the Los Angeles area raised several thousand dollars for CARE with a Lose-a-Thon. Schell lost 15 pounds. As he had contribution pledges worth $30.90 a pound, he raised $463.50 to win the Lose-a-thon, if that can be done.

I am writing in regard to a magazine subscription I ordered on Sept. 25, 1975, from a college student who was working toward a college scholarship.

I paid half the subscription price, $10.50, to the student and promised to pay the other $10.50 to PAR Service Co. in Orange for a 36-issue subscription to "Car and Driver." I sent the second check last November.

To this date I have never received a copy of the magazine. When I call PAR Service Co., someone promises to look into the matter but no one has done anything about it.

Two cards arrived saying my subscription has been entered for a full term and my first copy would reach me in the near future. The "near future" has never come.

Could you please get PAR to start the magazine immediately or return my $21? — Mrs. L.S., Pomona.

Sorry, but it looks as if the "near future" is still a long way off.

R.L. Pennington, president of PAR Service Co., says the firm has encountered a serious disruption caused by "a reputed computer breakdown in the data processing company" handling PAR's work.

The problem, Pennington says, has caused PAR to enter into litigation against the data processing company.

I bought a burglar alarm kit and put the alarm together but it didn't work.

After checking and rechecking it, I took it back to the store.

The manager looked at it, said the solder work was good, compared the alarm with other machines but he couldn't get it to work either.

He said he would need it for three weeks to repair it. He doesn't seem much interested. I want back $70 or a working alarm. I've had two break-ins in the past. — D.E., Pomona.

The manager apparently was more interested than you thought.

He said the alarm was repaired 2½ weeks after the deadline he had set for himself but you didn't pick it up until three days later, the day after you wrote to Action Line.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Early in the day your mind may not be too sharp on details. It would be wise to re-examine your work later when you're on the ball.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You shouldn't be embarrassed today if you handle a matter differently than you originally planned. The change you make will be wise.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Persons you deal with today will appreciate and admire you because your word will be your bond.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're not looking for a free ride today. You're ready to work hard to earn your reward and won't complain because that's the way you prefer it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Move quickly into a situation today that you see is obviously being mismanaged. It will require a firm hand like yours to get things back on the track.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It will be your second effort that produces the kind of results you want today. You can win a victory, but you must be both patient and persistent.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't turn down a proposition today because it seems to be worth less than you desire. It still may have sufficient merit for consideration.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You should be able to handle financial and career matters to your advantage today. You can be tough without being rude or overbearing.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Conditions that have restricted you over the past couple of days will loosen up today, enabling you to move full speed ahead.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You are not one to shirk duties or responsibilities. This is fortunate, for today you may be called upon to do a job another has neglected.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) People who tend to be flighty or lack depth will turn you off today. Conversely, deep thinkers and doers intrigue you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Opportunity — like the calvary — may arrive for you at the last minute. Hold the fort because things will probably happen in the nick of time.

Your Birthday, June 21, 1976

This coming year you may enter into an alliance with someone you've known, but have never been closely associated with. The arrangement will be lasting and profitable to both parties.

Gamblers Anonymous is aces

Dear Ann Landers: I am a compulsive gambler and a member of Gamblers Anonymous. I read about this wonderful group in your column eight years ago, went to a meeting and have not gambled a penny's worth since.

Please tell your readers again about Gamblers Anonymous, Ann. It is a unique fellowship of men and women who share their experiences and their strength in an effort to solve a common problem. It costs nothing to join. The only requirement is the desire to quit gambling.

How does one tell if he is a compulsive gambler? Here is a list of 20 questions. Anyone who answers YES to seven or more of these questions has a serious gambling problem.

I hope you will print my letter, Ann. Millions of people need help, and they don't know what to do or where to turn. You can tell them.

1. Do you lose time from work due to gambling?
2. Is gambling making your home life unhappy?
3. Is gambling affecting your reputation?
4. Have you ever felt remorse after gambling?
5. Do you ever gamble in the hope you will win some money so you can pay your debts or solve other financial difficulties?
6. Does gambling keep you out late at night and prevent you from performing efficiently on the job the next day?
7. After losing do you feel you must return as soon as possible and win back your losses?
8. After a win do you have a strong urge to return and win more?
9. Do you often gamble until your last dollar is gone?
10. Do you ever borrow money to finance your gambling?
11. Have you ever sold any personal property to finance gambling?
12. Are you reluctant to use gambling money for normal expenditures?
13. Do you ever lie about your losses?
14. Do you ever gamble longer than you had planned because you just can't stop?
15. Do you ever gamble to take your mind off your problems?
16. Have you ever committed, or considered committing, an illegal act to finance gambling?
17. Does gambling cause you to have difficulty in sleeping?
18. Do arguments, disappointments or frustrations create within you a compulsion to gamble?
19. Do you have an urge to celebrate good fortune by a few hours of gambling?
20. Have you ever considered suicide as a result of your gambling?

I repeat, anyone who answers YES to seven or more questions needs Gamblers Anonymous. Sign me — Sam G. (Chicago)

Dear Sam G.: May I add a word? Any reader who flunks this test (or is married to someone who flunks it) is invited to write to the National Headquarters of Gamblers Anonymous, P.O. Box 17173, Los Angeles, Calif. 90017, for information on how to join your local chapter.

This group has performed miracles and changed thousands of lives. It has my solid backing. — Ann Landers

Starry-eyed over the zodiac

"The Stars and Tripe Forever," by Horace Cope.

"Aries (March 21-April 20): Benefic planetary influences make this a propitious day for new ideas, experiments. Tell the boss what's wrong with the way he's running the plant. Moon in favorable aspect at Department of Employment."

With such mouth-water intergalactic warnings and prognostications several million otherwise sensible citizens start off each day of the year, obtaining from their daily horrorscope a gratification second only to that of a cup of cold coffee. (And a cup of cold coffee is not easy to gratify, I don't care what Granny says!(

Astrology is the ancient art of blaming everything on the stars. It should not be confused with astronomy, anatomy, archeology, or astrology. These sciences are synonymous antonymns, if you follow me.

The daily astrology columns that appear in 1,250 of the nation's 1,500 daily newspapers came under strong attack last week when Astrology '76, a magazine on, uh, astrology, reported that nine American associations of astrologers had denounced the daily columns as "utter nonsense" and "fraudulent endeavors." (Carroll Righter, Jeane Dixon, Bernice Bede Osol, Erma Bombeck and others are laughing all the way to the bank.)

I was truly amazed. I didn't know there WERE nine astrological associations. My stars! The statement shooting down the stars of journalistic firmament was also signed by astrological organizations in England, New Zealand, Thailand, Australia and Europe.

Internecine warfare among the zodiacal fraternity could be injurious to your health. ("Gemini, May 22-June 21: Be cautious. Avoid extremes. Don't sign any papers — especially statements attacking astrology.".

The astral bull by the star-gazers against the daily coffee-cup astrological reports said that the newspaper columns "have no relation to the serious study of astrology and are of value only as entertainment." You think it's entertaining to read some of these doomcasts? (Virgo, Aug. 24-Sept. 23: Huge earthquake due tonight, your house epicenter. Wife SAYS SHE'S AT HER BRIDGE CLUB TONIGHT. IRS looking over four Form 1040. Good luck!")

Serious astrologists, like crystal gazers, phrenologists and palm-readers, insist on certain basic conventions. 'Horoscopes," snarled the statement from the nine associations, "must be cast individually on the basis of the time, place and date of one's birth to have any validity." Newspaper astrology columns are based only on the month of birth.

I must amdit that I have been puzzled by some of the daily newspaper predictions for me. I'm Aries, okay? So "Unexpected financial awards due. Be prepared." I'm ready, I'm ready! But there must be millions of Arieses around the world. Are we ALL going to inherit a bundle from a wealthy uncle in Australia? Maybe it's a suggestion that some of us should rob a bank or embezzle company funds.

Astrology '76 buttressed its attack on newspaper astrology columns with a reference to last year's statement by 186 prominent scientists — include 18 Nobel Prize winners — ridiculing the daily columns.

But the scientists went further — they called serious study of astrology unscientific and without physical basis.

Next they'll be attacking alchemy.

Dr. Lamb

Weight gain after baby

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 25 years old. In March 1975 I had my first baby. I am only 5 feet 1 and weigh about 130 pounds. When I had my daughter I had to have a section. Because of the section my doctor told me that I couldn't do any exercise. So I just went on a diet and went from 140 to 115 pounds.

From my middle down I still looked as if I were about five and a half months pregnant. I got so depressed that I went back up to 130 pounds. I know I am overweight. I am back on the diet to lose weight but I need good exercises to flatten my tummy and rear and also slim down my hips and thighs.

I know now that dieting is not enough. If you can, please send me a booklet or something with the right kind of exercises for me. I went to the book stores around here and can only find books on dieting and none on exercise.

DEAR READER — It is discouraging to suddenly pass from a small woman to one who has to fight to keep the flab off. Small women really have more trouble because they don't have a lot of muscle mass to begin with, so they use a small amount of calories at rest, compared to larger women.

Immediately after a section I can see why your doctor would not want you to do too much exercising that would put a strain on the scar. However, if it is a good scar there is no reason why you can't do ordinary calisthenics now to strengthen your abdominal muscles. The exercises will not be as big a strain on the healed incision as another pregnancy will be and women commonly have additional pregnancies after the first section.

Obviously you do need to diet. You know how since you have been successful in this department before. I recommend that everyone who goes on a diet also use an exercise program even if it is just walking. The exercise will help keep you from losing vital body protein and muscle. Without it you will lose so much muscle that it is even harder to avoid obesity after the diet than it was before. That is what is wrong with those fad and crash diets, among other things.

You need exercises to strengthen your abdominal muscles. I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-7, Girth Control: Avoiding the Big Middle. Others who want this information can forward 50 cents with a long, stamped self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. This will tell you how to do set ups and leg lifts that will tighten your abdominal muscles. Most people think that sit-ups will do the job, but they are just for the upper abdomen and will not help that lower pot.

A good daily walking program, built up to an hour a day if you have time, plus the abdominal exercises and weight reduction should do the trick for you. Men are too inhibited usually to use them, but bumps and grinds are very good for improving the strength of the seat and pelvic muscles. They might help in that department.

I also like to recommend swimming as a good exercise to lose weight. But you have to swim, not lie in the sun and gobble down snacks or cold drinks.

If the water is on the cool side it will help drain away heat, which means losing calories. The exercise doesn't strain your joints as your body weight is supported. It is a great exercise for many who have knee, ankle and foot problems and is a pleasent way to exercise in warm weather.

Jacoby's bridge

Sandy Trent KO's opponents

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Paul and Sandy Trent one of the best bridge-playing married partners in the world finished third in the Cavendish invitation.

West's two-diamond bid was some sort of major-suit take out. Bids of that weakness are not recommended and it sure bounced back and knocked its perpetrator right out of the box.

The Trents reached seven after several rounds of bidding and West opened the three of hearts. Sandy won in dummy, cashed dummy's 10 of diamonds, led a diamond to her jack, cashed the ace of clubs and led a third diamond to dummy's king.

When West followed to that lead Sandy paused to try to construct the West hand and finally decided that he would not have made that silly two-diamond bid with 4-4-3-2 distribution. Therefore, he was marked with a 5-4-3-1 hand and had already played his one club.

So Sandy led dummy's eight of clubs and let it ride for a successful double finesse. One more club finesse and the contract was home.

Ask the Jacobys

A Kansas reader wants to know how you handle a big hand with a long club suit when you play two clubs as your only forcing bid.

The answer is that you open two clubs and bid whatever number of clubs you have to at your next turn.

Marmaduke

"Why is it you have to be reassured every night that I still love you?"

L.M. Boyd

On unclaimed bank accounts

It has been reported that comedian W.C. Fields kept about 200 different bank accounts world-wide under phony names. Client asks how they were all checked out after his death in 1946. They weren't. Only 45 of those accounts actually were located by his executors. The researchers said they were pretty sure approximately $600,000 of his estate has never turned up.

Football players did not always wear helmets. In the early days, they just grew long hair. Very long hair. The record shows it protected them fairly well. Why the record does not show that numerous football players were tackled by their hair I do not know, but it doesn't.

IN LOVE

"Never trust a man's opinion on any subject until he has been in love. Love is the only thing which can make life as clear as noon day." So said John Oliver Hobbes. Here's to John Oliver — clink! . . . Have you put on an extra five pounds lately? If so, bear in mind your body has to build an additional four miles of blood vessels to handle that.

Q. "Of all the household appliances now on the market, which is generally considered by the majority of women to be the best labor-saving device?"

A. Believe wash-and-wear clothing merits that distinction.

Q. "Do alligators have ears?"

A. That they do. High on their heads so the ears are out of water when the alligators go cruising along the surface.

Can you name the woman who most influenced the nation's garment business in the last 35 years? Not Jackie Onassis nor Princess Grace nor the Duchess of Windsor nor Greta Garbo. Am told it was Marlene Dietrich. When she outfitted herself in slacks in 1934, the California clothing makers pounced on the fad. Within a few years their business jumped 50 per cent and the entire industry changed its course therefor.

SUICIDES DROPPED

During a newspaper strike in Detroit sometime back, the suicide rate thereabouts dropped 20 per cent . . . It was the Belgians, not the French, who invented french fried potatoes . . . Chances are about one in 25 a college graduate will wind up in jail sometime.

Average new-born baby cries 113 minutes a day, it's reported. That's too much crying. Any baby that cries 113 minutes a day isn't getting sufficient attention. Incidentally, do you know the quietest time of day in most hospital nurseries? It's 10 a.m. Noisiest time is around midnight.

Argument continues over whether a horse will eat itself to death, but a mule will not. Numerous veterinarians reaffirm the claim, however. Such is the case.

JUST LIKE A KID — Rio Grande Zoo gorilla Huerfano took his monthly bath recently and the three-year-old, like most youngsters, hated it. But in the end he forgave his keeper, a very patient Albert Griego of the Albuquerque, N.M., outdoor facility.

Plan to withhold income tax from interest, dividend checks mulled

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new tax collection plan moving in Congress would require that income taxes be withheld from interest and dividend checks paid annually to more than 50 million American households.

The Internal Revenue Service says many Americans cheat on their taxes by not reporting such income. The agency estimated that such a withholding provision would add $2.4 billion a year in federal taxes.

The withholding plan could be a key to approval of a tax plan before the Senate Finance Committee. Chairman Russell Long, D-La., is pressing for approval in order to raise government revenues during 1977.

IRS Commissioner Donald C. Alexander told the committee Monday that such withholding is the best way to make certain that taxes on interest and dividends are paid.

The committee, under Senate orders to raise revenues by $2 billion, is criticized by liberals because it has voted to continue key tax breaks for wealthy investors — although at a reduced level — while agreeing to let part of a major cut in individual income taxes expire next June.

The Treasury Department estimates that as much as $8 billion worth of interest and dividends is escaping taxation because of cheating. Enactment of withholding could raise collections by up to $2.4 billion in 1977, officials said.

That could allow Congress to accept Long's plan for continuing some tax shelters and still make permanent the entire package of individual tax cuts approved last year.

The IRS says almost 50 million tax returns filed in 1974 listed income received from interest or dividends. Surprisingly, more than half that number, or 29.7 million returns, showed total income from all sources of under $15,000.

Under present law, a bank of corporation that pays interest or dividends must give the recipient a record of his payments each year and report such payments to the IRS.

Angolan labor unions demand death for white mercenaries

LUANDA, Angola (AP) — Angolan labor unions are planning to stage a general strike Wednesday to dramatize demands for the death penalty for 13 white mercenaries whose trial opens Friday, according to reports.

The Angolan state prosecutor is asking that the mercenaries, including Gary Acker of Sacramento, Calif., and Daniel Gearhart of Kensington, Md., be shot.

The Angolan information minister has announced that the government regards all 13 as guilty and the only thing left for the court to decide is the amount of punishment.

Acker and Gearhart were captured along with 10 British mercenaries and an Argentinian by Cuban troops fighting with the Soviet-backed Marxist Popular Movement — MPLA. The MPLA won the civil war that followed Angola's independence from Portugal late last year.

Chief defense counsel Robert Cesner of Columbus, Ohio, said he had until Wednesday to produce his witnesses. He promised there "will be some surprises among the witnesses called."

Cesner and his young assistant, Bill Wilson of St. Louis, Mo., were poring over seven volumes of transcript compiled by the prosecution.

Cesner said he will use the Geneva convention and the U.N. Charter on Human Rights to show that mercenaries should be treated as prisoners of war.

The two lawyers have spent more than four hours conferring with Acker and Gearhart in the prison on the outskirts of the capital.

Gearhart had been in Angola only three days, according to Wilson. "He drove all night in a truck to the front, the patrol he was on came over a hill and there were the Cubans waiting.

Acker had been there four days when his patrol went searching for Gearhart and the other missing mercenaries.

"Acker had no combat experience," Wilson said. "He had been a Marine guard on an aircraft carrier off Vietnam in the final days of the war and never came ashore. In fact, this mercenary thing was his first permanent job. He had been employed laying roof gutters before that, but gave it up because he wasn't very good at it and had to pay for the ones he broke."

An international committee investigating mercenary activities has begun its sessions here with some 50 delegates, mostly leftist lawyers and revolutionaries, from 27 countries.

A "mercenary display" in the lobby of the museum where the commission is meeting included captured American and Chinese weapons, pictures of the mercenaries and a letter that was supposed to have been written by mercenary recruiter David Bufkin.

"The funds for the Angolan contract have run out," the letter says, but "those who wish to follow the underground railway" would find openings for mercenaries in Rhodesia.

Mercenaries reaching Rhodesia will receive a "long-term contract" at pay depending on their former army rank, the letter said.

A sergeant, for instance, could make $650 a month in a country where "a 16-cent cake costs six cents and a movie 40 cents."

Miss Ray's book to hit newsstands soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elizabeth Ray's book, "The Washington Fringe Benefit," has begun rolling off the presses and should be on the bookstands this week. The main character is described as "the playmate of some of the country's most powerful men ..."

The Washington Star reported Tuesday that the fictionalized, first person account names some real names, but only "innocuously, never in detailed descriptions of the main character's love affairs.

Rep. Wayne Hays, R-Ohio, who has acknowledged having a personal relationship with Miss Ray, is included only as a House member who helps the books protagonist obtain a parking spot on Capitol Hill.

The Star said the first printing of the 172-page book from Dell Publishing Co. will run to 600,000 copies. The book jacket promises to "blow the cover off the steamy secrets of Washington's mightiest."

According to the Star, the book describes congressional employers who forced the main character to have sex with other men or lose her job.

She is also kept on a congressional payroll while attending acting school, allowed extended periods of doing no work, offered a Caribbean junket in return for silence, asked to find other women willing to perform sexual favors and persuaded to sleep with a senator to guarantee his vote on a key offshore oil drilling bill.

"Not only was I the playmate of some of the country's most powerful men, but I often played a pivotal role in getting through some bills that are national monuments today," Miss Ray says through the book's principal character.

One major character is Sen. Otis Battle, described as "the most vengeful man in Washington," her "peppery, powerful nemesis," with whom she had the "most flamboyant love-hate affair in the scandalous annals of our nation's Capital."

A number of well-known Washington figures are listed as persons whom the main character once met. Among them are Sens. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., and Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., former Sens. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., and Joseph Tydings, D-Md., House members Thomas P. O'Neil, D-Mass. and Peter Rodino, D-N.J.; U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica and former White House Press Secretary Ron Ziegler.

The narrative takes the principal character from her job in a hotel cocktail lounge where she meets a lobbyist named Elan Bright who offers her an $8,700 job. With that, she "joined the political life never dreaming that I would have the biggest impact on Capitol Hill

Minister accused of stealing $25,000 from church collection

ROYERSFORD, Pa. (AP) — A Lutheran minister has been accused of stealing $25,000 from his church's collections. He denied the charge, saying, "If I was going to steal I certainly wouldn't take any money that could be tabulated."

An arrest warrant was served recently on the John Bergstresser, pastor of the Grace Lutheran church in this Philadelphia suburb. A hearing was set for June 16.

Church officials and Montgomery County Dist. Atty. William Nicholas said the total stolen over 12 years is about $65,000.

The amount was fixed at $25,000 because of a five-year statute of limitation on theft felonies, a spokesman for the district attorney's office said.

"The money is obviously missing and I guess they had to blame someone, so they're blaming me," the Rev. Mr. Bergstresser said. "Over the years, I've certainly made some enemies in the congregation who are gladly pointing accusing fingers at me."

Sunday collections at the church, which has about 1,500 members, average between $1,200 and $2,000. Investigators say about $100 a week was stolen from the donation envelopes.

"I guess the auditors just didn't pick it up," said church Treasurer Russell Reitnour Jr.

Africa may give blimp new chance

MUEHLHEIM, West Germany (AP) — The Zeppelin, symbol of disaster for 40 years, is seeking a new economic lease on life in remote areas of Africa.

Theodor Wuellenkemper, 34, a West German whose advertising and air charter company built a 200-foot blimp here, says the blimp is far cheaper than airplanes and can get into areas where other forms of transportation are impossible.

"Roads down there — if they deserve the name — are so bad that if you load 20 tons of high quality vegetables, bananas, peaches or tomatoes on a truck and drive them over a distance of 600 miles, they'll arrive at their destination with no more than 10 per cent of the cargo still usable," Wuellenkemper said in an interview.

"The fact is that roads are nonexistent at certain periods. Most are desert tracks or bush paths which after a downpour remain submerged for three or four weeks at a time. No truck and no donkey cart gets through there, cutting off tens of thousands of people. Yet they must be supplied," he said.

On returning from a survey of the West African test areas, a confident Wuellenkemper told a reporter, "We will fly down there in two freight planes during June, reassemble our ship and begin 2½ months of test flights under the most stringent climatic conditions."

He said most of the tests will be run during the rainy season.

The Bonn government has provided $1 million to finance the initial stages of Wuellenkemper's venture. About 20 aviation engineers and government observers will go along on the trip.

Reports on the tests will determine if the West German government grants another $9 million.

On arriving in Ghana, the aviators plan to blow up the tough airship skin with 212,000 cubic feet of helium, attach the rudders, gondola and two 250-horsepower Lycoming engines before taking off from Accra for Kumasi, Tamale, Ougadougou, Mali and Niger in a search of suitable jungle clearings and desert landing sites.

"We are going down there confident that our four-year-old ship, which has been operated in ice and snow, is robust and strongly built and will leave nothing to chance," Wuellenkemper said.

Unlike the Hindenburg, which burned at Lakehurst, N.J. in 1937, the cigar-shaped test ship is filled with non-inflammable helium. The Hindenburg was filled with highly flammable hydrogen. Thirty-five of 97 persons aboard the ill-fated dirigible were killed in the fire.

Asked how West African governments reacted to his plans, Wuellenkemper replied, "They welcomed our tests although they're not quite sure what it's all about, seeing that it is an entirely new idea."

However, Wuellenkemper said, if it all works out, he will teach local aviators to fly his airships. The ships' over-all design "is ridiculously simple compared with the many electromechanical functions of present-day jet planes."

He said that production costs of a jet capable of carrying a 30-to 40-ton payload are about 16 times that of a comparable airship. A freight plane's fuel consumption is approximately 1,850 gallons an hour. A nonrigid airship of similar freight capacity uses only about 80 gallons, Wuellenkemper said.

To carry such loads, he plans to build a ship twice the size of his test blimp. Meanwhile WDL-1, with a freight capacity of only two tons, will have to serve the purpose.

"It is merely a question of whether there are enough clearings to bring in food, to load fertilizers and seeds and to find out what preparations must be made to operate the bigger ship," he said.

Similar conditions can be found in many other parts of the world, "and we want to find out at this stage whether we are capable of finding solutions with the aid of our airship."

The airship can be loaded and unloaded while hovering just above the surface and needs only a fraction of the ground support facilities required by regular airplanes, Wuellenkemper said.

WDL-1, which took 12 months to build, has a range of 1,100 miles at a cruising speed of 62 miles per hour. The bigger ship Wuellenkemper plans will be 400 feet long, about half the size of the Hindenburg. It will have a range of 5,600 miles at 87 m.p.h.

Cyclist killed; struck from behind, ran over by wife

TORRANCE (AP)—A man riding a motorcycle near his home was killed when his wife who was following him in a car hit the motorcycle and ran over him, officers said.

A California Highway Patrol spokesman identified the victim Monday as Emil Paul Du Charme, 59.

The spokesman said Du Charme had just changed lanes and had apparently slowed down when he was rearended by his 54-year-old wife, Naomi.

Du Charme was knocked off his motorbike and thrown in front of his wife's car, the spokesman added.

Du Charme was taken to Gardena Memorial Hospital where he died a short time later.

THEN AND NOW — Kitchen utensils and cooking equipment used in America from early colonial days to today. Clockwise from lower left: 1. fireplace, hearth and various cooking items of colonial days; 2. wooden "trencher" and spoons used for serving meals in colonial times; 3. 19th century cast-iron coal and wood burning cooking range; 4. an early electric toaster; 5. 1926 vintage electric stove; 6. modern microwave oven. This is a 200-year parade of history in the kitchen.

Calvin fooled them

Calvin Coolidge, who invited members of Congress to breakfast meetings at the White House, startled his guests one morning by pouring coffee and cream into his saucer. In confusion, several others at the table did the same. Without a word, the President placed his saucer on the floor for his dog.

Cooking: from open hearth to microwave oven

The American story of the past 200 years is one of both revolution and evolution in the kitchen.

To say the lady of the house has come a long way in the ensuing years may be trite, but it also is certainly quite true. She has progressed from meals arduously prepared and cooked for hours on end over an open hearth, to a wood-burning stove, to gas and electric stoves — and finally, to new microwave cooking methods where meals often take mere minutes.

The story of how our nation's housewife has traveled from point to point over these past two centuries is a fascinating one.

The colonial home

Of necessity, the colonial woman often had to be a hunter, farmer, woodchopper, as well as cook, simply to get a meal on the table.

A large fireplace dominated the colonial home. In addition to providing heat for warmth and cooking, it was usually the center of family life and entertaining.

Heavy cast-iron pots, pans and other utensils often hung over the fireplace for easy accessibility. Foods were broiled over the open hearth, while baking was done in a brick oven built into the fireplace.

Because there was no refrigeration, meats were dried, smoked, pickled or salted to preserve them for future use.

Vegetables, fruits and herbs were also pickled or preserved in large pottery jars.

Corn was a basic food in almost every household. It was consumed in many forms, and corn bread was very popular.

Soups were also an important part of early American cookery. A kitchen wasn't complete without a huge cast-iron kettle used for the exclusive purpose of preparing soup.

Common soups of the day included corn chowder and pumpkin soup. Turtle soup was a favorite of the wealthy, and it was said that Philadelphia Pepper Pot soup was prepared for George Washington and his men at Valley Forge.

In the home — when meals were finally ready — they were served in pewter platters, dishes and basins and spooned into individual wooden bowls or trenchers. (In many instances, two or more diners would eat from the same dish.)

Tableware was usually made of wood or pewter.

Enter The Stove

The fireplace remained the primary cooking source in the home for many years.

Cooking stoves, as such, didn't come into use until the 1800s. A cast-iron cooking range — developed and widely used during that period — burned coal, coke and wood. Such ranges had cooking plates and an oven for baking. (Many also had a reservoir for keeping rain water warm.)

The first oil stoves resembled large lamps with one wick and a metal plate over the flame for holding a single pot or pan. Later, these stoves had three or more burners and a large fuel tank.

Although the use of gas for street lighting developed as early as 1816, the acceptance of gas for cooking came more slowly. In 1859, there were fewer than 100 users. Even in 1876 at the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia, pies baked in a gas fueled oven were considered an oddity.

Meanwhile, out in the old west, some of the best meals came out of a wagon . . . the "Chuck Wagon". This traveling kitchen of cattle drive fame was named for its inventor, Charles Goodnight.

Cooking methods in the nineteenth century were clearly in the developmental — as well as experimental — stage.

A "want ad" in a November, 1876 edition of the Chicago Daily News read: "Five minutes prepares beefsteak, chicken or fish and not a particle of smoke or smell permitted to escape into the house with the Atherton Boiler, sold by stove dealers and manufactured at 286 So. Clark St."

The revolution 'revs up'

Things really started happening when America turned the corner into the 20th century. Not only were gas ranges now in common use, but the electric range made its debut.

George A. Hughes, a North Dakota newspaperman who started his own electric company, built an electric cooking device. He demonstrated the unit which consisted of heating wires placed in porcelain blocks. The site was the National Electric Light Association convention in St. Louis in 1910. The unit was called an "electrified gas stove."

The name didn't take, but the stove did. Only two years later, 1,000 electric ranges were in use in Billings, Mont. (Customers received a special rate of three cents a kilowatt hour compared to the regular rate for lights of 30 cents.)

Other electric appliances quickly followed, but they were often clumsy and crude. Refinements were continually made, however, and it wasn't long before some of the drudgery had been eliminated from "woman's work" in the kitchen.

Homemakers soon had such electric items as the

How to put freshness into your picnic

In the summer, we picnic with abandon — on the beach, in our backyards, at state and private parks, from tailgates, baskets and backpacks — taking food with us as we travel, as we play. For a variety of reasons, the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association points out that fresh fruits and vegetables are sensible, economical and delightful picnic foods.

Remember, most fresh fruits and vegetables can be served raw, and that means less work for the picnic chef. A help-yourself plate of carrot and celery sticks, cherry tomatoes, radishes, scallions, green pepper strips, green beans and cucumber slices passed around with a creamy dip, is a crunchy, colorful picnic treat. Just cut or slice each vegetable as necessary at home. Then pack in plastic bags that twist closed and chill thoroughly. Place the bags in an insulated picnic chest with a plastic bag of ice cubes to keep the vegetables crisp and cold.

Two picnic favorites that need no chilling are onions and potatoes. Onins should be kept dry. Potatoes, which are delicious roasted over hot coals, keep best where it is cool and dry, but not under refrigeration. Transport both in separate bags to the picnic site.

Remember too, the tomato is a friend of every picnicker. Slice it onto grilled meats and sandwiches or into a tossed salad. To enjoy a crisp salad on a picnic, just rinse and core the head of lettuce at home; place the cored head in a plastic bag or container fitted with a lid and pack it in an insulated picnic chest. Break off the leaves as you need them to top sandwiches or to fill a salad bowl. A salad dressing with an oil-vinegar base doesn't need special chilling. Carry it in a closed jar and drizzle over the salad just before serving.

Most fresh fruits do not need to be chilled before or as you travel. Just rinse and pack in a picnic basket or carry them in their paper bags. Berries do require refrigeration. Pack them at the top of an insulated chest where they will not be crushed or jostled during travel. Members of the melon family — cantaloupe, honey dew and watermelon — have rigid skins that make natural containers; pack them at the bottom of the picnic basket or carry separately. Pack a sharp knife to slice these fruits into individual serving pieces at the picnic site. Out-of-hand eating makes fresh fruits particularly suitable for a picnic. They are "no utensil" thirst quenchers.

Exercise and great activity are earmarks of picnics, so nutritious foods are essential. Fresh fruits and vegetables provide important nutrients. Practically half of the vitamin A (49 per cent) in the food supply and 93 percent of the vitamin C are provided by fruits and vegetables. Green and yellow vegetables are the most important sources of vitamin A. Tomatoes are another excellent source. Vitamin C is on the whole not stored by the body, therefore it is necessary to consume fruits and vegetables that supply this important vitamin daily.

On your next picnic, prepare your favorite, hearty potato salad. Add a variety of fresh, chopped vegetables like green pepper, scallion, celery, etc. for extra taste, nutrition and texture. Remember, for safety and flavor, it's best to first chill foods made with meat, fish, poultry, milk and milk products in the refrigerator overnight, then pack them in an insulated container just before leaving for the picnic.

The final reason for selecting fresh fruits and vegetables for picnics is an ecological one.. They do not involve cans, bottles or heavy wrappers that could get left behind to litter the land. Whatever type of picnic you plan, it's a good idea to take along a large plastic trash liner for trash, scraps and used paperware. Leave your picnic spot as fresh and clean as you found it, or more so, and you and others will want to return.

Celebrate with peach shortcake

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Mention shortcake and most immediately think of strawberry shortcake. However, here is a buttermilk shortcake made with fresh peaches especially in mind. Another different dessert for summer celebrating is a cheesecake-type custard to go with a rich plum sauce. This treat is made ahead, spooned into glasses for attractive, easy serving.

PEACHES 'N' BUTTERMILK SHORTCAKE

- 2 cups sifted flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ cup butter
- 2/3 cup buttermilk
- 4 fresh peaches, peeled, sliced and sugared
- 1 cup whipping cream, whipped and sweetened

Resift flour with baking powder and salt into mixing bowl. Cut in 6 tablespoons butter with a pastry blender until mixture resembles course meal. Stir in buttermilk. Shape dough into a ball. Roll out to one-half inch thickness on a lightly floured board. Cut dough into 4-inch rounds. Bake in 450 degree oven 18 to 20 minutes. Split biscuits while warm; spread with remaining butter. Serve in individual dishes with peaches between split layers and on top. Spread whipped cream over both layers. Makes 4 servings.

CHEESECAKE IN A GLASS

Cheesecake:
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- Thin yellow peel of ½ lemon
- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- ½ cup hot water
- 1/3 cup sugar
- 2 egg yolks
- 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese
- 4 regular-sized ice cubes
- 1 cup dairy sour cream

Plum Sauce:
- 12 fresh ripe plums, quartered and pitted
- 1 cup sugar
- ¾ cup water
- Crust (optional)
- ¼ cup Zwieback or cookie crumbs
- 1 teaspoon sugar

Cheesecake: Put lemon juice, peel, gelatin and hot water into blender container. Blend at high speed 40 seconds (or use rotary beater). Scrape down sides with spatula; blend again. Add sugar, yolks and cream cheese. Blend 10 seconds. Add ice cubes one at a time and sour cream; blend until smooth. Pour into covered refrigerator container. Chill until set.

Plum sauce: Put plums, sugar and water in saucepan. Bring to a boil, stirring gently to dissolve sugar; cover and simmer 8 minutes. Remove 12 plum slices with slotted spoon; reserve for garnish. Pour remaining plums and juice into blender container. Blend on high speed until smooth. Taste for sweetness, adding more sugar if desired; blend again, if necessary. Pour into pitcher and refrigerate.

Crust: In small mixing bowl, combine Zwieback crumbs with sugar; cover and set aside.

To serve: Sprinkle crumbs into 6 tall stemmed dessert glasses. Spoon cheesecake into glasses, dividing evenly. Top each serving with reserved poached plum slices. Serve with Plum Sauce. Makes 5 to 6 servings; Makes 25 cups syrup.

A mud pie is child's play

Originating in San Francisco, this sumptuous, multi-chocolate, ice cream pie has quickly become one of California's most popular desserts.

In spite of its complex attractions — the crisp cookie crust, the right layers of ice cream, of fudge sauce, of whipped cream — the pie is child's play to make.

True, the crisp cookie crust does take about eight minutes in the oven but after that all you do is cool it, fill it, and pop it in the freezer.

If you're the kind of person who thinks nothing of turning a simple family meal into a company dinner at the drop of a hat you'll probably want to make two or three at a time.

A variation of the mud pie — and a lighter version — is the Parfait Party Pie with its chocolate meringue shell. Make the shell ahead of time and just before serving fill it with generous scoops of Chocolate Mint Ice Cream and drizzle hot fudge over the top.

Was apple pie ever this easy?

For those times when individual desserts seem more appropriate — children's parties, for instance, or buffet suppers — serve individual Fudgy Banana Party Pies.

Graham cracker crusts are layered with an irresistible peanut-butter-and-hot-fudge sauce, sliced bananas, and Jamoca or Jamoca Almond Fudge Ice Cream. Keep these in the freezer until you're ready to serve them with more of that delicious sauce and a crunchy sprinkling of chopped peanuts.

Child's play to make — but good enough to delight your most sophisticated friends.

MUD PIE

1½ quarts Jamoca Ice Cream
1 chocolate cookie crust, recipe below
1 jar (9 ounces) hot fudge sauce, at room temperature
¾ cup heavy or whipped cream
½ cup slivered or sliced almonds

(Keep ice cream in freezer until ready to use.) Prepare chocolate cookie crust in a 9-inch pie plate, cool, freeze. Remove Jamoca Ice Cream from freezer and let it soften slightly. Spade or scoop ice cream into frozen crust, leveling it with a spoon. Freeze at least 1 hour. Spread a layer of cold fudge sauce over ice cream. Freeze 30 minutes. Meanwhile, whip cream. Mound whipped cream on pie, sprinkle with almonds. Freeze at least 3 hours. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Chocolate Cookie Crust: Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Prepare 1½ cups of chocolate cookie crumbs. (Crush in blender or place cookies in strong paper bag and roll fine with rolling pin.) Place in bowl, toss with 1/3 cup melted butter until well mixed. With back of spoon, press mixture to bottom and side of a 9-inch pie plate. Bake 8 minutes, remove to wire rack and cool completely. Freeze.

PARFAIT PARTY PIE

1 9-inch baked pie shell
3 egg whites
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
¾ cup sugar
3 tablespoons cocoa
1½ quarts Chocolate Mint or Minuteman Mint Ice Cream
1 jar (9 ounces) hot fudge sauce, warmed

(Prepare and bake pie shell. Cool.) Make a meringue by beating egg whites until frothy. Sprinkle with cream of tartar; beat until stiff peaks form. Sift cocoa over meringue; fold in carefully. Spread evenly in pie shell, sealing meringue to fluted edge of crust. Bake 25 minutes in a preheated 325 degree oven. (Meringue will be soft.) Cool thoroughly. Just before serving, spade or scoop ice cream into shell. Drizzle with warmed fudge sauce. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

FUDGY BANANA PARTY PIE

½ cup chunky peanut butter
1 jar (9 ounces) hot fudge sauce
4 (4-inch) graham cracker shells
2 ripe bananas, peeled
1 pint Jamoca or Jamoca Almond Fudge Ice Cream
¼ cup chopped peanuts

Mix peanut butter and fudge sauce in a small skillet. Cook, stirring, over low heat just until warmed through. Remove from heat; spoon a tablespoon of sauce into each shell. Slice a half banana into each pie; top each with a large scoop of ice cream. Freeze for one hour or more. (If desired, remove from foil pans to serve.) Heat remaining sauce, pour over ice cream; sprinkle with peanuts. Makes 4 servings.

ZEPPOLE

Repeated on request.

2 eggs
1 cup flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
Pinch of salt
1½ teaspoons sugar
1 cup ricotta cheese
¼ teaspoon vanilla
Corn oil for frying

Beat eggs slightly; add remaining ingredients except the oil; beat gently until combined — batter will be sticky. Drop by half-tablespoonfuls, push off batter with another spoon into deep oil heated to 375 degrees, frying a few at a time, until Zeppole turn over by themselves and are golden-brown — about 3 minutes. Drain on brown paper and roll in confectioners' sugar. Serve at once. Makes 36.

toaster, coffee maker and food mixer to ease their cooking chores. And, with the development of the refrigerator, a major step was made in safely storing perishable food.

Almost no appliances were produced during World War II, but production again boomed following the war. The appliance industry poured huge sums into research and produced an entire generation of new kitchen appliances, including the electric frypan, the food freezer and the microwave oven.

Probably no other cooking method in the last 200 years offers as many cooking possibilities for the homemaker as does the microwave oven.

And, the discovery of the cooking principle used in the ovens is an interesting tale in itself:

A chocolate bar melted in Dr. Percy Spencer's pocket for no apparent reason — or so the story goes.

The year was 1946 and Dr. Spencer was working with high-frequency radio waves generated by a vacuum tube — called a magnetron — for use in radar technology. Dr. Spencer wondered if there was a relationship between the radar waves and the melted chocolate. His experimenting led to the discovery that these waves can indeed penetrate food. By vibrating the liquid molecules within the food, the vibrations generate heat which, in turn, cooks the food.

It's estimated that by 1985, one out of every two — or half the U.S. households — will own a microwave oven.

Today's modern microwave oven not only saves time but valuable energy, as well. (It has even been combined with conventional electric cooking in a combination range to give homemakers the best of both cooking worlds.)

Where will the American housewife be on our nation's Tricentennial — in the year 2076? Perhaps back in colonial days . . . only this time on the moon or even Mars!

Home economist offers helpful shopping hints

With sharper buying at the supermarket, anyone can afford better tasting, high quality food in spite of today's increased prices, says home economist Lib Underwood.

"The key is to cut out the frills — those non-nutritious items that you really don't need and which make the weekly food bill mount up she said. "By using a few proven shopping methods, the homemaker will find she has plenty of money to buy the better cuts of meat and the finer tasting national brands of canned and frozen foods that cost just a few pennies more."

Mrs. Underwood probably spends more time in supermarkets than most other shoppers in the nation, since she shops for her company's test kitchens and her family of four. In order to help grocery shoppers, she offers these "tricks of the trade."

— Make a list and stick to it. If you come into a supermarket not knowing exactly what to buy, you are going to be attracted by scores of widely different products and unnecessary items.

— Never go shopping on an empty stomach. Most everything looks good when you're hungry.

— Plan a week's menu of meals before setting foot inside a supermarket. That way you can intelligently choose which foods to buy based on nutrition and your family's likes and dislikes.

— Plan meats or other main courses on menus first. "My family likes beef and I prefer grain-fed beef because of its taste and quality." Beware of beef bargains at a store you don't ordinarily use. Unusually low sale-priced beef normally turns out to be too tough to enjoy, she cautions.

— Be sure to pick up some convenience foods that can be used to prepare a quick meal on days you run short of time or have unexpected guests. convenience foods not only save valuable time, but require less fuel and energy to prepare.

— Avoid specials on minor brand canned vegetables and fruit. The lesser brands may be lower priced, but they generally don't taste as good.

— Be careful as you scan ads for food bargains. If you drive to a store on the other side of town just because of some bargains, you will spend as much in gasoline as you might save at the cash register.

— Choose one or two nearby stores to do your regular shopping. Getting to know a few stores allows you to get through your shopping list quickly because you know just where everything is. Also, you'll know the hours when you can avoid crowds and save a long wait at the checkout counter.

— Pay close attention to what foods are in season. Sometimes it's nice to buy more of some produce that's in season and freeze what you don't use immediately for use in the off season.

Soups nice traveling companions

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Soups make excellent traveling companions. With so many families camping, hiking, biking and tooling along in their RVs, hot or cold soups are in order. Fill containers with soups to take along or prepare soups in advance of day trips to have with sandwiches when you return too weary to prepare a full meal. A potato soup with dill is soothing to the hungry stomach when served hot, but also may be served thoroughly chilled. Also refreshing on hot days is a chilled fruit soup of Swedish inspiration and a Spanish gazpacho or tomato-vegetable soup.

POTATO SOUP WITH DILL

½ cup finely chopped onion
1½ tablespoons butter or margarine
2 large potatoes, peeled and sliced
1 can (13¾ ounce) chicken broth
1¼ teaspoons salt
Dash pepper
2 cups milk
2 teaspoons chopped dill or ¼ teaspoon dill weed, crushed

In large saucepan, saute onion in butter 4 minutes or until soft. Add potatoes and chicken broth. Cover and simmer 30 minutes. Remove potatoes and onion and puree them in a food mill or electric blender. Then combine the broth, pureed potato mixture, salt, pepper, milk and dill in saucepan. Heat slowly until pipin ghot.

Makes 3 to 4 generous servings.

GAZPACHO

3 cups cocktail vegetable juice
1 raw egg
1 green pepper, halved and seeded
1 cucumber, halved and peeled
1 small onion, coarsely chopped
1 clove garlic
1½ tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
⅛ teaspoon salt
¼ cup olive or salad oil
¼ cup wine vinegar
4 scallions or green onion
1 tomato
1 cup garlic croutons

Coarsley chop green pepper and cucumber.

In the jar of an electric blender combine juice, egg, half of the coarsely chopped green pepper, half of the coarsely chopped cucumber, onion, garlic, Worcestershire sauce and salt. Blend until smooth (or puree in food mill.) Stir in oil and vinegar. Chill well. Meanwhile, finely dice remaining half of the green pepper and the cucumber. Thinly slice the scallions. Peel, seed and dice the tomato. Put in individual bowls. Pour chilled soup into bowls and serve with the prepared diced vegetables and croutons. Makes 1 quart.

CONCORD SWEDISH FRUIT SOUP

1 bottle (12-ounces) Concord grape juice
1½ cups apple juice
Generous dash allspice
Generous dash ground cardamom
½ cup cantaloupe balls
½ cup thinly sliced unpared apple
1 medium orange, sectioned
1 can (8-ounces) peach slices, undrained

Combine all ingredients. Chill well. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Liverwurst used in prize-winner

Liverwurst smothered with hard-cooked eggs, bacon and vegetables and dubbed the "Best Wurst," has stacked up as a prize-winner in the 1976 National Sandwich Idea Contest. It's the culinary creation of Andrew Golbert of Plattsburgh, N.Y.

The bountiful sandwich — further enhanced by Thousand Island dressing and Dijon-style mustard, and served on enriched Italian rolls — is Golbert's first entry in the 21-year-old annual contest.

Should "Best Wurst" make a grand slam with the final judges and be selected as one of 1976's "Top Five," Golbert wins $500 cash and a trip to New York City for a gala Coronation Luncheon for this year's Sandwich King or Queen, July 28, at the Hotel Pierre, before a distinguished royal court of food service professionals, food editors, restaurant executives and culinary trendmakers. If Golbert captures the sceptre, it's accompanied by an additional $500 and a trip for two anywhere in Europe.

All "Top 20" winning sandwich recipes and their creators are featured in a leaflet, distributed widely to both the food service industry and the public.

An unlikely tyro among food professionals, Golbert was graduated from Lafayette College, Easton, Pa., where he majored in history. But after college he chose the food service profession because, as he says, "the rewards are many and the business is challenging." Golbert also claims that growing up in the hotel business influenced his decision to pursue a career in food service. His father managed the Lake Tarleton Club in New Hampshire where Golbert at one time or another held almost every job imaginable.

The National Sandwich Idea Contest was begun in 1956 to seek out and reward creative talent among food service professionals using American food products. The 1976 event is sponsored by the American Egg Board; the California Raisin Advisory Board; International Natural Sauage Casing Association; the Kansas Wheat Commission; the National Live Stock and Meat Board; the National Wheat Institute; and the Wheat Flour Institute; in cooperation with the National Restaurant Association.

BEST WURST
6 sandwiches

6 enriched Italian rolls
2 tablespoons Dijon-style mustard
6 tablespoons Thousand Island dressing
12 slices (¼-inch thick) liverwurst (1½ lb.)
4 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
12 slices bacon, cooked
6 slices sweet large onion, separated into rings
6 lettuce leaves

Split rolls horizontally; spread bottom with 1 teaspoon mustard and top with 1 tablespoon Thousand Island dressing. On roll bottom layer liverwurst, egg slices, bacon, onion rings and lettuce. Close with roll top. Secure sandwiches with wooden picks and cut in half.

Garnish with dill pickle spears and sweet cherry peppers.

What food standards accomplish

Ever make a mail order purchase — and find out that you and the catalogue writer had a different idea as to the meaning of certain words?

Then you know why standards are needed. It's not enough to call something Grade A — both buyer and seller must know exactly what Grade A means if they are to trade at a distance.

And that's just what USDA grade standards for food do; give definition and meaning to each of the terms — grade names — used to describe food quality. In fact, the standards set the requirements (for example color, shape, degree of maturity) that a food must meet to be labeled as a particular grade. The standards make it possible for wholesale traders in food — producers, packers, processors, retailers — and consumers, to speak the same language — to know that they have the same idea of what U.S. Grade A means in describing eggs, for example.

Establishing these standards, with the participation and help of members of the food industry and consumers, is one of the major functions of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Marketing Service. AMS standardization specialists study a food product to determine its range of quality and where and how to draw the line between different levels of quality. Their study includes production, processing, and marketing of the product and consumer preferences and views.

Fresh fruit for a cake

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Make the most of fresh fruit while it is in season and the prices more reasonable. A large crop of California nectarines is expected again this year and these sweet, juicy treats make excellent out-of-hand eating, go well as broiled garnishes with meat dishes, in salads and, especially, in baked items. Combine fresh nectarines and fresh blueberries for a double delicious muffin-cake with streusel topping.

NECTARINE BLUEBERRY MUFFIN-CAKE STREUSEL TOPPING

2 large fresh nectarines
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons soft butter or margarine
¾ teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 large egg
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup dairy sour cream
½ cup fresh blueberries

Prepare Streusel Topping. Thinly slice nectarines to measure two and one-half cups. Cream sugar, butter and lemon peel together. Add egg and beat well. Resift flour with baking powder, soda and salt. Add to creamed mixture alternately with sour cream, blending well. Turn into greased 9-inch square baking pan and spread level. Sprinkle with half the streusel. Arrange nectarine slices and blueberries over top. Sprinkle with remaining streusel. Bake in center of 350 degree oven 55 to 60 minutes, until cake tests done. Cut into squares and serve warm. Makes 1 (9-inch) square; 9 servings.

Streusel Topping: Combine one-third cup each brown sugar (packed) and sifted flour and one-half teaspoon mace; mix well. Cut in 3 tablespoons soft butter until crumbly.

Fresh dill

When fresh dill is on hand from the market or your garden, you'll find it flavors vegetable soups and chicken broth delectably. It's great, too, in cole slaw.

KITCHEN CHEESE WITH PLUMS

1 quart half-and-half
2 tablespoons buttermilk
¾ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon basil, crushed
¼ teaspoon each, rosemary, tarragon and thyme
Fresh plums, strawberries grapes, peaches, bananas

Heat half-and-half in a saucepan until it is lukewarm (90 degrees to 100 degrees). Pour into mixing bowl and add buttermilk. Cover and let mixture stand at room temperature 24 to 48 hours until a soft curd forms. Line a colander with a double thickness of cheesecloth and place in sink. Pour curd into cloth and drain 15 minutes. Fold edges of cloth over curd. Place colander in a bowl large enough to allow space between bottom of colander and bowl. Cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate 12 to 18 hours. Turn curd into a mixing bowl and blend in salt and herbs. Mold in small natural baskets or other small containers. Serve with fresh plums and other fruits. Makes about 2 cups.

ICY PLUM SQUARE

1 pound fresh plums (about 7)
½ cup sugar
Lemon juice to taste
1 egg white
3 cups crushed ice

Wash, quarter and pit plums. (There should be about 2 cups.) Toss with sugar and lemon juice. Pack, including the syrup that forms on them, in freezer container, to within one-half inch of top. Cover, label and freeze. To make sherbet: partially defrost plums. Pour half of them into blender container, along with egg white and half the ice. Cover and blend on high speed one minute or until consistency is like fine snow (or use food mill.) Empty container into bowl. Blend remaining plums and ice. Mix with first amount. Pour into ice cube tray, with ice cube dividers in place. Freeze. Serve sherbet cubes in stemmed glasses. Makes one and one-half quarters.

(Note: Add more or less sugar depending upon your taste and variety of plums used.)

Economics becomes involved in home canning

By GAYNOR MADDOX

In other times "home canning" was the economy cry of women throughout the country. But today women are realizing that home canning is not the money saver it once was.

"Times change, customs change and economic patterns change," states nutrition specialist, Anita Dean, at Michigan State University.

"In the Middle West, where more canning is done than in any other part of the country, we have found that the cost of the food women put up is often the biggest factor in the total cost of preserving food at home. And the cost very often depends on the source of the food," she adds.

"Gifts of produce from friends with over-producing gardens reduces the costs of preserving foods immensely," she says. "Growing your own produce — vegetables and small fruits — is probably the next most economical way to get food for processing. Buying from a pick-your-own operation, a farmer's market or a roadside produce stand during the height of the season is another fairly low-cost option."

Family food preferences should determine what you preserve. Just because green beans, carrots or potatoes are plentiful does not mean you should can them. They are available all year around. But foods such as peaches, cherries, rhubarb and other foods of short availability should be top priority.

"Failure to follow canning instructions carefully can lead to spoilage and waste and even food poisoning," cautions Dr. Dean. "If you are unsure about your skills, you would be better off freezing food or buying commercially processed products."

Storage of your canned foods is important. They need a cool, dark place that does not get cold enough for food to freeze. Storage in an overly warm area lowers the quality of the food. And storage in a hard to get to spot may lead to waste because you have forgotten the food is there.

"Because of the initial cost of a home freezer and the expense of operating it, home freezing is usually more expensive than home canning," Dr. Dean says. "Homemakers often prefer freezing to canning, however, because freezing is easier and it preserves more of the fresh-from-the garden taste."

"If the main aim of home food preservation is to save money, however, canning is the way to go." Dr. Dean cites a study done at Cornell University that showed that foods frozen at home cost anywhere from 19 to 53 cents more per pound than comparable foods bought at the supermarket. This was true even if the freezer was energy-efficient, if it was used to full capacity and if electricity rates were low. A poorly operating freezer, inefficient use of freezer space or high electrical rates would push the cost per pound still higher.

Seafood important in Japanese diet

SHRIMP KABUKI

Fish and shellfish play a featured role in Japanese cooking. Because of Japan's geography, seafood is as basic to the diet as rice. Although the islands of Japan are limited in land area, no waters are more bountiful than the seas surrounding Japan. This accounts for the astonishing variety of fish and seafood eaten by the Japanese. However, seafood never becomes monotonous because the Japanese have devised numerous ways of preparing it.

Suggested here is Shrimp Kabuki, batter-fried whole shrimp with a Japanese dipping sauce. The butterflied shrimp are deep fried in peanut oil. The light, delicate flavor of peanut oil also blends well with other ingredients in marinades and sauces.

SHRIMP KABUKI
Makes 4 to 6 servings

½ cup chopped onion
1 large clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons peanut oil
½ cup soy sauce
1/3 cup water
¼ cup dry red wine
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
1 pound raw shrimp (approximately 24)
1 cup unsifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon peanut oil

FOR SAUCE: In a small saucepan, cook onion and garlic in 2 tablespoons peanut oil until onion is tender. Add soy sauce, water, wine, sugar, cornstarch and ginger. Heat, stirring until thickened. Cook over low heat 5 minutes; stir occasionally. Serve hot.

Peel shrimp and split butterfly fashion, leaving tails on; devein. In a large bowl, blend flour, baking powder and salt. Combine eggs, milk and 1 teaspoon peanut oil; add to dry ingredients. Beat with egg beater until smooth. Fold shrimp into batter, or let guests dip their own shrimp in batter before cooking. Fry in deep hot (375 degrees) peanut oil until golden brown. Serve shrimp with hot sauce.

Chef's salad: a meal-in-a-bowl

A chef's salad can be a wonderfully tasty meal-in-a-bowl at either lunch or suppertime. The salad's name was probably inspired by a resourceful chef who decided a selection of meats and cheeses he had on hand would combine well together. This balanced mixture offers nourishing protein in the ham, chicken or turkey, Swiss cheese, and hard-cooked eggs. Fresh tomatoes are low in calories and contain vitamin C.

Tabasco pepper sauce seasons two dressings that are deliciously compatible with the chef's salad. At one meal, serve the Classic French Dressing made with oil, vinegar, lemon juice, tarragon, garlic and tabasco. At another, serve Sour Cream Dressing made with commercial sour cream, lemon, vinegar, catchup and tabasco. For a buffet party, you can double the salad ingredients to serve eight people and prepare both dressings so they have a choice.

Variety is the spice of life and tabasco one of its nicest spices. This wholly natural product is made from sun-ripened peppers picked at the peak of ripe red maturity. These peppers are mashed, aged, then blended with salt and vinegar for the unique piquant flavor recognized around the world.

Serve the salad with savory hot biscuits prepared from a packaged refrigerated product. Give them your individual touch by dipping the tops in a seasoned mixture of melted butter, minced onion, cheese and a little tabasco.

Use a variety of salad greens for flavor, color and texture. Dark green leafy vegetables are a good healthy source of vitamins A and C; include spinach leaves along with a choice of romaine, escarole, chicory, endive, iceberg or Boston lettuce. The recipe calls for four cups of salad greens, so you might use three different types plus spinach.

CHEF'S SALAD

4 cups torn salad greens
¼ pound Swiss cheese, cut in julienne strips
¼ pound each, cooked ham and chicken or turkey, cut in julienne strips
1 tomato, cut in wedges
4 hard-cooked eggs, quartered
Pitted black olives

Place salad greens in large bowl. Arrange strips of cheese, ham and chicken on top of greens. Garnish with tomato wedges, eggs and olives. Serve with Classic French Dressing or Sour Cream Dressing. YIELD: 4 servings.

Classic French Dressing: In small bowl combine 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon dried leaf tarragon and 1 clove of garlic, minced. Stir in 1¼ cups salad oil, ¼ cup tarragon vinegar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice and ¼ teaspoon tabasco pepper sauce. YIELD: 1½ cups.

Sour Cream Dressing: In small bowl combine 1 cup sour cream, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon vinegar, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon sugar, 2 tablespoons catchup, ¼ teaspoon celery seed and ¼ teaspoon tabasco pepper sauce. Keep refrigerated. YIELD: 1½ cups.

SAVORY PULL-APART BISCUITS

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon minced onion
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
⅛ to ¼ teaspoon tabasco pepper sauce
1 package (8 ounces) refrigerated biscuits.

Melt butter in small saucepan. Add onion, cook until tender. Stir in Parmesan cheese and tabasco; remove from heat. Separate biscuits. Dip biscuit tops in tabasco butter and arrange biscuits buttered side up in lightly greased 8-inch round cake pan, making sure sides of biscuits touch. Bake in 425-degree oven 10 to 15 minutes or until golden. Serve warm. YIELD: 10 biscuits.

Why did Portet choose California?

CHERRIES PARFAIT SALAD

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Pride is a powerful thing. It brought Bernard Portet thousands of miles from his home in France and the magic name of Lafite Rothschild to a small winery in California's Napa Valley.

Portet left one of the most powerful and respected traditions in the history of wine at Lafite.

His father, Andre, managed the Bordeaux chateau that makes the single best-known wine on earth.

Portet, 32, grew up on the estate with its centuries-old tradition of fine vineyards and a collection of wines going back into the 1700s. The property is so treasured that it was set aside and protected by the Nazis as a special prize during World War II.

Portet attended France's renowned viticulture and winemaking school at Montpellier following his boyhood at Lafite.

With all this behind him, why did Portet choose to seek his fortune in the new wine land of California?

"Personal challenge, that's why," he answers.

Although he acquired his knowledge in France, Portet said that when he felt ready to take on a position of responsibility — a chance to make his own wine — the worldwide wine boom had sent property prices in his native Bordeaux out of sight.

The situation sent him on a worldwide search for a place of his own, and Portet, nodding at his winery here, said: "This is it."

The venture was financed through Americans Portet met in France. He settled in California's best-known wine area in the spring of 1972 and that fall made his first wine for Clos Du Val, as his winery is called.

Portet is in complete command of the operation, as his father was at Lafite. In fact, the younger Portet designed Clos Du Val and noted: "You don't get the opportunity to build a winery from the ground up very often."

He was, and is, highly impressed with California winemaking — especially the technology — but he hasn't forgotten his French background.

Clos Du Val produces only two wines: Cabernet Sauvignon, which is the primary grape of Bordeaux's red wines, and Zinfandel, an assertive red wine exclusive to California. This contrasts with other California wineries, which turn out complete wine lists in all colors and flavors.

And there are technical Gallic touches at the winery itself in the way fermenting wines are handled. For example, all of the barrels are made of French, rather than American, oak staves.

But Portet, that personal pride flashing, shuns com-

Entertaining in the shade

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Molded salads, whether filled with fruit or vegetables, go well with summer foods for entertaining in the shade. For a luncheon include a dessert-like fresh cherry parfait salad and a pitcher of iced tea or fruit-filled Sangria along with platters of meats, cheeses, relishes and warm rolls. During hot weather remember to keep all foods cool or chilled and avoid the old habit of letting foods sit unprotected for a long time on a hot day or evening before serving.

FRESH CHERRY PARFAIT SALAD

2 cups fresh sweet cherries
¾ cup water
1 (3 ounces) package lemon-flavor gelatin
1 pint pineapple sherbet
¼ cup chopped walnuts
Whole fresh sweet cherries for garnish
Mint sprigs or salad greens

Pit and slice cherries. Bring water to boil. Add to gelatin and stir to dissolve. Add sherbet, by spoonfuls, stirring until well blended and partially set. Fold cherries into gelatin along with walnuts. Pour into 1 quart mold. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with whole cherries and mint sprigs or greens. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

Note: Well drained canned sweet cherries or frozen cherries may be used when fresh cherries are not available.)

GINGER PEACH SALAD

1 package (3 ounces) lemon or lime flavor gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 bottle (7 ounces) ginger ale
1 cup drained diced sweetened fresh peaches*
¼ cup chopped nuts
¼ cup chopped celery

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add ginger ale and chill until thickened. Fold in peaches, nuts and celery. Spoon into individual molds or serving bowl. Chill until firm, about 3 hours. Unmold. Serve with crisp greens and mayonnaise or sour cream, if desired. Makes about 3 cups or 6 servings.

BARBECUE SALAD

1 package (3 ounces) lemon, orange or orange-pineapple flavor gelatin
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup boiling water
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce*
1½ tablespoons vinegar
Dash of pepper
*Or use tomato sauce with cheese.

Dissolve gelatin and salt in boiling water. Blend in remaining ingredients. Pour into a 3-cup mold, individual molds, or a serving bowl. Chill until firm, about 4 hours. Unmold. Serve with crisp salad greens and mayonnaise, if desired. Makes about 2 cups or 4 servings.

(Note: For extra flavor, add small amount of one or more of the following seasonings to the gelatin mixture before chilling: onion juice, seasoned salt, celery salt, cayenne, Worcestershire sauce, Tabasco sauce or prepared horseradish.)

Barbecue Vegetable Salad: Prepare Barbecue Salad as directed, adding 1 teaspoon onion juice and other seasonings as desired. Chill until thickened. Then fold in 1 cup drained cooked mixed garden vegetables or 1 cup mixed raw vegetables (radishes, carrots, celery, cucumber, cabbage, green pepper). Spoon into a 3-cup mold or individual molds and chill until firm. Makes about 3 cups or 6 servings.

Less money reported on farm exports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm exports during the first nine months of this fiscal year, which began last July 1, trailed the previous year's pace in terms of dollar value despite a substantial increase in quantities of products shipped overseas, the Agriculture Department has announced.

Through March, exports totaled $18.9 billion, down about 2 4 per cent from the nine-month total of $16.9 billion a year earlier, the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said. The volume of commodities exported, however, was up 17 per cent from the same period a year earlier.

The reason for the dip in value is that prices of many commodities such as grain, soybeans, soybean oil and rice have dropped sharply from their 1974-75 levels.

Despite the nine-month dollar decline, USDA officials are cautiously optimistic that farm exports for the full year to end, June 30 may top the record 1974-75 value of $21.6 billion. Grain purchases by the Soviet Union and new Food for Peace pacts with India and other nations are expected to boost exports, depending on shipment scheduling.

The report was recently parisons between his California wines and those of his native France.

"Winemaking is winemaking wherever you are," he said. "Two batches of grapes may turn out different even if made into wine by the same winemaker. They are more different if made by different winemakers. How about wines made thousands of miles apart?"

Comparisons aside, his winery, has one strictly California touch. It's bounded on two sides by a golf course.

Portet's father, who retired last year after 25 years of guiding Lafite Rothschild, has visited his son's California winery. And the younger Portet admits to placing more than one trans-Atlantic phone call for advice.

Though he prefers to steer clear of comparisons between the red wines of Bordeaux and his own Cabernet Sauvignon, Portet notes great differences between French and California lifestyles.

"In France you have long established relationships and habits. There is protocol in both business and personal relationships," he said. "Here it is much less formal."

Portet said he and his wife and two children had little trouble adapting to life in California, but doubts that anyone moving to France would find things going as smoothly.

In the business end of French wine: "The framework has been used for years and years and years. Here you have to fight for yourself although everyone is helpful."

He said some of the most highly-regarded California winemakers have made their help available.

That, he said, in a way shows another difference between California and France.

Winemaking here is still in its formative years even though California has been producing wines for a century, Portet believes. There is little of the continuity displayed in France.

"In France everyone involved in wine is more experienced, families have been in it for generations.

Grandfathers teach it to their sons who pass it on to their sons. They all have the feel for it."

As for differences in exactly how wine is made in France and elsewhere, Portet said: "The basics are the same wherever you are. It's the small decisions that make the differences, how fast one does certain things and so on. It's the small things that all add up."

He said he realizes comparisons are inevitable between California and France because his homeland's lengthy wine tradition has established benchmarks for what certain styles of wine should be.

However, he said he doesn't want his wine to be thought of in terms of other people's work in other lands.

"I was lucky to taste one of the best wines in the world all the time at Lafite," he said. "I know what I like, I know what I want.

"If I was making wine in France I would make it in the same style as I do here."

Then he poured a glass of his Cabernet Sauvignon from his first California vintage. He watched a guest swirl the glass, then sniff the wine.

When the guest smiled, so did Portet — with pride

FRIED CHICKEN

A Bicentennial summer menu

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

What better way to celebrate the Bicentennial than with a summer menu planned around an American favorite combination of fried chicken, homemade biscuits and corn on the cob. With these go fresh tomatoes, cucumbers and whatever else is fresh from the local gardens and orchards.

SUSIE'S HERBED FRIED CHICKEN

2 (2½ to 3 pounds each) chickens, cut into eighths
1 cup all-purpose flour
½ cup dry bread crumbs
1 tablespoon onion powder
2 teaspoons paprika
2 teaspoons salt
1½ teaspoons poultry seasoning
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
Oil

Dredge chicken pieces in flour mixed with bread crumbs, onion powder, paprika, salt, poultry seasoning and black pepper. Fry, a few pieces at a time, in deep oil preheated to 400 degrees until golden and tender, about 20 mintues. Or, if desired, pour oil to depth of 1-inch in a large skillet. Heat until hot. Add chicken to skillet, being careful not to overcrowd. Brown slowly on both sides. Return all browned chicken to skillet. Cover and cook slowly, turning once until chicken is tender, about 30 minutes. Remove cover last 5 minutes of cooking for a crispy crust. Makes 8 to 10 portions.

WILLIAMSBURG BUNS

1 cup milk
½ cup sugar
¼ cup sherry (or cider)
¼ cup margarine
1 teaspoon salt
1 package active dry yeast
¼ cup warm water (105 to 115 degrees)
5 cups flour (about)
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon mace
2 eggs, well beaten
Melted margarine

Grease 36 (two and one-half by one and one-quarter inch) muffin cups. Scald milk; remove from heat and stir in sugar, sherry, margarine and salt. Cool to lukewarm. Sprinkle yeast in warm water and stir to dissolve. Stir 1 cup of the flour, nutmeg and mace into lukewarm milk mixture. Stir in yeast. Add eggs; beat until smooth. Stir in remaining flour, a little at a time, until dough can be easily handled.

Turn dough onto lightly floured surface. Knead until smooth and elastic. Place in oiled bowl smooth side down, then turn over dough so smooth side is up. Cover. Let rise in warm place until doubled, about 90 minutes. Punch down.

Divide into 3 balls. Divide each ball into 12 equal parts. Shape into balls and place in muffin pans. Let rise again until doubled in bulk, about 45 minutes. Brush balls with melted margarine. Bake in 350 degree oven 20 to 25 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 36 buns.

For fresh pears

Baking fresh pears? To give them a rosy hue, peel them and bake them in a sugar syrup to which grenadine has been added. Baste the pears during the baking and while cooling.

Don't let high costs ruin your flavor favorites

Rising costs of meat and vegetables in the supermarket have resulted in a new generation of artificial flavors being developed to allow the average person to continue to enjoy these tastes without paying such high prices, said Dr. J.C. Leffingwell, a flavor expert.

"Americans like the taste of meat and vegetables in their diet. But today the average person must pay more for these natural tastes which means these tastes might not be enjoyed as often as before. Couple these taste desires with a continuing appeal in the convenience foods sector, and food manufacturers are discovering that products with artificial meat and vegetable flavors have a real plus to consumers," said Leffingwell.

"The development of highly nutritious textured soybean products for meat extenders has opened a new area for flavor technology which will be of increasing importance in the future. And, right now you can walk into any supermarket and see the popularity of convenience and snack foods which use onion and tomato flavors," he said.

Americans, according to Leffingwell, have not lost their taste desires in moving from natural to processed foods. "We all want something like our mothers would have cooked."

"It's probably too early to tell how great the impact of the new artificial meat and vegetable flavors will be in other consumer products since the basic flavors popular 20 years ago are still most popular today and continue to grow in demand. Among the most popular natural and artificial flavors for consumer products are vanilla, chocolate, lemon, orange, strawberry, raspberry, cherry, grape, butter, maple and peppermint," he said.

In addition, he explained, we now find these popular flavors in a larger variety of products than ever before. As an example, he cited yogurt products where almost 95 percent of all manufacturers produce flavored yogurts, with blueberry and strawberry being the most popular.

But despite the fact that flavor popularity hasn't changed much, Leffingwell said there has been tremendous improvements in the quality of flavors.

"More knowledge on flavor materials has been developed through research in the last 10 years than in all of recorded history. Basic investigations into chocolate, coffee, grapefruit, orange and many other familiar products have identified the key elements responsible for their characteristic flavor.

"This type of information now allows us to produce artificial flavors from nature-identical materials that are superior in taste appeal compared to the 'natural' flavor extracts, which often change in processing," he said.

RED HONEY-ONION CHICKEN

Chicken a favorite on the grill

Delectable aromas that waft across the nation from outdoor grills when the weather is pleasant to attest to the all-American appeal of backyard barbecuing.

Sauces may vary from one region to another but in every part of the country, chicken is a favorite for cooking on the grill.

Actually, barbecuing has been a part of the American scene since the Indians occupied the land. Early Spanish explorers found natives using crude wooden racks to smoke fowl and other meats over an open fire. The world "barbecue" is the English adaptation of the Spanish "baracoa."

Adapting to the New World meant adopting food at hand. From the Indians of the area that is now Mexico came foods such as peppers and tomatoes and to these tasty ingredients, the Spanish conquerors added chicken and other European favorites.

Mexican-Americans are also responsible for introducing the United States to many kinds of chili peppers, both green and red; some mild, some extremely hot.

All of these influences combined to produce a cuisine that flourishes today — and is reflected in the various barbecue sauces originating in the Southwest.

The National Broiler Council has modified two of these regional sauces in easy-to-use recipes that will add new interest to cooking chicken on the grill wherever it is served.

The first, called "Red Honey-Onion Chicken," is chili-flavored but with a subtle goodness the whole family will enjoy.

"Tasty Taco Chicken Grill" can be mild or hot, depending on your choice of taco sauce. Either way, it's a tasty new treat for the grill.

When cooking chicken on the grill, the National Broiler Council also adds these timely tips: to preserve the natural flavor and moisture of chicken, it should be cooked slowly over glowing coals with no fire showing. Start with skin side down and the grill close to the coals, turning chicken once at this level to seal in juices. Raise grill and complete cooking, turning and basting often. To test for doneness, insert fork; when juices run clear, cooking is complete.

RED HONEY-ONION CHICKEN

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in serving parts or 8-10 favorite broiler-fryer chicken parts
¼ cup vegetable oil
¼ cup vinegar
2 tablespoons honey
1 cup tomato sauce
2 ounces onion soup mix
2 teaspoons chili powder
Salt to taste

Wash chicken parts and pat dry. Place in large bowl. Put remaining ingredients in small saucepan, bring to boil and simmer 15 minutes. Pour over chicken parts and marinate at least 2 hours. (It's ideal to prepare in morning and marinate in refrigerator until mealtime). Drain sauce from chicken. Cook over glowing coals for about 45 minutes, turning often to brown evenly. For additional 15 minutes, brush generously with sauce, turning and basting. Remove chicken when juices run clear upon insertion of fork. Heat left-over sauce to pour over grilled chicken. A delicious meal with corn chips and cole slaw. Makes 4 servings.

TASTY TACO CHICKEN GRILL

6-8 broiler-fryer chicken quarters
4 oz. grated Monterrey Jack cheese
4 oz. can sauce for tacos (mild or hot)
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 small onion, grated (1½-2 tablespoons)
1 tablespoon bacon drippings
½ teaspoon oregano
1 cup Spanish style tomato sauce
¼ cup molasses
Salt and pepper to taste

Wash chicken and pat dry; place in large bowl. Mix sauce ingredients in small saucepan and bring to boil. Pour over chicken and marinate several hours. When ready to cook, drain excess sauce and brown chicken over glowing coals, turning every 10-15 minutes. When chicken is almost done (45-60 minutes), brush with sauce for final browning. Cooking is complete when fork can be inserted and juices run clear. Heat remaining sauce. To serve, place quarters on platter, pour remaining sauce over chicken and sprinkle with grated cheese. Serve with shredded lettuce salad and taco-flavored corn chips. Makes 4-6 servings.

New way to cook on an open fire

Cooking beef over an open fire has been happening ever since the days of early California pioneers. The style of cooking is old, but the method changes from time to time. The consumer service department of the California Beef Council reports that the recipe most frequently asked for these days is known as Beef on the Rocks. A thrifty beef chuck blade bone roast is undercoated with prepared mustard and overcoated with rock salt. The beef goes directly on the hot coals and cooks half an hour per side. The results — delicious.

BARBECUED BEEF ON THE ROCKS

4 to 5 pound beef chuck roast, bone-in Prepared mustard, about 1 cup
Rock salt, about 3 cups

Trim any fat from edges of beef. Spread roast with mustard to coat top and sides completely. Pack rock salt onto mustard as thickly as it will stick. Cover with piece of wax paper and turn beef roast over. Coat reverse side with mustard and rock salt. Place beef directly on bed of glowing coals which have developed a gray ash on top. Cook about 30 minutes, depending on thickness of chuck roast. Turn beef, using a small baking sheet and a broad spatula. Continue cooking for an additional 30 minutes. To determine degree of doneness make a small deep cut into the roast near the bone. Remove beef from charcoal. Knock off any salt which has not come off in the turning. Slice beef diagonally to the grain. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Asparagus tip

If you are freezing asparagus, count on 1 to 1½ pounds yielding one pint. Because the asparagus season is short, you may want to preserve some this way for future use.

No matter how you cook your chili, try this one

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press
Food Editor

The great controversy still goes on. What's the best way to cook chili?

Should the meat be all beef or part beef, part pork? Cubed or ground?

Should beans go in or be served on the side?

Are tomatoes admitted? If so, in what form? Fresh, canned, sauce, paste, puree or — heaven help us — condensed soup or catchup?

Should chili powder or green chilis be used? Is cumin a "must?" Are herbs — oregano, thyme, savory, bay leaf — okay? Is garlic necessary? How about paprika? Is tabasco legal?

What fat should be used — beef suet, lard, salt pork or oil?

What about thickening? Is flour allowed?

After the chili is concocted, comes the next big question: WHAT SHOULD BE SERVED WITH IT?

In Texas chili is offered with shredded cheese and chopped onion; at least that's how Lady Bird Johnson serves it down by the Pedernales River. In Houston anything goes — from corn chips to hominy grits.

In Peoria chili may be accompanied by a hunk of store cheese, old-fashioned dill pickles and big soda crackers.

In Cincinnati chili tops spaghetti.

In Oklahoma chili and macaroni are à go-together and the result is called chilimac.

In New York chili without rice is like a sandwich without a filling.

If you want to take sides, we're ready to record your vote.

In the meantime here's a respectable recipe for chili that's mild enough to suit most family tastes. A cook who wants it hotter can doctor up the seasoning.

It's made a time-saving way, in a pressure cooker. But first the dried beans are soaked with water, oil and salt. This is recommended by pressure-cooker specialists because during cooking dried beans have a tendency to foam and clog the vent pipe; soaking in this manner is said to keep the foam at a safe level. You can use a 4-quart pressure cooker (15 pounds pressure) for this chili even though the ingredients fill it two-thirds full. If you're cooking dried beans alone you should fill the cooker only half full; but in this recipe, and we quote, "the added stuff tends to inhibit the beans and keep them from acting foolishly."

- 2 cups dried red kidney beans
- ¼ cup salad oil
- 1 tablespoon salt
- ½ cup minced salt pork
- 2 pounds ground beef
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1 large glove garlic, minced
- 28-ounce can tomatoes, undrained
- 6-ounce can tomato paste
- 4 tablespoons chili powder
- ½ teaspoon cumin seed

Turn the beans, oil and salt into a 4-or 6-quart pressure cooker and add enough water to cover the beans generously; soak overnight. Turn the beans into a strainer or colander set over a 1-quart measure, to drain. If necessary add enough water to the soaking liquid to make 3 cups; if there's more than that amount of soaking liquid, pour off excess. Return the beans and the 3 cups liquid to the pressure cooker; close cover securely. Place pressure regulator on vent pipe and cook 30 minutes. Let pressure drop of its own accord. Remove beans. Add salt pork to cooker and fry until crisp; add beef; mash with a fork until beef is crumbled and loses its red color. Stir in beans and remaining ingredients; close cover securely. Place pressure regulator on vent pipe and cook 3 minutes. Let pressure drop of its own accord. Makes 6 servings.

Special cakes for anytime

Homemade special occasion cakes never go out of style.

You don't even need to wait for a special occasion! Family and friends will enjoy these homemade cakes anytime.

CHOCOLATE LAYER CAKE

- 2 squares (ounces) unsweetened chocolate
- 1 2/3 cups sifted flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon baking soda
- ½ cup shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- ¾ cup beer

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease 2 8-inch layer-cake pans and dust lightly with flour. Melt the chocolate over hot water. Cool. Sift together the flour, salt, baking powder and soda.

Cream the shortening, gradually adding the sugar; beat until light and fluffy. Add 1 egg at a time, beating well after each addition. Stir in the chocolate. Add the flour mixture alternately with the beer, mixing until well blended. Turn into the pans. Bake 25 minutes, or until a cake tester comes out clean. Cool for 5 minutes in the pans and then turn out onto a cake rack. Let cool completely before frosting. Put layers together with whipped cream or butter frosting.

FOUR EGG BEER CAKE

- 1 package yellow cake mix
- 1 package lemon instant pudding mix
- 1 cup beer
- ¼ cup liquid shortening
- 4 eggs

Combine cake mix and instant pudding mix in a large bowl. Add 1 cup of beer, ¼ cup of liquid shortening. Mix slightly. Add four eggs. Beat with mixer until thick, creamy, and smooth. Pour into greased and lightly floured tube pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 55 minutes. Invert to cool. May be glazed when cool.

Exports report...

published in a weekly issue of "Foreign Agriculture" and was written by Sally E. Breedlove, an analyst in the department's Economic Research Service. She said that exports during the mine months exceeded agricultural imports by more than $9 billion during the nine-month period.

Major farm export activity during the July-March period included:

—Wheat and wheat products: 25.5 million metric tons valued at $4 billion, compared with 21.9 million tons worth $3.9 billion a year earlier. A metric ton is 2,205 pounds.

—Feedgrains: 33.4 million tons valued at $4 billion, compared with about 27 million tons worth $3.8 billion a year earlier.

—Soybeans: 11.4 million tons valued at $2.3 billion against year-earlier exports of 8.9 million tons worth nearly $2.5 billion.

—Cotton: 504,000 tons valued at $612 million, compared with 586,000 tons worth $748 million a year earlier.

—Tobacco: 225,000 tons valued at $761 million against 233,000 tons a year earlier worth $724 million.

Odds against black students

By IRA BERKOW

Martha Berman teaches English in a New York City junior high school. The students are nearly evenly divided from a racial standpoint, about half are white and half black. Two of the classes she teaches are for advanced kids and two others she teaches are for lagging students. All of her advanced students are white, except for one. All of her lagging students are black, except for one.

Martha Berman is a tall, willowy white 31-year-old who says she has had a strong liberal education. She has been teaching English in this school for 10 years.

She is known as no push-over. She is a disciplinarian as well as a loving instructor. She will as soon throw you out of her class on your ear for smartin' off, as she will stroke your vanity when you write a simple declarative sentence that sings.

She says she loves teaching, but that she "exists" for her special-class students and "would get out of teaching entirely if I just had those slower classes.

"The slower kids — almost all black — are referred to in school as the 'retardeds' though they are not retarded in the clinical sense," she says. "They just have no energy, no interest and no motivation for school. They come to school in the morning without pencils, without notebooks, without having done the homework. It is not uncommon for these eighth and ninth graders to have fourth grade reading levels.

"They come in eating popcorn and candy because they've had no decent breakfast at home. And then they fall asleep on the desks because they've usually had little sleep at home. After several years, it occurs to you that trying to rouse them is a fruitless task. You let them sleep.

"I know what their lives are like and all I can do is feel despair for them. I've gone into their homes occasionally on an errand. It's incredible. So many kids making so much noise in just a couple of rooms. There are 10 kids and they're all screaming. The doors are falling off the hinges, the screens are ripped. Shabby curtains separate the bedroom from the living room.

"There's maybe a man sleeping off a drunk on the couch. In all likelihood, it is not the father but one of the mother's boyfriends. The father has been long gone.

"The kid comes home from school, does his chores, plays until late and then goes to school.

"Besides the detrimental home life, the black kid who wants to learn has another strike against him: his peer group.

"They see little value in education. The kid who studies is ridiculed. And if he tries to make friends with some of the white kids who are interested in learning, they get, 'Hey, honkey lover,' or, 'How's your cracker friend,' on the bus home. It's not worth it, usually, to take the abuse.

"Oh, sometimes there are exceptional kids who are undaunted. There's one in school now who was the star of the school play. He loves the drama class. But every time the school has some kind of performance, he is booed off the stage by the other black kids. He can never finish a song. The only time he did was one night a play was put on for parents, and he brought the house down. But he stays with drama and he is ostracized by the blacks for it.

"I know of two other black students who were enthusiastic about learning and each is in college now. They are both doing well.

"But they are the rare, rare exception. The intimidation is so great. I had one student who went against the Seven Crowns, a local gang about some minor point. One night his doorbell rang, he opened the door and was stabbed to death. His mother and brother witnessed it. They were told that if they say a word to the police, they'll be killed, too. And everyone knew they meant it. They like blood. So no one said a word, of course.

"I was talking with one bright black boy. I told him he had such great potential and why not study? He said, 'I wanna be a pimp and make more money than I could if I went into Whitey's world. I got my coke, I got my women, I got my lizzard shoes, I got my pad and maybe 50 grand a year, and I got my neat Pimpship.'

"There was one 13-year-old black girl who was so smart, so pretty, so sweet. She had that spark in her eyes that teachers are always dying to find. I took her home with me numerous times. I took her to plays. We talked for hours.

"One day she didn't show up for school. And another day. I asked a friend of hers where she was. I was told she was pregnant and had decided to stay home. I was disappointed and, I confess, hurt that she couldn't confide in me. When I saw her after she had the baby, she said that she was afraid I'd be destroyed if she told me, that she realized that my world was not her world and that she had decided to stay in hers.

"I look at the black and white problem in my school. I look at it in Boston. I see that the roots go so deep. Education is the answer, but there are steps before that. Most of these kids are lost causes even before they get to the first grade. Their environment plays such a crucial role in their development.

"What should the country do? What would I do? My God, it is so hard. But I believe the kids have to have a fairer shake — even if they had equal funding and equal opportunity for education, they need something else. A better environment.

"I've thought that some kind of commune might be an answer. With the parents consent, the kids should be taken away from their homes when they are young and placed in situations where there is peace, peace from bodily harm as well as peace of mind."

Poly plays for NCAA crown tonight

Progress Bulletin
Sports
Pomona, California ■ Wednesday, June 9, 1976

PB Staff Writer

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — The Broncos wowed 'em Tuesday night in the NCAA Division II national playoffs.

Cal Poly won over the hearts of many local fans by scoring a stirring 6-5 comeback victory over Southern Illinois (Edwardsville) here at Lamphier Park.

The Bronco victory sets up a final game tonight at 5 p.m. (PDT) between the two clubs. Both Poly and SIU stand 3-1 in tourney action.

The Broncos, shooting for all the marbles, will send Mike Regus (10-5) to the hill. The Cougars are expected to counter with ace southpaw Stan Osterbur (6-3).

Pomona's Ray Pekarcik came through again in the clutch, singling home Ken Hellyer with one out in the last of the ninth with the winning run. That tally broke up a 5-5 deadlock between the two evenly matched ball clubs.

Bronco pitcher Bruce MacPherson atoned for his opening-game loss by firing an eight-hitter against SIU Tuesday. The Poly hurler got tougher as the game progressed, and finished with seven strikeouts against the power-hitting Cougars.

Actually, the Broncos got the best of the muscle-flexing contest. Coach John Scolinos' squad hammered three solo home runs, two of them by third sacker Clay Harris. Those round-trippers kept Poly in the game in the early going.

"Our power came through for us," Scolinos pointed out after the come-from-behind victory. "With our power, our guys know they can always make a comeback. Even when we were down 5-2, we knew we could come back."

The Cougars staked starting pitcher Larry Moore to a 5-2 advantage after 4½ innings. However, Poly erased that lead in the last of the fifth, as Dennis Sherow and Harris bombed back-to-back homers to make it 5-4.

Those circuit clouts seemed to rattle Moore. He then surrendered an infield single to Hellyer, a walk to Kevin Jenkins and hit Dale Biggs with a pitch to load the sacks.

With the bases full of Broncos, Moore committed a crucial balk while pitching to Lon Brucegard, bringing home Hellyer with the tying run.

The game stayed knotted at 5-all until Pekarcik ripped a single to right in the final frame, bringing Hellyer in from second with the winning run.

Hellyer just did make it, as the throw from rightfielder Mike Brown eluded Cougar catcher Pat Scholz.

Southern Illinois (now 31-19 on the year) had ousted Southeast Missouri, 9-3, in Tuesday's opening game. With the win, Cal Poly now stands at 39-27-1 on the year.

SIU drew first blood in the see-saw contest. The hot-hitting Brown (hitting .600 for the tourney) led off the second inning with a single to left off MacPherson. Bill Lee followed by rattling a double off the rightfield fence, Brown scoring all the way from first on the hit.

Poly tied it in the last of the third without hitting the ball out of the infield. Monty Cloward drew a one-out walk off Moore and promptly stole second. He moved to third on Alex Torres' groundout, and came home as Sherow reached safely on an infield single.

The Cougars came right back in the fourth to go ahead 2-1. Brown ripped a one-out triple to right-center and scored on Lee's sacrifice fly.

The Broncs wasted no time in tying it up again in the bottom of the fourth as Harris slugged the first of his two solo home runs. Cal Poly loaded the sacks in the same frame with two away, but Moore managed to subdue that rally.

SIU scored three times in the fifth, thanks mainly to a mental miscue by hurler MacPherson.

With one out and runners at first and second, Cougar Tim Twellman topped a ball back to the Bronco pitcher. MacPherson looked at third, looked at second and looked at first but failed to throw the ball anywhere as Twellman reached safely to load the sacks.

Scholz cashed in one run with a perfect suicide squeeze bunt and John Urban's line single off third baseman Harris' glove netted SIU their fourth and fifth runs.

From that point, MacPherson settled down to hold the Cougars at bay the rest of the way. The victory was "Big Mac's" 13th victory of the season and his 16th complete game.

"I was totally exhausted after this one," MacPherson said. "These guys can really hit the ball, so they made it rough on me. I made a bonehead play on that one ball hit back to me, but everything worked out okay. Just like last night, our scouting report was outstanding. We have these guys figured out to a tee by now."

Cooke remains strangely silent

Even the best layed schemes of Jack Kent Cooke sometimes go awry.

In case you hadn't noticed, the Lakers went into the NBA draft Tuesday with a party that included Pete Newell and Bill Sharman, both of whom have been rumored on the hot seat.

There was supposed to have been a decision on Sharman Monday. No announcement has yet been made as of this writing (Tuesday afternoon).

Since the Laker season ended more than two months ago, one wonders just what has gone on in the house that Jack built. It obviously doesn't take that long to decide whether to keep or fire an incumbent coach.

Hence the conclusion that JKC had one or more moves in mind but none worked out. Most widely rumored was that either former Laker great Jerry West or Cleveland Cavaliers coach Bill Fitch would replace Sharman.

But a month ago West reportedly was telling his friends that Fitch was practically "signed, sealed and delivered."

However, a storm erupted on the Cleveland shores of Lake Erie when Fitch asked for his release. Cavs owner Nick Mileti accused Cooke of Tampering.

Mileti said he would not release Fitch from his contract which still has two years to run. Furthermore the Cleveland owner threatened to sue Cooke if he persisted.

Lost Sharman suit

Cooke already has lost one suit of that nature. The Utah Stars of the ABA took action against him when he originally signed Sharman.

Fitch is still trying to get his release, but now may be headed toward Chicago.

The Cavs' coach last week retained the services of Chicago attorney Arthur Morse, a close friend of Bulls' owner Arthur Wirtz.

By coincidence, the Bulls are looking for a coach to replace the departed (to Washington) Dick Motta.

Fitch and Mileti have been at odds ever since it was made known that Fitch wanted out.

Morse told the Cleveland Plain Dealer last week, "I think I can convince Mileti that it is in the best interest of all parties to release Fitch. Morse said he had been contacted by Fitch the week before.

Morse contended he knew nothing of Fitch's future plans. And so all parties continue to play a game of wait and see.

Jack Kent Cooke, a man noted for decisive action, has been silent and, publicly inactive for 10 weeks.

Amazing.

The biggest joke in many a moon would be if Cooke, rebuffed in attempts to get Fitch or Bobby Knight (rumored to have been offered the job before Fitch), has decided to keep Sharman and Sharman is demanding more money or another long term pact or both.

Five players taken by pros

Dennis Sherow of Cal Poly topped a list of five local players selected Tuesday in the first of three days of drafting by professional baseball teams.

Bonita catcher Scott Johnson, Poly pitcher Rick Schwenn, catcher Gary Wiencek from Claremont who played for Citrus College and USC, and La Verne first baseman-catcher John Edwards joined Sherow.

Sherow was a second-round choice of the Montreal Expos. Johnson and Wiencek were picked by the Detroit Tigers. Johnson was the first player named in the third round. Wiencek went on the 12th round.

Schwenn was selected by the Angels in the 11th round. Edwards was picked by the American League champion Boston Red Sox on the 13th round.

"I'm happy to be drafted by the Expos," said Sherow. "They need outfielders, so I should have a good chance to move up to the big club."

The 6-4, 195-pound outfielder batted .387 for John Scolinos' CCAA champions. He had 11 home runs and 49 runs batted in. Schwenn developed a sore arm and was not with the Broncos the last month of the season. He was 2-7 with a 4.01 earned run average in 13 games.

Johnson was an All-Hacienda League pick. He batted .384 in league play and .411 overall and stole 23 bases.

"I really didn't know I'd be drafted by Detroit said Wiencek whose dad is a scout for the Tigers. "Four or five teams had contacted me. But I think Detroit took me a little higher than the others would have."

Wiencek was named Most Inspirational Player twice at Citrus and once at USC. His best batting average at Citrus was .342. He hit .272 in his best year at USC. This year he was used primarily in left field and also played first base.

Edwards, a catcher for Sacramento City College before transferring to La Verne. The husky (6-0, 195 pounds) hit .381 in regular season play and .405 in the District and Area Playoffs.

Phils pound Dodgers

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — Has the Dodgers' pitching staff suddenly collapsed or are the Philadelphia Phillies really that powerful?

That is a question Dodger fans are asking themselves after the Phils displayed their muscle again in an easy 14-2 rout over L.A. Tuesday night at Dodger Stadium.

In sweeping the first two games of the series, the Eastern Division leaders have scored 22 runs and have pounded out 31 hits.

But the Phils aren't the only team which has displayed a hitting attack against Dodger pitching, which is supposed to be Los Angeles' strongest department.

Dodger pitchers have allowed 57 runs during the first nine games of the homestand and the team earned run average has jumped from 3.36 to 3.83 during that span as L.A. has lost six of the nine to fall three games behind Cincinnati in the National League West standings.

"We hit the ball good at times, but the thing that worries me the most is our pitching," admits Dodger skipper Walter Alston.

Tommy John, the stylish southpaw, was the victim Tuesday but his efforts were hurt by a key fielding error by shortstop Bill Russell.

John was charged with five runs in his four innings including a big four in the fourth but two of the tallies came across after Russell threw away a potential double play ball.

After John went out of the lineup in the bottom of the fourth, the Phils really went to work.

Rusty Al Downing, who has seen little work, got rapped for six earned runs and six hits while retiring only one batter in the fifth.

Stan Wall was the next victim as he gave up three runs and seven hits through the final four innings.

Despite the awesome display of hits, the Phils were denied any homers in the rout but Mike Schmidt and Ollie Brown each had three hits and everybody in the starting lineup got at least one.

The biggest blow of the game was Bob Boone's bases-loaded double in the fifth. That was the signal for the 27,950 customers to go home early.

John was asked to compare the Phils with the Reds but couldn't.

"That's like trying to compare the hydrogen bomb and the atom bomb. They both kill," he said. "But, overall, I like the Phils."

The Dodgers actually enjoyed the lead once when they scored in the first inning when Davey Lopes singled, stole second and came home on Steve Garvey's single up the middle.

L.A. made it respectable at 5-2 in the bottom of the fourth when Ron Cey doubled and scored on Steve Yeager's grounder.

But once the Phils built it to 11-2, young righthander Larry Christenson (7-2) was able to coast the rest of the way.

DODGER DATA — Jim Lonborg (8-1) will try to make it three in a row for the Phils tonight when he opposes Burt Hooton, 4-5.

The Phils are 17-4 on the road and have won 34 of their last 45.

Yeager will be married Saturday afternoon at the Los Angeles City Hall to Gloria Gaione.

Ellis beats Halos, is back in grace

NEW YORK (AP) — Yankee right-hander Dock Ellis wins his games in streaks, and he loses them the same way.

Ellis won his first four decisions this season after coming to New York from Pittsburgh, and looked like a world-beater in the process. Then he lost his next four and rumors promptly surfaced that he was about to be lifted from the rotation.

Now, after beating California 5-2 on a five-hitter Tuesday night, Ellis is back in everyone's good graces, especially Manager Billy Martin's.

"I am very much satisfied with Dock," said Martin. "He pitched well and stayed ahead of the hitters with his fastball and especially his breaking ball.

"I have never thought about taking Ellis out of the rotation."

Ellis hasn't thought about it either.

"I wasn't sweating the fact I had lost four straight," he said. "All I thought about was winning the game. I was ahead on almost every hitter and only went to 3-2 three times."

New York struck for three runs off loser Gary Ross, 3-7, in the first inning on a two-run triple by Chris Chambliss and a run-scoring single by Graig Nettles. They played the rest of the game just for the record.

"I felt great," said Chambliss of his triple. "I just went with the pitch to left center. I feel we can win if we just keep going this way."

California closed to within a run on Bill Melton's sacrifice fly in the second and Bruce Bochte's bases-loaded ground out in the sixth. Nettles added an insurance run with a homer in the seventh for New York and Ellis kept the Angels in check the rest of the way, winding up the game in a tidy 1:49.

"I once pitched a game in 1:34 against Jim Bunning who was with the Phils," said Ellis. "I gave up three hits in the game, all triples and all to Oscar Gamble. But I won the game."

Lucas may try two sports

NEW YORK (AP) — Can John Lucas find happiness on both the basketball and tennis courts?

He's going to try.

Lucas, a college All-American in both tennis and basketball, was the No. 1 pick in Tuesday's National Basketball Association draft, by the Houston Rockets.

After quickly signing a five-year, no-cut contract for a reported $850,000 with the Rockets, the 6-foot-4 Lucas said he also was negotiating with a franchise in World Team Tennis and probably would sign with a WTT member—which he did not identify—next week.

"Eye-hand coordination is the most important factor in both sports," said Lucas, who reached the third round of the recent NCAA tennis tournament at Corpus Christi, Tex. "The footwork in tennis also helps me as a guard in basketball."

Lucas said he plays both basketball and tennis three hours a day. "I'm getting ready all the time," he pointed out. He said he felt both sports were compatible.

"But right now, my primary concern is playing basketball," added Lucas, who averaged 18.3 points a game in four years as a starter at Maryland.

Lucas said he was aware he would have to beat veterans Mike Newlin and Calvin Murphy for a starting backcourt job with the Rockets, and added, "I just hope to get to play some."

The Rockets, operating under new Coach Tom Nissalke, acquired the No. 1 draft on Monday by trading center Joe Meriweather, guard Gus Bailey and their first-round pick to Atlanta for center Dwight Jones and the Hawks' top choice.

"I was playing basketball ... when they came and told me that Houston had the No. 1 pick and they wanted me," said the quick, confident Lucas. "It really pumped me up. I knew other teams had been interested in me. I consider it their loss."

The Rockets and the other teams, meanwhile, chose 175 other players in the 10-round draft which lasted 2 hours, 5 minutes.

Four of them were from Indiana's national champions. All-American forward Scott May, the College Player of the Year, was the No. 2 pick, by the Chicago Bulls. Two others, guards Quinn Buckner and Bobby Wilkerson, also were drafted on the first round. Buckner, like May a member of the U.S. Olympic team, was selected by the Milwaukee Bucks, and Wilkerson went to the Seattle SuperSonics.

Indiana forward Tom Abernethy was chosen on the third round, by the Los Angeles Lakers.

The only starting member of Indiana's NCAA winners to avoid the draft was All-American center Kent Benson, a junior.

The other 1976 Associated Press All-Americans, forwards Adrian Dantley of Notre Dame and Phil Sellers of Rutgers, were high picks in the draft. Dantley, a junior who decided to pass up his last year of college eligibility for the pros, was taken by the Buffalo Braves in the first round. Sellers went to the Detroit Pistons in the third round.

In addition to May, Buckner and Dantley, two members of the 15-man Olympic team were chosen. They were centers Mitch Kupchak of North Carolina, by Washington in the first round, and Scott Lloyd of Arizona State, by Milwaukee in round two.

Dantley also was one of seven college undergraduates or high school eligibles from a list of 16 to be chosen. The others were forward Richard Washington, by Kansas City; guard Larry Wright of Grambling, by Washington; forward Norm Cook of Kansas, by champion Boston; guard Johnny Davis of Dayton, by Portland; forward Lonnie Shelton of Oregon State, by New York, and forward Jacky Dorsey of Georgia, by New Orleans.

Washington, Wright and Cook were selected in the first round, the others in round two. Kansas City announced shortly after the draft that they had signed Washington. Terms were not disclosed.

The Knicks' choice of Shelton could cause some controversy. The rival American Basketball Association said that Shelton has a contract with the league and is the property of the Utah franchise.

However, the Utah team is in danger of dying. If the NBA accepts the ABA's proposal of taking in four franchises for the 1976-77 season, Utah will not be included. Still, the ABA claims that Shelton belongs to the league.

Knicks President Mike Burke termed Shelton's selection "a gamble."

Last year, the Knicks were guilty of illegally signing George McGinnis, who belonged to the NBA's Philadelphia 76ers, and Commissioner Larry O'Brien took away their first-round draft pick this year.

Los Angeles and New Orleans also were without first-round choices, both the result of previous trades.

Other first-round choices included: Alabama center Leon Douglas, by Detroit; Virginia forward Wally Walker, Portland; Centenary center Robert Parish, Golden State; Princeton guard Armond Hill, Atlanta; Oregon guard Ron Lee, Phoenix; Michigan State guard-forward Terry Furlow, Philadelphia; Kansas State guard Chuckie Williams, Cleveland, and Texas A&M forward Sonny Parker, Golden State.

Guard Marshall Rogers of Pan American, the major college scoring champion last season, was picked by Golden State in the second round, and backcourtman Archie Talley of Salem, W.Va., the college division scoring leader for 1975-76, was chosen by New York in round nine.

Chicago gets Bobby Orr

MONTREAL (AP) — Bobby Orr, the fabulous but fragile National Hockey League star, agreed to terms with the Chicago Black Hawks today, ending a celebrated free agency that rivaled baseball star Catfish Hunter's and netted the defenseman a similar contract.

Orr's attorney, Alan Eagleson, announced the multi-year agreement, which he said was unconditional—that his client would be paid regardless of his ability to play. That ability would be ascertained beginning later today when Orr enters a Toronto hospital for tests on his troubled left knee which might need a sixth operation.

Johnson homers after being drafted

La Verne Post 330 nipped Claremont Post 78, Montclair clobbered Walnut Thorobred and Pomona Post 30 lost to El Monte in 11 innings in Tuesday's American Legion baseball action.

Scott Johnson, drafted earlier in the day by the Detroit Tigers, responded by hitting a long home run — for what turned out to be the winning run — in La Verne's 4-3 win over Claremont. The La Verne catcher, who was drafted in the third round, blasted the ball into the tennis courts beyond the left-centerfield wall at La Verne College to give Post 330 a 4-2 lead in the fifth inning.

Teammate Robert Alexander had given La Verne its first run with a solo shot in the second inning.

Claremont tallied two unearned first-inning runs off winner Dennis Wetzel (1-2) on two hits, two errors and a wild pitch and scored its final run in the sixth when Mike Davis doubled home dick Bell, who had singled.

Montclair exploded for eight runs in the fourth inning to rout Walnut Thorobred, 11-5, in a game halted by darkness after five innings.

The winners built the rally on three hits, five walks and three Walnut errors. Eddy Salazar began the frame with a double, eventually scored, later in the inning singled home a run and scored again.

Don Pierce (2-1) went four innings for the win, surrendering an earned run on two hits.

Post 30 scored two runs in the bottom of the eighth to catch El Monte and send their game into extra innings, but surrendered three runs in the 11th to lose, 5-2.

Joe Jones (4-1) surrendered a bases-loaded walk and a two-run, bad-hop single for the loss.

Pomona scored its two runs in the eight on an RBI single by Joey Chapa and a bases-loaded walk to Jones, but both Larry Reyes and Alan Wells lined out with the sacks full

Rowland harriers running for funds

Ten members of Rowland High School's cross country team ran from Rowland Heights to Huntington Beach last week to raise money for uniforms and a trip to Mammoth this summer.

The 25 mile Marathon was organized by cross country coach, Jim Brown, to help the runners earn their way to a special cross-country invitational at Mammoth where 30 school teams from Southern California are scheduled to compete. Funds also are being raised to buy uniforms and sweat clothes.

Brown said, "the boys would rather earn the money through fund-raising activities than to hit their parents for shoes and things they need to participate in cross-country."

The Marathon runners were: Bob Daggett, Ron and Dave Jimenez, Pete Delgado, Jim Spicer, Richard Ruiz, Dave Tardeville, Rubin Solis, Mark Piazza and Brown.

Donations for the team, from the community, can be sent to Brown at Rowland High. Other fund raising events, including a car wash, are planned for the near future.

Bonita offers football class

A two-week class in "Leadership Training in Theory and Safety of Coaching Youth Football" will be offered by the Bonita School District from July 12 through July 22.

The class will meet from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. in the gym of the San Dimas High School and will be conducted by Coach Bob Baiz.

The class will provide the aspiring coach the opportunity to learn a variety of offensive and defensive philosophies and furnish them with an understanding of current trends in fundamentals and techniques, many of which will be demonstrated on the field.

The course will include presentation by a number of head coaches from high schools in the valley. Such topics as the passing game, multiple offense, split 6 defense and wishbone offense will be discussed.

Enrollment will take place at the first session of the class at which time a $5 fee will be collected. Those interested in working with youth as football coaches are asked to make advance registration by calling (714) 599-6787.

'Equus' to seat students on stage

The Huntington Hartford Theater in Hollywood will seat 60 students on stage for each performance during the six-week engagement of "Equus," opening June 20.

Tickets are now on sale to theatergoers presenting a student identification card at the box office and at all ticket agencies. The prices are $5 Monday through Thursday and Sunday evenings and Wednesday and Saturday matinees, $6 on Friday and Saturday nights.

"Equus" stars Brian Bedford as the psychiatrist, Martin Dysart, and Dal Bradley as Alan Strang, the emotionally confused stable boy who commits a violent crime in a riding stable in England.

Elizabeth Catlett

Artist straddles two cultures

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

Elizabeth Catlett, internationally renowned sculptress and graphics artist, uses knowledge and understanding of black and brown struggles and expressions as a social whip to provide cultural and social experiences for all peoples.

Miss Catlett visited Scripps College art professor and historian Samella Lewis this week while appearing as the W.E.B. Du Bois lecturer for the department of psychiatry and human behavior of Martin Luther King Jr. Hospital, Los Angeles. She returned to her home in Mexico City late Sunday.

Catlett has straddled the cultural environments of the United States and Mexico since 1947 when she went to Mexico City to study on Julius Rosenwald Foundation fellowships. She graduated with honors from Howard University; earned one of the first master of fine arts degrees in sculpture from the State University of Iowa; and studied ceramics at the Art Institute of Chicago and lithography at the Art Students' League of New York City, and privately with sculptors Grant Wood of Iowa, Ossip Zadkine of New York City and Esmeralda of the School of Painting and Sculpture in Mexico City.

While a painting student at Howard, she became involved with the National Student League in demonstrations against war and facism in "1930 something," the dawn before World War II; and once stood with others wearing hangman's nooses about their necks in protest of lynchings of blacks.

She was also a participant in the Southern Negro Youth Congress which was "founded by young, black, morally conscious people with the aims of stopping lynching and equalizing situations in the South for black people."

She left the university teaching atmosphere in the mid-1940s for a two-year stint at the George

ELIZABETH CATLETT

Washington Carver School in Harlem. She recalled that the "loft school on 125th Street was created to fill the educational and cultural needs for Harlem adults -- domestics, factory workers and others. I was the promotions director and taught sculpture and how to make a dress."

The Washington, D.C. native first discovered the essence of the cultural-social experience here and credited it for "shaping life's meaning."

"I didn't like teaching at the universities because there was so much politics and bickering and not much interest in the students. Everything was run for the sake of the teachers and getting ahead. The Carver school was set up to fulfill the needs of the community," she reminisced. "People were culturally starved, especially after working in someone's kitchen all day. It opened up my eyes. People are not uncultured. They just don't have any opportunity to get involved in anything."

From Carver, she left for Mexico and embarked upon the second experience that caused a linking of arms between social-political activities and art. In Mexico City, she became affiliated with the Graphics Art Workshop which was comprised of about 30 Mexican and foreign artists.

"They had a set of principles and the main one was to use the art for the benefit of the Mexican people," she said. "I was lucky to have the Carver and Graphics Art Workshop experiences. They formed me."

"We did graphics because it's a public art and you can do any number of prints to be circulated anywhere. We were involved with the problems of the Mexican people. The artists possess great technical abilities and are also developed politically and socially. We worked the trade unions, student organizations, the government's campaign to build schools in the fight against illiteracy."

In 1958, she was hired as a third-year sculpture professor for the National School of Fine Arts, National Autonomous University of Mexico. A year later, she was named fourth year professor and appointed director of the sculpture department, School of Fine Arts.

Miss Catlett's first major, national award came in 1941 when she captured the top prize in the Golden Jubilee National Exposition of Chicago. In the 35 years since that first award, she has won awards in the United States, Mexico, East Germany, and Cuba; and her works are featured in collections in the Modern Museum of New York City; Mexico's National Institute of Fine Arts, the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C., the National Museum in Prague, Fisk University, State University of Iowa, Atlanta and Howard universities, and private collections in the Americas and Europe.

Miss Catlett is an artist who believes in the intermingling of social and political consciousness with the creative expression. This was particularly noticeable in her 1972 exhibit at Harlem's Studio Museum which gave the American debut to the now famous profile of Malcolm X, the clenched fist and gun of the Black Panther emblem and "Black is Beautiful" portraits and themes.

Her works have been reproduced for books published in the U.S., Mexico, Switzerland, England and East Germany.

She retired from the National University of Mexico last year and is currently finishing up the Louis Armstrong monument to be dedicated in New Orleans on July 4. Mayor Moon Landrieu was so pleased with the 10-foot bronze image of the famed trumpeter that he made Miss Catlett an honorary citizen of New Orleans.

Upon completion of the Armstrong monument, she will begin a half-figure, cast in bronze, of Sojourner Truth, black abolitionist and crusader for women's rights in the 19th century.

"I want to do her with those little spectacles, big and brawny like she was, and defiant," Miss Catlett said with enthusiasm. "She was a real battler."

She will also open a solo show soon at the National Fine Arts Institute in Mexico City. One of four international artists selected to execute a relief on the Chemical Engineering Building of Howard University, she will meet soon with the Exxon Co. financiers sponsoring the project and begin work shortly thereafter on this project.

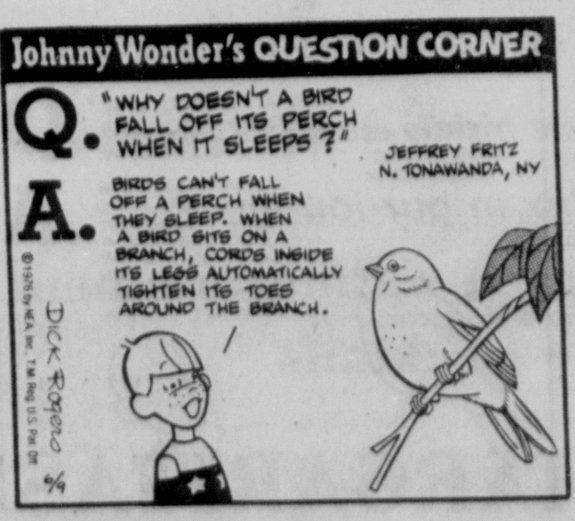
JOHNNY WONDER



Perhaps you, too, have wondered how sparrows and other perching birds can sleep on a twig or branch without falling off. The answer is that the sleeping bird can't fall because its feet are actually "locked" on the perch.

Each of the bird's toes are connected with a cord inside the leg. When the bird sits on a branch, the bending of the leg tightens the cord and pulls the toes around the branch.

As a result, the toes are clamped to the branch and even in sleep the bird cannot lose its hold. The toes are loosened only when the bird awakens and stands up.

By looking at a bird's feet we can tell a good deal about its way of life. The strong feet of hawks and owls are provided with sharp, curved talons with which to catch their prey.

Ducks and other swimming birds have webbed feet which they use to paddle through water.

Still other birds have feet adapted for climbing, scratching, wading, running, and so on.

A World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

Tafoyas observe silver anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Joe B. Tafoya of Pomona recently celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary at a buffet and reception in the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Verbick in Pomona.

One hundred guests attended the event. They have five children, James Verbick, Pomona; Mrs. Maxine Verbick Stallard, Ontario; Mrs. Anna Mae Verbick Aberle, Ontario; Mrs. Rose Mary Tafoya Lopez, Bloomington; and Oran B. Verbick, San Bernardino.

There are 19 grandchildren and four greatgrandchildren.

The couple was married in Yuma, Ariz., May 31, 1951. Both are lifelong residents of Pomona. Mr. Tafoya was employed by Fairbanks Morse for 23 years and by the Claremont Colleges for 11 years. He retired in 1974. Mrs. Tafoya cared for Pacific State Hospital patients in her home, retiring last February.

Writer's Club winners revealed

Recent winners in poetry and nonfiction for the Pomona Valley Writer's Club contest have been announced.

First place for a poem went to Colleen Riggs, Etiwanda; second-place tie went to Ann Racine, Montclair; David Coffman, Cucamonga; and Edna Cash, Ontario; third place to Dominic Rotunno, La Verne.

First-place winner in fiction was John Hendrick, Diamond Bar; second place, Florence Lovgren, Ontario; third place, Virginia Mitchell, Ontario.

The club will hold its next meeting with a contest for nonfiction and juvenile at 7 p.m., Tuesday, in the Ontario Public Library Garden Room.

For July 20 the contest, open only to members and having a Bicentennial theme, will be for fiction and poetry.

Great Bear Lake is 12,275 square miles in area. It is the largest lake entirely within Canada.

WHAT'S IN IT?

Fashion show slated

"Summer Silhouette" is the theme for the 25th annual Pomona Emblem Club fashion show and dinner scheduled Saturday at the Elks Lodge, Pomona.

The 6:30 p.m. 'Chicken Bar-B-Q' will be prepared by members of Pomona Elks, Howard Hanson, Frank Entler, Dick Dempsey, Gene Hanson and William Plutte.

Women's fashions will be from Gene's Fashions' Puente Hills Mall. Men's apparel will be from Ewart's Store for Men, Indian Hill Village. Commentators will be Mrs. Lori Heyman of the club and Bob Moen of Ewart's.

Emblem Club models will be Mmes. Sondra Closson, Maureen Carter, Dena Pattie, Beulah Vaughn and Nell Ogle. Models for men's fashions from Pomona Elks will be William Plutte, Hal Schumacher, Joe Lucier and Ray Mix. Special guest model will be Pomona city treasurer, Mrs. Ruth Redepenning, who will represent the Soroptimist Club.

Mrs. Ernestine Pitts, chairman, has announced that proceeds will be used for various club philanthropies.

Assisting her are: Mmes. Charlotte Beeson, cochairman; Betty Hanson and Flossie Entler, dinner; Helen Gobel and Sondra Closson, decorations; Jo Anne Olson and Carol Ward, awards; Eunice Parsonage and Kay Kendall, dinner reservations; Peggy Jankowski, models; Clover Graves, guest book; Elinor Livingston, publicity; Gypsy Adams, photography; Dottie Romero, programs.

Mrs. Helen Rae Terzo, entertainment chairman, will present Joyce Montini, Karen Sue Price and Meloney Deliger, dancers.

Mrs. Eunice Parsonage is accepting reservations from members and guests. Tickets will also be available at the door.

La Leche meetings set this week

La Leche League, Mt. Baldy View Chapter, has scheduled several meetings this month. Thursday evening the group will meet in Claremont and another group will meet at the same time in San Dimas. A morning meeting is scheduled June 15.

Information on addresses for the meeting may be obtained by calling 593-0427.

Juniors to meet at D.B.

When Diamond Bar Junior Woman's Club holds its first meeting of the new year Thursday plans will be made for projects to be completed during the next season.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. at Diamond Point II Clubhouse. A 7:30 p.m. social hour will precede the meeting.

Mrs. Reida Buehler, dean of chairmen, will present information researched by committee members Estella Ruggiero, Kay Workman and Linda Harris.

On Saturday several members will attend the San Gabriel Valley District workshop to be hosted at First Christian Church, Pomona, by the Pomona Juniors.

The meeting will begin at 9 a.m. and workshops will start at 10 a.m.

Young women, 18 to 35, who are interested in the group may contact Mrs. Richard Masline, 595-8486.

The first membership tea for Diamond Bar Juniors is scheduled June 25 at 10 a.m. in the home of Mrs. Masline, 22523 Lark Spring Terrace, Diamond Bar.

Glass collectors will meet

Bob Corrado will show his collection of Ultramarine Swirl Depression Glass at the Thursday meeting of the Montclair Depression Glass Club.

Club members are invited to bring any rare items of glass for possible identification. The pattern featured this month is Block Optic. The meeting will be held in the New England Room of Imperial Savings and Loan, Claremont.

An auction sale is scheduled with Bob and Ruth Morris in charge of arrangements.

CDA unit receives 4 awards

Three members of Court Our Lady of Fatima attended the 26th biennial state convention of Catholic Daughters of America in Los Angeles.

They brought back the following awards: second place in apostolate, Mrs. John Ganger, chairman; second place in community, Mrs. Maurice Hyatt, chairman; first place in renewal, Miss Alice Macrae, chairman; and first place in the poetry contest. The poetry contest winner, Kathy Wirtes, a student at Our Lady of Lourdes School and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Wirtes of Montclair, will have her poem submitted for competition on the national level.

St. Louis, Mo., was founded in 1764 by Pierre Laclede Liguest, a French fur trader.

Synthetic liberation

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I just learned that our neighbors belong to a mate-swapping group. I find this revolting. And I don't consider myself neurotic or inhibited. I'd like not to see them again but I don't know how to break off our friendship. I don't want to tell my wife about them because I think it will upset her. How can I explain why I suddenly don't want to accept their invitations or have them at our home? — R.S.

Dear R.S.: I'm somewhat disturbed by your reluctance to share your thoughts with your wife. It sounds as if you are trying to protect her as one might try to protect an innocent child. She is a mature adult and it's important to respect her independence and her ability to reach her own conclusions.

I think it's important to discuss this with her. She will undobutedly hear it from other sources. Also, there's no real reason either of you should be threatened by a life style you don't choose to share.

Don't hesitate to be candid with your neighbors. If, however, you feel this would cause unnecessary problems, simply say you have other social commitments. If you decline their invitations, they'll soon get the idea that you have no desire to share their life style. If they continue to pursue you, you may have to be more explicit.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: A constant battle rages among parents in our neighborhood about violence in films and on television, and its effect on children. My husband says it doesn't affect them but I don't agree. My two young sons enjoy violent movies. Rather than get a babysitter my husband often takes them when we go to a movie that I feel they shouldn't see. Am I being overprotective? Should I go along with my husband and some of my permissive neighbors? — R.B.

Dear R.B.: As I'm sure you know, there are as many different views on this topic as there are gory films.

There are also many different kinds of violence, and the number of shots fired or the number of violent encounters in a given story are less important than the motives, setting, characterization and predictability of the ending. If the youngsters are familiar with the ending, as they are in most Westerns and detective stories, the violence is less upsetting.

Recent studies in Belgium and the United States, however, indicate that violent films lead to increased aggressive behaviour. In a study of teenaged boys in Belgium, trained observers noted a significant rise in physical attacks and threatening gestures in both aggressive and nonaggressive boys immediately after they had viewed violent films.

On the other hand, those boys who viewed neutral movies showed a significant decrease in verbal aggressiveness and physical attacks, as well as heightened interaction and fellowship.

In the nonagressive group, a free-for-all fight erupted after the first film was shown.

We know youngsters are impressionable and it appears that violent films can evoke acts of aggression similar to those they see on the screen.

I think parents should assume responsibility for how much filmed violence their children see.

Pomona Juniors install officers

Pomona Junior Women's Club recently installed new officers and initiated new members at a dinner at the Arbor Restaurant in Upland.

Mrs. Sharon DeLuca, past president, was installing officer and Mrs. Sylvia Bishop, Diamond Bar Juniors president, initiated new members.

Taking office as president was Mrs. Terri Holder. Her theme for the coming year will be "Cultivating the Future." Serving with her will be: Mmes. Caren Whiteside, first vice president; Diane Knarr, second vice president; Laura Cramer, third vice president; Marsha Stoudt, secretary; and Lana Watling, treasurer.

MRS. HOLDER

Newly appointed officers of the executive board are: Annette Drake, president's aide; Jan Losee, parliamentarian; Sue Conquest, federation; and Pat Mutz, press and publicity.

Chairmen are Mrs. Diane Mace, assistant dean, and Miss Darlene Scharf, youth chairman. Junior-Senior coordinators appointed by the Palomares Women's Club are Mrs. Peggy Scharf and Mrs. Nora Lee Persons.

Two Pomona Juniors have been selected to serve as district chairmen for the San Gabriel Valley District. They are Mrs. Losee, federation, and Mrs. Conquest, safety.

Women between the ages of 18 and 35 who are interested in joining the organization may call Mrs. Laura Cramer, 985-2156, for more information.

Theater party set

The Pomona International Chapter of the City of Hope for Lilly Moritz will hold its annual theater party Saturday evening.

Members and their guests will see "Sunshine Boys" at 8 p.m. at the Gallery Theater, 126 E. C St., Ontario.

Tickets may be obtained by calling 629-6691.

Check given to City of Hope by unit

The Rick Las Cano Chapter, City of Hope, was represented by the third vice president, Al Espinoza, at the recent Roll Call of the City of Hope.

Mr. Espinoza presented a check of $2,500 from the newly formed chapter, The donation was the largest made that evening.

Foundry busy building new Liberty Bells

LONDON (AP) — The American Bicentennial is booming business at the 550-year-old Whitechapel Bell Foundry which cast the Liberty Bell in 1752.

"You couldn't say we're swamped," says Douglas Hughes, one of the partners in the foundry, "but orders have suddenly pepped up because of the Bicentennial. It will keep us going for part of this year anyway."

Besides the six-ton Bicentennial Bell delivered in Philadelphia last week as a gift from Britain, the foundry is turning out two dozen replicas of the Liberty Bell and thousands of scale models in various sizes.

It has completed 14 full-size, one-ton replicas and has 10 more on order for states, cities and organizations. Each takes two weeks to cast, finish and tune to the E above middle C, Hughes said.

Made of copper and tin with the original mould-making gauge, they are exact duplicates of the Liberty Bell "as it left here in 1752," Hughes said.

He stresses "as it left here" because, he says, the 18th century Yanks rather fouled up the original bell.

"People do not realize how brittle bell metal is," he said. "You can break a piece of it with a hammer in your hand because your hand prevents it from vibrating.

"There is no record of precisely what happened, but probably it was hung wrong because it cracked when it was struck."

It was recast, but "they didn't do a very good job. The two people who recast it were not bell founders; they were brass founders. They put too much brass into the new bell and it was too soft. It wouldn't ring."

A second recasting restored the proper brittleness, but still something wasn't just right. The bell cracked again in 1835.

The foundry plans to cast 2,400 scale models — one for each month of U.S. independence — one-fifth the size of the original. Weighing 22 pounds, they will ring an A, for America.

The six-ton Bicentennial Bell booms a ponderous G below middle C.

About 1,500 of the one-fifth models have been delivered, and the foundry is about to start a one-ninth scale series weighing four or five pounds.

Hughes says the foundry, which turns out thousands of church, carillon and other bells annually, cannot hurry the process no matter how eager some American customers are for a bell to ring on July 4.

"All of our workers are skilled craftsmen," he said. "This isn't the sort of trade where you can take on extra help for a short time."

Republicans seek to make hay out of Hays' troubles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shortly after Rep. Wayne Hays admitted his "personal relationship" with Elizabeth Ray, a Republican state chairman was on the phone to the GOP Congressional Campaign Committee.

What connection, he wanted to know, could be found between a certain Democratic congressman from his state and Hays?

That call and more than a dozen like it from GOP party officials and candidates have prompted committee officials to search for any ties they can turn up connecting the Ohio Democrat to Democratic incumbents.

"In the first couple of days, there were a helluva lot of phone calls," said Steven Stockmeyer, the campaign committee's executive director, during a recent interview in his Capitol Hill office.

In addition, letters accompanying campaign contributions from Republican voters referred disparagingly to the Hays-Ray affair. There was no indication the incident prompted more contributions.

As the calls tapered off, the committee's research department got to work to answer the questions.

Did "Democrat X" in New Jersey support Hays on a controversial vote in 1971 that allowed Hays, rather than the entire Congress, to control congressional office expense allotments?

Did "Democrat Y" in Michigan toe the Hays' line two years later? And what about "Democrat Z" in Texas? Was he supporting Hays in 1975?

"A lot of our candidates are trying to find ways to connect their incumbent Democrats with Hays," said Stockmeyer. "We're helping them to determine key Hays votes in the past four or five years and where these people lined up— whether they were consistent supporters of Hays."

The researchers have also attempted, so far unsuccessfully, to determine which incumbents have been given campaign checks signed by Hays in his role as chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, Stockmeyer said.

Hays, in announcing last week that he would relinquish that post, said he feared that Republicans would attack Democrats by calling attention to the fact that he had signed checks for their campaign funds.

Stockmeyer said he questioned the direct political value in such publicity. But overall, he has little doubt that the Republicans will benefit, at least to some extent, from Hays problems.

While the committee staff goes about its tasks of training Republican candidates and providing them with campaign materials and money, the Hays affair "is just a little assist," said Stockmeyer.

On a smaller scale, the effect the Hays developments will have on Democratic candidates could parallel the Watergate fallout that descended upon the Republicans two years ago, when 75 Democratic freshmen were elected to Congress, Stockmeyer predicted.

GRANT PARCEL 2:

A non-exclusive easement to be used in common with others for the purposes hereafter described, subject to the provisions stated herein, upon the surface of the property herein described and above said said surface to the extent reasonable necessary for the said purposes; said purposes being ingress and egress between said Grant Parcel 1" and Grand Avenue or Rancheria Road; said property being that portion and only that portion of the land described as Parcels 1 through 22, inclusive, in that certain Easement Grant Deed, recorded December 10, 1970, in Book D-4913, Pages 310, et seq., Official Records, in the office of the County Recorder of Los Angeles County, which constitutes the one route which is both the most practicable for said purposes, and the most direct to said Grand Avenue or said Rancheria Road; provided, however, that upon the earlier of (1) the dedication to and acceptance for public use by the appropriate public body of a public street providing ingress and egress continuously between "Grant Parcel 1" and said Grand Avenue or said Rancheria Road, or (2) the completion of construction of an all-weather surface private street at least 20 feet wide at all points providing such ingress and egress, said easement shall automatically be limited to and only upon and above the right of way of said public street. In the event said easement is limited to a public street, such easement shall be and remain subordinate to the rights of the public in and to said public street; and provided, further, that prior to the limitation of such easement to the right of way of a public or private street, as described above, the owner or owners of any property subject to said easement, or of any possessory interest or interests therein, shall at any time have the right to substitute a recorded temporary alternative easement for a period of not more than six calendar months from the date of such recording, for ingress and egress substantially equivalent in actual use to the easement originally granted hereby, when such temporary alternative is reasonably required because of such owner's use or development or the property subject to the easement originally granted hereby, or property of such owner or owners in the vicinity of the property subject to the latter easement. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the easements granted in this "Grant Parcel 2 or portions thereof, shall be confined to a particular portion or portions of the property subject to said easements as originally granted hereby, which portion or portions of such property is described in a "Declaration of Confinement of Easements" hereafter executed by the Diamond Bar Development Corporation, and recorded in the Official Records of the County Recorder of the County of Los Angeles. The Diamond Bar Development Corporation may assign to any successor of its business affairs the rights contained in the immediately preceeding sentence; and

GRANT PARCEL 3:

A non-exclusive easement, over, upon and under the parcels of land hereafter described for the purposes of constructing, maintaining, repairing, relocating, restoring, removing, changing the size of, operating and using, continuously or from time to time, one or more pipe lines, mains, and appurtenances thereto for any sanitary sewer purpose or purposes, and for any purpose or purposes directly or indirectly related thereto; together with the right of ingress and egress to and from the parcel or parcels of land hereafter described, at such times and in such manner as may be appropriate to the use of said easement for the purposes heretofore described, or any of them; said parcel or parcels of land being described as follows:

All of Parcel Map No. 1753, as filed in Book 28, Pages 16 through 40, inclusive, of Parcel Maps, in the office of the County Recorder of said County, except the property referred to as "Grant Parcel 1", above.

The easements granted by this "Grant Parcel 3" may be confined, in whole or in part, to a particular portion or portions of the property subject to said easements which portion or portions of the property is described in one or more documents entitled "Declaration of Confinement of Easements" hereafter executed by The Diamond Bar Development Corporation and recorded in the Official Records of the County Recorder of the County of Los Angeles. The Diamond Bar Development Corporation may assign to any successor of its business affairs the rights contained in the immediately preceeding sentence; and

GRANT PARCEL 4:

A non-exclusive easement to be used on common with others for ingress, egress and utility purposes and only such purposes, under and upon the surface of each of those areas (except those areas located entirely within the boundaries of the property referred to as "Grant Parcel 1" above) shown as "Future Street" on Parcel Map No. 1753, as filed in Book 28, Pages 16, et seq., of Parcel Maps, in the office of the County Recorder of said County), said easement being appurtenant to and for the benefit of the property referred to as "Grant Parcel 1" above; and

GRANT PARCEL 5:

A non-exclusive easement to be used in common with others for ingress, egress and utility purposes, and only such purposes, under and upon the surface of each of those areas (except those areas located entirely within the boundaries of the property referred to as "Grant Parcel 1" above) shown as "Access Easement" on Parcel Map No. 1753, as filed in Book 28, Pages 16, et seq., of Parcel Maps, in the office of the County Recorder of said County, said easement being appurtenant to and for the benefit of the property referred to as "Grant Parcel 1" above; and

GRANT PARCEL 6:

A non-exclusive easement to be used in common with others for slope maintenance purposes, and purposes incidental thereto, and only such purposes, under and upon the surface of each of those areas (except those areas located entirely within the boundaries of the property referred to as "Grant Parcel 1" above) shown on "Slope Easement of the County of Los Angeles" on Parcel Map No. 1753, as filed in Book 28 Pages 16, et seq., of Parcel Maps, in the office of the County Recorder of said County, said Easement being appurtenant to and for the benefit of the property referred to as "Grant Parcel 1" above.

EACH OF THE EASEMENTS granted above, described as Grant Parcels 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 is for the benefit of and is appurtenant to to that real property described as "Grant Parcel 1" above.

SAID sale will be made to satisfy the obligations secured by and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in a certain Deed of Trust executed by PROGRESS ONE, a LIMITED PARTNERSHIP to MORTGAGE CORPORATION OF AMERICA, a California Corp., as Trustee, for the benefit and security of THE DIAMOND BAR DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION, a California corporation, as Beneficiary, dated June 9, 1971, and recorded as instrument No. 4075 on June 28, 1971, in book/reel T7080, page/image 208, of Official Records in the office of the County Recorder of Los Angeles County, State of California.

THAT notice of breach of said obligation and election to sell said real property was recorded as instrument No. 1648 on February 17, 1976, in book/reel M5255, page/image 610, of Official Records in the office of the County Recorder of Los Angeles County, State of California.

THAT said sale is made without covenant or warranty regarding title, possession or encumbrances, or as to insurability of title.

THE beneficiary or any other person or persons may purchase at said sale.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS CALLING FOR BIDS

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Trustees of the WALNUT VALLEY UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT of Los Angeles County, hereinafter referred to as the "District", will receive up to, but no later than 2:00 P.M. of the 24th day of June 1976, sealed bids for the award of a contract for the CONSTRUCTION OF OFF-SITE IMPROVEMENTS AT WALNUT ELEMENTARY SCHOOL LOCATED AT LYCOMING STREET AND LEMON AVENUE, WALNUT, CALIFORNIA; including all appurtenant work. Such bids shall be received in Conference Room No. 1 at the District Administration Center, 476 S. Lemon Road, Walnut, California 91789; and shall be opened and publicly read aloud at the above stated time.

Each bid must conform and be responsive to the contract documents. Copies of the Contract Documents are now on file and open to public inspection in the said offices of the District and of Davis-Duhaime Associates, Architects, 2031 E. Cerritos, Suite H, Anaheim, California, and may be obtained at the office of the Architect.

Each bid shall be accompanied by the security referred to in the contract documents and a list of proposed subcontractors.

All bids shall be made on the bid form furnished by the District.

The District reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to waive any irregularities or informalities in any bid or in the bidding.

The District has determined the general prevailing rate of hourly wages in the locality in which this work is to be performed for each craft or type of workman needed to execute a contract, which will be awarded to the successful bidder or bidders, to be as listed below:

Any classification not anticipated and below listed shall be paid at the current wage rates for the applicable trade and classification in effect with the Building & Construction Trades Councils. If any rates listed below are not current or are revised by labor agreements during the bidding time or construction time, such revisions shall be considered a part of the below listed rates.

Maintenance Machinists-Mechanic
We currently have openings in our City of Industry facility (the world's largest toy manufacturing plant) for hard-charging maintenance machinists-mechanics with good machine tooling experience. You will perform maintenance, construction and trouble shooting of semi-automatic production and conveyorized machinery used in high volume assembly operations including pneumatic and hydraulic operated equipment. Familiarity with wiring of this type of machinery is desirable, carpentry is also desirable.
To qualify for this challenging and stimulating opportunity, candidates must be either a journeyman maintenance machinist or mechanic and have completed an apprenticeship program or have at least 7 years solid experience. A fine salary, great company benefits and a modern and exciting work environment. Apply at

FedMart Steel Belted Radial Tire Limited Warranty

FedMart warrants its FedMart steel belted radial tires for 40,000 miles, when used in normal family passenger car service. If you do not receive the total miles specified because your tire becomes unserviceable due to failure relating to the material or workmanship, normal road hazards or tread wearout: we will, upon return of tire, give you a refund on the proportion of the then current selling price, including all taxes, representing mileage not received. Nail punctures will be repaired at no charge.

LIMITED WARRANTY

WARDS warrants its passenger car tires for specified miles when used on passenger cars, except taxis. If your tire does not give you this mileage because of: defects; normal road hazard failure, or premature tread wearout unless due to misalignment, WARDS will: 1. During first 10% of warranted mileage, replace the tire free; 2. During the remaining mileage, replace for a prorata charge based on mileage used.

For adjustments, return tire to Wards with Warranty Booklet.

The new JCPenney Aramid Belted Radial.

Full 2 yr. warranty

with full replacement regardless of mileage.

Aramid! The tire fiber that's stronger than steel.

Our new radial tire is so rugged, we've given it our first full two year warranty. It's belted with an amazing new fiber called Aramid that pound for pound is actually stronger than steel. Other outstanding features: polyester radial ply body, special sidewall stabilizers, 7 rib tread design and whitewalls.

The new JCPenney Aramid Belted Radial. It could make steel belted radials obsolete.

JCPenney ARAMID BELTED RADIAL WARRANTY
FULL 2 YEAR WARRANTY for your private car.

If this tire becomes unserviceable, return it to us. We will replace it free, regardless of of mileage.

Limited Warranty on Road Hazards and Defects in Material and Workmanship Extending Between 24 Months of Use and Last 2/32 inch of Tread Remaining.
If our Aramid Belted Radial tire fails due to road hazard or defects in material or workmanship after 24 months of use, we will, at our option repair or replace the tire charging only the portion of the current selling price (plus Federal Excise Tax) where applicable that represents tread used. This warranty is no longer effective when the tread indicators appear in the tire showing that only 2/32" of tread remains. Just return the tire to us. This warranty applies only to tires used on private cars.

Limited Warranty on Tread Wear Extending Between 24 Months of Use and Last 2/32 Inch of Tread Remaining.
If the Aramid Belted Radials wear down to the tread indicators that appear when only 2/32" of tread remains after 24 months of use and before 44 months of use, we will make an adjustment as shown in the chart below. Wearout caused by misalignment is excluded. In return for the tire, we will provide a new tire, charging the then-current selling price, less the following allowance (plus Federal Excise Tax where applicable).

Warranty Period	Allowance

Cargomaster II truck tires.

Nylon cord construction. Highway light truck tire for campers, panels, pick-ups and vans. No trade-in required.
